

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

THE publishers of the previous Boston editions of this Grammar, now offer a new and improved edition of a work which has become generally known and esteemed.

When it was first determined to reprint this judicious system of theoretically and practically teaching the French language, a perfect conviction was felt that it would meet the approbation of the wise and learned as soon as it was known; and the rapid sale of six editions in the United States within a few years has fully realized that expectation and given indubitable evidence of the intrinsic merit of this mode of instruction.

In London this Grammar has passed through sixteen editions, and it has likewise been printed several times at Paris.

Previous to the printing of every new edition the American publishers have always been careful to procure the latest English copy, in order to profit by any improvement which may have been made in succeeding editions, and this attention has always proved advantageous. Besides this, every edition has been carefully revised, enlarged and improved by the same editor, who, in the present, has availed himself of the alterations and meliorations liberally furnished by a worthy and intelligent Instructor. Therefore, it is confidently believed that this Grammar will continue to deserve the high standing it has attained, both in Europe and America, among the real judges of similar publications.

This work is now introduced into some of the first literary institutions in the country, and particularly into the University at Cambridge, and St. Mary's College in Baltimore.

Boston, March, 1824.

PREFACE.

THAT "a great book is a great evil" is generally a great truth, for the discovery of which we moderns must hold ourselves indebted to the sages of antiquity. In the following sheets, I have endeavoured to improve upon the ancient maxim, and bring the two ends of the book as near together as I possibly could. On this frugal plan, the preface might have been spared, but custom must be complied with: some part of our time must be spent on superfluities; and what is rendered venerable by age must not too hastily be rejected. To enter abruptly upon the main subject is generally considered as a breach of politeness. What is useful must sometimes give place to what is convenient, and what rigorous justice cannot defend, may yet enjoy the security of prescription. In compliance, therefore, with universal custom, with the general practice of the ancients, and, what is still more forcible, the urgent solicitation of the booksellers, I proceed to lay before the Reader the general Plan of the Work.

The idea of the PRACTICAL GRAMMAR was first suggested to the Author in the course of his private teaching. He found daily the inconvenience of referring from book to book, and determined to supply the defect in the best manner he could. Whatever was necessary to furnish a tolerable acquaintance with the elements of the language, and point out the nature of its construction, he proposed to admit; and reject every thing that was not essentially connected with his principal design. His first object was to comprise, in as little room as possible, every thing that was really useful in the grammar, the exercise-book, and the book of dialogues. To this plan, he has strictly adhered in the composition, and has brought the whole together in a much smaller compass than, at first, could reasonably have been expected.

The several parts of speech are arranged in the usual order, and each part is discussed under a separate section.

Each rule is followed by a familiar exercise, which the master may use in the place of a dialogue.

The advantages resulting from the scholars learning and then repeating their own translations by heart must, in the opinion of impartial and disinterested minds materially tend to their improvement;

by these means, the pupils, uniting practice to theory, not only become imperceptibly acquainted with the French phraseology, which in many instances differs so much from the English construction, but immediately know what is the English word that corresponds with the French, and vice versâ, which cannot absolutely be done, in a dialogue where the French is ready made for them. Therefore, in order the more fully to answer the Author's intention, he has, instead of fine sentences, extracted from the most elegant writers, and often above the comprehension of young people, preferred, and made use, throughout all the exercises, of plain and easy sentences, which, at the same time they are within the reach of the young learners' faculties, will soon enable them to speak the French language with propriety and elegance. What more can be expected from an elementary book?

At the close of every section, a recapitulatory exercise is given upon all the preceding rules.

When there is any difference in the order of arrangement, the French construction is pointed out by the small figures placed against the top of the words in the English sentence.

Some of the most remarkable French idioms are noticed, and exemplified by various instances. Many others might have been adduced, perhaps, to very little profit. The idiomatical expressions are daily giving way to a regular syntactical form, and growing into disuse with the best masters.

A few general rules for pronunciation only have been given. From all the attempts that have hitherto been made, it does not appear that any adequate idea of it can be conveyed in writing. The ear cannot be properly formed without the assistance of a good speaker.

Throughout the whole composition, the Author's chief aim has been to unite ease and simplicity with accuracy and precision. That he has sometimes said too little where more was required, and sometimes too much where less would have been sufficient, he does not take upon himself to assert. That he has sometimes failed through negligence, and many times through ignorance, he has also great reason to fear. His daily avocations left him but little time for study, and his want of a better acquaintance with the English language may have subjected him to many inaccuracies in his style, and sometimes, perhaps, to palpable improprieties.

The author cheerfully embraces this opportunity of making his most grateful acknowledgments to the Public, for the favourable reception given to the former editions of this Grammar, and, in general, to all his other works: while he is perfectly sensible of the obligation, he is also sensible that much indulgence was required to justify the favours he has already received, either as a TEACHER or as an AUTHOR. That generous indulgence he again solicits for their acceptance in this new edition, and begs to assure them, that, in every situation of life, it will be his constant care, as well as his highest ambition, to deserve the flattering encouragement he has met with in this country, and never forget the obligations already conferred.

In this edition the errors in the former publications are carefully corrected, the several expressions which did not so well please in the course of practice, have been altered, and every improvement added, that could tend to facilitate the attainment of the French language. It having been suggested, by some gentlemen, to whose judgment the Author pays the greatest deference, that the irregular verbs, being arranged in alphabetical order, in the body of the book, would be a considerable improvement to the work, and facilitate the progress of the scholar, this is done in the present edition. The primitives of the irregular verbs are conjugated at length, and at the end of each are given their several compounds, with large exercises, both upon the primitives and compounds.

* The two consonants g and j are sounded in the Alphabet like s in pleasure or s in asure.

† U has no similar sound in English, and must be learned from a master.

‡ In the new pronunciation e after each consonant is sounded as in the English word barber, faintly sounding the r.

A PRACTICAL

FRENCH GRAMMAR.

SECTION I.

GRAMMAR is the art of speaking and writing in any language with propriety; or, it is the art of rightly expressing our thoughts by words.

Grammar is of two kinds, general and particular. Universal grammar considers language in itself, explains the principles which are alike common to every tongue, and distinguishes, with precision, between those particulars which are essential and those which are only accidental. Particular grammar applies these common principles to a particular language, and furnishes certain rules and observations which are, either mediately or immediately, deducible from its common principles.

A grammar of the French tongue must be formed agreeably to the established usage, and those particular modes of expression, to which custom has given its sanction. It has therefore for its object, in common with all other grammars, the consideration of letters, syllables, words, sentences, &c.

ALPHABET;—is composed of twenty-five letters, of which words are formed; five of them, a, e, i, o, u, are distinguished by the name of vowels, which form a perfect sound of themselves. The twenty other letters b, c, d, f, g, h, j, k, l, m, n, p, q, r, s, t, v, x, y, z, are called consonants, and cannot be pronounced but when joined with vowels, except y, which has often the sound of double i, and of which some make a sixth vowel.

VOWELS, three sorts ;—SIMPLE, a, e, i, o, u, which are subdivided into short and long, the sound of which is more prolonged and deeper.

COMPOUND, of two or three simple vowels, as ai, ei, oi, ui, au, eu, ou, æ, œu : ai has the sound of e mute in faisant,* and the sound of e close in je lirai, as well as in all the verbs in the first person singular of the future.

NASAL, when they are joined to m or n, and when they form only one sound, as an, am, en, em, in, im, ain, ein.

DIPHTHONG ;—Is the union of several vowels, the pronunciation of which causes two sounds to be heard by a single impulse of the voice. Dieu, yeux, niais, pion, ouïe, mien, are diphthongs : yet, Caen, eau, paon, craie, are not so, because they are pronounced Can, ô, pan, cré.

ACCENTS, three sorts ;—The acute', the grave', and the circumflex ^, serve to modify the sound of the vowels ; the office of the latter is to render long the vowels which are affected by it ; thus pronounce â, ê, î, ô, û, by a greater opening of the mouth, almost as if it were aa, ee, ii, oo, uu. It is thus we write âge, instead of aage ; this is also the reason why it is placed over the vowels that were formerly followed by an s, which has been dropped, since it is no longer pronounced ; as in asne, beste, in which the suppression of the s, requires that we should write âne, bête, in order to shew that â and ê are long.

KINDS of E, five ;—Two KINDS, Mute : 1st.—One whose dull sound is almost null in brave, encore, which are pronounced no otherwise than brav, encor.

2d.—The other, the sound of which, although obscure, can be prolonged, nearly as the sound of eu, in je, me, te, revenir, redemander.

3d.—CLOSE, by the accent Acute, in bonté ; also ez is equivalent to é, as in voyez, lisez, touchez, &c.

* See Faire, page 290.

4th.—OPEN, by the accent Grave, in accès, sucées, nêfle, which accent is suppressed in greffe, sans cesse, abbesse.

5th.—VERY OPEN, by the accent Circumflex, in être, tête, tempête, which were formerly pronounced and written estre, teste, &c.

MIDDLE, followed by a double consonant, and the sound of which is between that of é close and è open, in maisonnette, musette, poulette.

The DIÆRESIS, (¨)—Which is placed over the vowels ë, ï, ü, and causes them to be pronounced separately from the preceding vowel as in poëte, aïeul, Saül, and may be ranked among the accents.

The CEDILLA, (,)—A little dash, which is put under the c, is also a sort of accent, since it serves to modify the hard pronunciation which it would otherwise have before the vowels a, o, u, and to change it into that of S; it is thus we pronounce it in françois, façon, reçu.

The APOSTROPHE, (') ;—Is only a comma put over the place which the vowel e or a ought to occupy, which is suppressed when the word following begins with a vowel or an h not aspirate; * thus, instead of le esprit, aspirate, the article remains entire ; we must not say l'héros, but pronounce le héros, du héros, au héros.

VARIATION IN THE PRONUNCIATION OF CONSONANTS ;—C is pronounced hard like k before the vowels a, o, u, in cocarde, cube ; like s before e, i, in écité. There are even some words in which it is pronounced like g, as in second, &c. G is pronounced hard before a, o, u ; like j, before e, i ; when we wish to modify its pronunciation before a, o, u, an e is placed after it, as in, il gagea, nageoire ; when on the contrary we wish to have it pronounced hard before e, i, an u is placed after it, as in guérir, guide. H is of two sorts, aspirated as in haïr, envahir ; then the consonants by which it is preceded are not sounded ; it is called mute, when it is not pronounced at all, as in homme, héroïne. The h of héros is aspirate, that of its derivatives is not so. Q when not the last letter of a word, as in cinq, is never used without being followed by u, which gives it the pronunciation of k as in qui, quelconque ; yet in several words u has retained its ancient sound of ou, and then qu is pronounced like kou, as in aquatique, équation. S is pronounced hard in salut, sénat ; but between two vowels, it takes the pronunciation of z, as in viser, raison, &c. T followed by i and another vowel, is pronounced like c, as in partial, partiel, portion ; but if ti is preceded by s or x, or if it is at the beginning of a word, it is pronounced hard, as in tirer, question, mixture. X is pronounced like cs in fixer, taxer ; like gz in examen, exhypocrite, hypothèque,

hypothéquer,

hypocrite || hypothèse,
mortgage || hysope,
to mortgage || hystérique,

hypothesis
hysterie

In a familiar discourse, the letter h is not aspirated in the following words, viz. Hanovre, Hollande, and Hongrie, when either of them is preceded by the particle de ; for though we always say le Hanovre, la Hollande and la Hongrie, yet it is usual to say and write l'Electorat d'Hanovre, la Reine d'Hongrie, la toile d'Hollande, and the like. As to other national and proper names, the initial h is aspirated in most of them ; as in Hainaut, Hambourgh, Havanne, Henri, &c. but in Hamilton, Harcourt, Hector, Hélène, Hercule, Hérode, Hemère, Horace, and Hyppolite, it is mute.

ample ; and like s in six, dix, soixante. Ch is generally pronounced like sh, as in chat ; yet it is pronounced often like k : Christ, orchestre, bacchante, are examples. Rh, th, ph, are pronounced like r, t, f, in rhume, thème, philosophie, which are pronounced rume, tème, filosofo.

A SYLLABLE, whether composed of one or more letters, requires, in the pronunciation, no more than a single impulse of the voice : ex. ba, me, moi, &c.

A WORD may consist of one syllable, or of many compacted into one meaning ; for, a word is the smallest part of speech which is in itself significant : ex. mon, my ; livre, book, &c.

A SENTENCE, OR PHRASE, is an assemblage of words arranged in their proper order, forming a sense either more or less complete : ex.

Je suis votre ami,	I am your friend.
J'écrivis hier à votre tante,	I yesterday wrote to your aunt.

A PERIOD may consist of two or three sentences joined together, so that they depend on one another to form a complete sense. Each of the sentences forming part of a period is called a member of the period : ex.

Les grands hommes sont rares ;	Great men are scarce ; we
on doit les respecter, et l'on	ought to respect them,
devroit toujours travailler à	and constantly endeavour to
se rendre semblable à eux.	resemble them.

A DISCOURSE, OR SPEECH, is an assemblage of sentences (or phrases) and periods, joined together, and arranged according to the rules of the language.

KINDS OF WORDS.

There are, in the French tongue, nine different sorts of words, which are generally called the nine parts of speech, viz.

- | | |
|------------------------|---------------------|
| 1. L'ARTICLE, | ARTICLE. |
| 2. LE NOM ET ADJECTIF, | NOUN AND ADJECTIVE. |
| 3. LE PRONOM, | PRONOUN. |
| 4. LE VERBE, | VERB. |

5. LE PARTICIPE,	PARTICIPE.
6. L'ADVERBE,	ADVERB.
7. LA PREPOSITION,	PREPOSITION.
8. LA CONJONCTION,	CONJUNCTION.
9. L'INTERJECTION,	INTERJECTION.

Five of them are declinable ; that is to say, the radical part of the word remaining the same, the other parts, but especially the termination, will admit of several variations. These declinable words are, the article, noun and adjective, pronoun, verb, and participle.

The four last, as they never vary their terminations, are therefore called indeclinable.

GENERAL EXPLANATION.

The ARTICLES are certain minute words, which, joined to nouns, determine the extent of their signification, and which, in French, denote their gender, number, and case, corresponding to the English words, the, of the, from the, and to the. These in French, are

Le, la, les,	The
De, du, de la, des,	Of or from the.
A, au, à la, aux,	To the.

The NOUN, in general, is a word which is used to name or qualify every thing which is the object of discourse : ex.

Papier,	Paper.	Bon,	Good.
Plume,	Pen.	Petit,	Little.
Pain,	Bread.	Mauvais,	Bad, &c.

The PRONOUN is a word commonly substituted in the place of the noun, to avoid its too frequent repetition : ex.

J'ai vu M. votre père, et lui ai parlé, I saw your father, and spoke to him.

In this instance the word lui, to him, is put to avoid the repetition of the word père, father.

The VERB is a word which either expresses the state of the subject, or an action done by the subject, or the action received or suffered by the subject : ex.

Mon frère est malade,
Ma sœur écrit une lettre,
Votre cousin est puni,

My brother is ill.
 My sister writes a letter.
 Your cousin is punished.

The verb is varied by modes, tenses, persons, and numbers.

The PARTICIPLE partakes both of the nature of the verb and the noun adjective : ex.

Ayant, Having Donnant, Giving.

Aimé, Loved.
Puni, Punished, &c.

The ADVERB is sometimes joined to the noun, but more frequently to the verb, whence it derives its name. The use of the adverb is, to determine the signification of the noun or verb, or express some particular modification or circumstance of the action or quality : ex.

Je vous aime sincèrement,
Venez demain,

I love you sincerely.
 Come to-morrow.

In these instances the words sincerely and to-morrow are adverbs.

The PREPOSITION is a word which is put before the noun or pronoun, and it always governs the word before which it is placed : ex.

Chez mon ami,
Devant moi,

At my friend's house.
Before me, &c.

The CONJUNCTION serves to connect the several parts of a discourse : ex. et, and ; car, for ; mais, but, &c.

The INTERJECTION is a word which expresses the different affections or passions of the soul : ex.

Hélas ! mon Dieu !

Oh ! my God ! &c.

A more particular delineation of these nine parts of speech, and their use in the composition of a sentence, or period, will be the subject of the following sections.

SECTION II.

OF NOUNS.

NOUNS are divided into substantives and adjectives.
 A NOUN SUBSTANTIVE expresses a thing subsisting by itself, and can make a complete sense independent of any other word: ex. Dieu, God; roi, king; maison, house, &c.

A NOUN SUBSTANTIVE is either common, collective, or proper.

A COMMON NOUN is applicable to all beings or things of the same kind: ex. homme, man; roi, king; ville, town; table, table, &c.

A COLLECTIVE NOUN is expressive of many particulars; yet, as these particulars are all united in the mind, and comprehended under one general idea, they may therefore be conceived as one individual, and, without any impropriety, expressed in the singular number: ex. peuple, people; forêt, forest; armée, army, &c.

A PROPER NOUN is applicable to one person or thing only: ex. Pierre, Peter; Londres, London, &c.

N. B. A noun is always a substantive when we cannot, with propriety, add to it the word personne, person, or the word chose, thing.

A NOUN ADJECTIVE is used to express the quality, colour, form or quantity, of the substance to which it belongs; and is so called because its meaning cannot be ascertained without being joined to its proper substantive, with which it must also agree in gender, number, and case: ex. bon, good; aimable, lovely; rouge, red; jaune, yellow; rond, round; carré, square; un, one; deux, two; trois, three, &c.

N. B. The noun is always adjective when we can add to it the word personne or chose, person or thing.

In NOUNS, four things must be considered, viz.

Les Articles,
Les Genres,
Les Nombres,
Les Cas,

The Articles.
The Genders.
The Numbers.
The Cases.

ARTICLES.

There are three sorts of Articles, viz.

L'Article défini,
L'Article partitif,
L'Article indéfini,

The Article definite.
The Article partitive.
The Article indefinite.

The Article must always agree with the noun in gender and number.

The DEFINITE ARTICLE is so called, because it means the whole of the object to which it is applied.

SINGULAR.

Le, for the masculine, before nouns beginning with a consonant or h aspirated; ex. le roi, the king; le héros, the hero, &c.

La, for the feminine: ex. la reine, the queen, &c.

L', with an elision, for both genders, before nouns singular beginning with a vowel or h not aspirated: ex. l'enfant, the child; l'homme, the man, &c.

PLURAL.

Les, for both genders, whether the noun begin with a consonant or a vowel: ex. les rois, the kings; les reines, the queens; les enfans, the children, &c.

The PARTITIVE ARTICLE means only a part of the object, the English word SOME being always expressed or implied.

SINGULAR.

These two articles are used
Du, for the masc. } before nouns beginning with a De la, for the fem. } consonant or h aspirated: ex. du pain, some bread; de la viande, some meat.

De l', for both genders, beginning with a vowel or an h not aspirated: ex. de l'encre, some ink.

PLURAL.

Des, for both genders: ex. des amis, some friends.

The INDEFINITE ARTICLE is de or d', of, from, and à, to.

This article is used, without distinction, before nouns masculine and feminine in both numbers. Proper names, and the greater part of the pronouns, are declined with it.

Some grammarians admit of a fourth article, viz. un for the masculine, and une for the feminine, in English a or an; but it may be observed, that it is always declined with the indefinite article; and therefore takes the nature of a noun adjective.

GENDERS AND NUMBERS.

There are two GENDERS, viz. the masculine and feminine. A noun is masculine when there is before it le or un, as le or un livre, the or a book. A noun is feminine when it is preceded by la or une, as la or une plume, the or a pen.

There are two NUMBERS, the singular and plural. The singular number speaks of one thing only, as une table, a table: the plural speaks of more than one, as, des tables, tables. There are some nouns that are never used but in the singular number: as,

1. The names of metals: ex. or, gold; argent, silver; cuivre, brass; plomb, lead, &c.
2. The names of virtues and vices: ex. avarice, avarice; charité, charity; foi, faith; haine, hatred; orgueil, pride; prodigalité, prodigality, &c.
3. The names by which the five senses are denoted: ex. la vue, the sight; le goût, the taste; l'odorat, the smell; le toucher, feeling; l'ouïe, hearing.
4. Proper names, except when they are used metaphorically.
5. To the foregoing may be added the following, which are not reducible to any general rules:

Artillerie ,	artillery.	Faim ,	hunger.
Attirail ,	implements.	Fumée ,	smoke.
Bonheur ,	happiness.	Fuite ,	flight.
Colère ,	anger.	Gloire ,	glory.
Courroux ,	wrath.	Honte ,	shame.
Enfance ,	infancy.	Jeunesse ,	youth.
Lait ,	milk.	Salut ,	safety.
Miel ,	honey.	Soif ,	thirst.
Noblesse ,	nobility.	Sommeil ,	sleep.
Pauvreté ,	poverty.	Vieillesse ,	old age.
Sang ,	blood.

There are others which are never used but in the plural number only; such as,

Ancêtres,	ancestors.	Atours,	apparel.
Ayeux,	forefathers.	Ciseaux,	scissars.
Funérailles,	a funeral.	Hardes,	clothes.
Frais,	expense.	Limites,	limits.
Délices,	delight.	Mœurs,	manners.
Dépens,	cost.	Mouchettes,	snuffers.
Entrailles,	entrails.	Ténèbres,	darkness.
Epousailles,	espousals.	Vivres,	victuals.
Fonts,	font.

And, in general, those which, in English, admit of no singular.

In general the plural number is formed by adding an s to the singular : ex.

Le père, the father ; les pères, the fathers,
La mère, the mother ; les mères, the mothers, &c.

All nouns, having their singular ending in s, x, or z, admit of no variation in the plural : ex.

Le fils, the son ; les fils, the sons.
Une noix, a walnut ; des noix, walnuts.
Le nez, the nose ; les nez, the noses.

EXCEPTIONS.

Nouns ending in au, eau, eu, œu, ieu, or ou, form their plural by x, instead of s : ex.

Un chapeau, a hat ; des chapeaux, hats.
Un manteau, a cloak ; des manteaux, cloaks.
Un lieu, a place ; des lieux, places.
Un chou, a cabbage ; des choux, cabbages.

The following differ from this rule, and their plural terminates in s : ex.

Un matou, a great cat ; des matous, great cats.
Un sou, a cent ; des sous, cents.
Un trou, a hole ; des trous, holes.
Un licou, a halter ; des licous, halters.

Nouns ending in al and ail have their plural in aux : ex.

Un animal, a living creature ; des animaux, living creatures.
Un cheval, a horse ; des chevaux, horses.
Un travail, a work ; des travaux, works.

These only are excepted :

Un Bal , a ball,	Un Gouzernail , a helm,
Détail , account, retail,	Un Sérail , a seraglio,
Eventail , a fan,	Un Portail , a gateway.

Which form their plural in s.

Nouns of more than one syllable (polysyllables) ending in nt, most generally form their plural by changing the t into s : as,

Enfant , a child;	enfants , children.
Commandement , command;	commandemens , commands.

But nouns of one syllable only (monosyllables) preserve the t, and form their plural by adding s : as,

Dent , tooth;	dents , teeth.
Pont , bridge;	ponts , bridges.

Tout, adj. all, makes tous, in its plural masculine; toute in the feminine gender sing. and toutes in the plural.

The following are not conformable to any established rule.

Ayeul , grandfather;	ayeux , grandfathers.
Bétail , cattle;	bestiaux , cattle.
Ciel , heaven;	cieux , heavens.
Œil , eye;	yeux , eyes.

Except { des ciels de lit,* testers of a bed.
 { des œils de bœuf, ovals.

There are in French several compound words like the last two, which require some attention from the learner, in the formation of their plural, the difficulty of which may soon be removed by means of reflection; for example :

A noun being composed of a substantive and an adjective, united by a hyphen, both admit of the plural formation : as,

Un gentil-homme , a noble-	des gentils-hommes , nobleman ;	men.

A noun compounded of two substantives and a preposition, united by hyphens, the first only in French,

* This term is growing obsolete : it is better to say, un fond de lit.

which is generally the last in English, admits of the plural formation : as,

Un arc-en-ciel, a rainbow ; des arcs-en-ciel, rainbows.
Un chef-d'œuvre, a master-piece. des chefs-d'œuvre, master-pieces.

N. B. Some of these French compound words are sometimes rendered in English by one word, in which case the formation of the plural in the French is still the same : as,

Un cul-de-sac, an alley (without egress) ; des culs-de-sac, alleys.

Nouns composed of a verb or a preposition and a substantive, the substantive only admits of the plural formation : as,

Un avant-toit, eaves, des avant-toits, eaves,
Un casse-noisette, a nut-cracker ; des casse-noisettes, nut-crackers.

Un garde-fou, a rail ; des garde-foux, rails, &c.

Monseigneur , my lord	$\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{make in the} \\ \text{plural} \end{array} \right\}$	Messeigneurs , my lords.
Monsieur , Mr. or gent.		Messieurs , gentlemen.
Madame , Mrs. or madam		Mesdames , ladies.
Mademoiselle , miss		Mesdemoiselles , misses.

CASES.

There are six cases, viz.

- | | |
|--------------------------|-------------|
| 1. Le Nominatif , | Nominative. |
| 2. Le Génitif , | Genitive. |
| 3. Le Datif , | Dative. |
| 4. L'Accusatif , | Accusative. |
| 5. Le Vocatif , | Vocative. |
| 6. L'Ablatif , | Ablative. |

The NOMINATIVE and ACCUSATIVE cases have exactly the same form, and are always declined with the same article ; the only difference between them arises from their different positions in the sentence.

In the natural construction, the nominative always precedes the verb, and the accusative follows it. The nominative is the subject of the sentence, and the accusative is the object to which it refers: ex.

Le roi aime le peuple, The king loves the people.

In order to know the nominative from the accusative, I ask, Who loves the people? THE KING (which is the answer) is the subject, and consequently the nominative. Whom or what does the King love? The answer is THE PEOPLE, which is the object, and therefore the accusative.

The GENITIVE and ABLATIVE are declined with the same article, but the first is always preceded by another word on which it depends: as,

La porte de la chambre, The chamber door, that is,
the door of the chamber.
La maison de mon père, My father's house, &c.

Or it is governed by a preposition, as,
Près du feu, Near the fire, &c.

The last is always put after nouns or verbs expressing division, partition, or separation; and after some prepositions. The genitive is known by the articles de, du, de la, des, of or of the. Sometimes the article is not expressed in English, as may be seen in the sentences before mentioned. The ablative is known by the articles de, du, de la, des, from or from the.

The DATIVE shows to whom the thing spoken of, is given, or to what it is attributed: as, Donnez cette pomme à mon frère, Give that apple to my brother.

This case is known by the articles à, au, à la, aux, to or to the.

The VOCATIVE is used only for calling or naming the person to whom the speech is addressed: as,

Ami, qui êtes-vous? Friend, who are you?

DECLENSIONS OF NOUNS.

All changes in nouns are formed by numbers and cases. To decline a noun, therefore, is to express its several variations ; and, under these variations, to point out its different significations.

Some short examples are added to the nouns, that learners may more easily understand what has been said respecting the cases.

Declension of the Article Definite Le (the), before Nouns masculine beginning with a Consonant, or an H aspirated.

Dat.	Au,	à la,	à l' ;	Aux,	to the.

* See the list of words beginning with an h not aspirated, page 15.

The definite article must be placed, in French, before all nouns used in a general sense, or denoting a whole species of objects, and before names of countries and provinces, though the English admit of no article in this case : ex.

L'homme est mortel,	Man is mortal.
Le Danemarc, la Suède et l'Angleterre, sont les trois royaumes du nord,	Denmark, Sweden, and England, are the three northern kingdoms.

On the contrary, this article, though expressed in English, must be omitted in French, before a noun employed as an apposition, or definition of the noun which precedes; and when it precedes a noun in the nominative or accusative case, denoting dignity, office, or business: ex.

In several instances, the definite article is neither expressed in English nor in French, as in narrations, when the style is animated ; and after the conjunction ni, when it implies a complete negation, otherwise it has an article, requiring in both cases the negation ne before the verb : ex.

 lit,m. sont faits,

When, in English, two or more substantives, signifying different things, come together in a sentence, having a dependence on each other, and having no stop between them, the last (in English) must be placed at the beginning of the sentence (in French), and the others having the sign of the English possessive case, thus (') or (s) only, come after it, with the genitive of this article before them, according to their gender and number: ex.

Le fils du roi, The king's son.
La couronne de la reine, The queen's crown.

 des auteurs, some authors.
 Gen. Ab. { de livres, of or from some books.
 d'auteurs, of or from some authors.
 Dat. { à des livres, to some books.
 à des auteurs, to some authors.

N. B. In asking a question, the English generally make use of any, which, in French, must be rendered by the same article, as some : ex.

Y a-t-il du pain ici ? Is there any bread here ?
Avez-vous de la viande ? Have you any meat ?

This article must be used wherever the English word some, or any, is either expressed or understood, and ought to be repeated before every substantive in a sentence : ex.

Du pain et de l'eau lui suffisent,	Bread and water are sufficient for him.
Apportez du vinaigre, de la moutarde, de l'huile et des fourchettes,	Bring some vinegar, mustard, oil and forks.

N. B. This last rule is without exception. But some persons find it difficult to distinguish between the genitive of the definite and this article; now let them but parse, and they will perceive that in this phrase: Lonres est le centre du bon goût, du is no more than the genitive of the definite article denoting what kind of taste.

N. B. It is necessary to observe, that the particle To, used after a word signifying coming, going, returning, or sending to, placed before the name of a kingdom, republic, country, province, or county, must be rendered in French by the preposition en, without any article : ex.

Mon frère est allé en Italie, My brother is gone to Italy.
Il doit bientôt retourner en He is soon to go back to Amérique, America.

On the contrary, to must be rendered by de, when immediately preceded by the words road, or path-way : ex.

Le chemin de Londres, The road to London.
Le chemin de Paris, The way to Paris.

It must be observed that the proper names of most of the islands and other countries both in the East and West-Indies, and a few places in Europe, do not follow the above rule, but take the definite article, such as l'Abyssinie, Abyssinia ; le Brésil, Brasil ; le Caire, Cairo ; le Canada, Canada ; la Guadeloupe, Guadeloupe ; la Jamaïque, Jamaica ; le Japon, Japan ; la Martinique, Martinico ; le Pérou, Peru ; la Virginie, Virginia ; le Mexique, Mexico ; and a few others : ex.

De is placed after the adjectives signifying dimension, as épais, thick; gros, big, large; haut, high, tall; large, wide, broad; long, long; and profond, deep; though there is no article expressed in English: ex.

Une table longue de dix pieds et large de huit, A table ten feet long and eight broad.

But there is a more elegant way, which is, to turn the adjective of dimension into the substantive; then the words of measure and those of dimension are preceded by de: ex.

Une table de dix pieds de longueur et de huit de largeur, A table ten feet long and eight broad.

In this last example it may be seen, that the French and English are parallel with each other; therefore, in the following exercise, the adjective and substantive are put down, that the learner may translate it both ways.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

I saw a tree eighteen feet large.
J'ai, v. vu, p.p. un arbre, m. dix-huit pied, m. grosare or (have) thirty feet three inches high, and two sont, v. or font, v. trente trois deux feet broad. -- I have a tree eighteen feet round un arbre, m. dix-huit gros-seur, f.

 and sixty high.

* Read gros, adjective, grosseur, substantive, without separation, and so of the others. See the rules to form the feminine gender, p. 50.

See the rule upon avoir and être next page.

If the learner translate this last sentence by the adjective of dimension, he must use the word sont, which is the proper word of the English are, and follows the preceding rule : but if he turn the adjective of dimension into its substantive, the word sont, are, is to be rendered into French by the verb ont, have, and de before the word of measure is suppressed.

Literal example by the adjective :

Notre chambre est longue de vingt pieds et large de douze, Our room is long by twenty feet and wide by twelve.

By the substantive :

Notre chambre a vingt pieds de longueur et douze de largeur, Our room has twenty feet in length and twelve in width.

When two substantives are joined together, both making a compound word in English, the first of which denotes the form or use of the second, the latter must be placed before the former in French, and followed by the particle à, in the sense of for ; ex.

Un moulin à papier, A paper^s mill^l.
Une boîte à poudre. A powder^s box^l.

	jour, m.	mille, m.

According to the rule p. 33, a or an is not expressed in French before the second noun when it qualifies the first; the same article is likewise omitted when the verb être precedes the substantive; excepting when that verb has ce for its nominative: in the first instance the noun is employed as an adjective, in the second as a substantive; thus il est homme signifies, he has the feelings of a man, whilst c'est un homme means, there is a man.

OF NOUNS ADJECTIVE.

Adjectives form their plural as the substantives.

RULE to form their FEMININE GENDER.

Many adjectives in al have no plural for their masculine ; as conjugal, conjugal ; fatal, fatal ; filial, filial ; natal, natal ; naval, naval ; total, total ; and some few others, with which a little practice will soon acquaint the learner.

Adjectives ending in e mute are of both genders : ex.

Un jeune homme,

A young man.

Une jeune femme,

A young woman.

Adjectives ending with one of the following letters, d, e, i, l, n, r, s, t, and u, form their feminine by adding an e mute : ex.

Masc. Grand,	Fem. grande,*	great, tall, large.
Poli,	polie,	polite.
Aimé,	aimée,	loved.
Civil,	civile,	civil.
Demi,	demie,	half.
Nu,	nue,	naked.

The last two adjectives are indeclinable when they precede a substantive, but are declinable when they follow it : ex.

Une demi-livre,	A half-pound.
Une livre et demie,	A pound and a half.
Nu tête, bare head, }	la tête nue.
Nu pieds, bare feet, }	les pieds nus.

There are a few ending in an, as, el, il, eil, ien, in, es, et, is, on, os, ot, and ul, that double the final letter, before an e, mute, for the feminine : ex.

Masc. Gras,	Fem. grasse,	fat.
Gentil,	gentille,	genteel.
Eternel,	éternelle,	eternal.
Pareil,	pareille,	alike.
Chrétien,	chrétienne,	christian.
Épais,	épaisse,	thick.
Bon,	bonne,	good.

* When that adjective precedes a substantive singular of the feminine gender, beginning with a consonant, we often suppress, in French, both in the pronunciation and writing the e, which is supplied by an apostrophe as in the following instances.

A grand' peine,	with hard labour.
Avoir { grand' faim, }	to be { very hungry.
{ grand' soif, }	{ very thirsty.
{ grand' peur, }	{ very much frightened.
Faire grand' chère,	to live well, to fare sumptuously.
La grand' mère,	the grand mother.
La grand' messe,	the high mass.
La grand' chambre,	the high court.

Should however the word grande be preceded by très, fort, very, une, one, or la plus, the most, then the final e must be added ; as,

Une fort grande salle,	A very large room.
-------------------------------	--------------------

Masc. Gros, Sot,	Fem. grosse, sotte,	big. foolish, simple.
-----------------------------------	--------------------------------------	--------------------------

The following are very irregular, and cannot be comprised under any rule, viz.

Masc. Beau, bel,*	Fem. belle,	handsome, fine.
Bénin,	bénigne,	benign.
Favori,	favorite,	favourite.
Fou, fol,*	folle,	foolish, crazy.
Frais,	fraîche,	fresh.
Long,	longue,	long.
Malin,	maligne,	malicious.
Mou, mol,*	molle,	soft.
Nouveau, nouvel,*	nouvelle,	new, novel.
Vieux, vieil,*	vieille,	old.

Adjectives ending in c add he to the c for their feminine : ex.

Masc. Blanc,	Fem. blanche,	white.
Franc,	franche,	sincere.
Sec, -	sèche,	dry, &c.

The four following are excepted.

Masc. Caduc,	Fem. caduque,	in decay.
Grec,	Grecque,	Greek.
Public,	publique,	public.
Turc,	Turque,	Turkish.

Those ending in f change f into ve for the feminine : ex.

Masc. Bref,	Fem. brève,	short.
Naïf,	naïve,	plain, ingenuous.
Neuf,	neuve,	new, not old.
Veuf,	veuve,	widowed.
Vif,	vive,	quick.

Adjectives ending in x, change x into se : ex. *

Masc. Douloureux,	Fem. douloureuse,	painful, dolorous.
Heureux,	heureuse,	happy, &c.
Jaloux,	jalouse,	jealous.

* These adjectives are used before substantives beginning with a vowel or h not aspirated.

The following are excepted :

Masc. Doux,	Fem. douce,	sweet.
Faux,	fausse,	false.
Perplex,	perplexe,	perplexed.
Préfix,	préfixe,	prefixed.
Roux,	rousse,	reddish.

DECLENSION OF NOUNS ADJECTIVE.

French adjectives must agree with their substantives in gender, number, and case : ex.

SINGULAR.—Masculine.

Gen. Abl.	Du bon livre,	of or from the good book.
Dat.	Au bon livre,	to the good book.

As two or more substantives in the singular are equivalent to a plural, the verb and adjective, or participle past, not immediately following them, must be put in the plural, when they refer to two or more substantives in the singular, and that adjective or participle is to be put in the masculine, if these substantives be of different genders: ex.

Le frère, la sœur, le neveu, The brother, sister, ne-

When two or more substantives of different genders are immediately followed by an adjective or participle past, these may agree in gender and number with the last substantive, particularly when the substantives are synonymous or nearly so ; any other case met with in authors is either a poetical licence or an oversight : ex.

THE PLACE OF THE ADJECTIVE IN A SENTENCE.

Some adjectives are always placed before their substantives, and others after them; but there is a kind of adjectives, which may either precede or follow their substantives, as the euphony of the sentence requires.

The following are commonly placed before.*

Beau , handsome, fine.	Joli , pretty.
Bon , good.	Méchant , wicked.
Brave , brave.	Mauvais , bad.
Cher , dear.	Meilleur , better.
Chétif , vile, poor, mean.	Moindre , less.
Galant , well-bred.	Petit , little, small.
Grand , great, tall.	Saint , holy.
Gros , big, large.	Tout , all.
Honnête , honest, civil.	Vieux , old.
Jeune , young.	Vrai , true.

EXERCISE ON THE FOREGOING ADJECTIVES.

I have seen a handsome lady, who (was vu, p. p. dame, f. qui, pro.
speaking) to an old gentleman. - - - He had parloit, v. monsieur, m. Il, pro. avoit, v.
a fine hat and a pretty sword. - - Your little chapeau, m. épée, f. Votre, pro.
sister deserved a better fate. - - I know a young méritoit, v. destin, m. connois, v.
man who has a good horse, but a bad stable. - - - cheval, m. écurie, f.

* No general rule can be given on this subject however, for of those adjectives enumerated here above, many may be placed after and receive a new signification, thus un galant homme means a well-bred man, un homme galant, a gallant, &c. Practice and observation only will give that knowledge.—See next rule.

He¹ has³ lent⁴ it² to an honest man. -- The avez, v.

homme

Some adjectives have different meanings according as they are placed before or after their substantive, as, une femme sage, a wise woman: une sage femme, a midwife; and une grosse femme, a big woman; une femme grosse, a pregnant woman; un homme honnête, a civil man; un honnête homme, an honest man; a little practice will soon remove any of these apparent difficulties.

The following adjectives must be placed after their substantives.

1. All participles used as adjectives; as,

Une personne reconnoissante, A grateful person.
Du bœuf rôti, Roast beef.

2. All adjectives expressing the shape or form; as,

Une table ronde, A round table.
Une chambre carrée, A square room.

3. All adjectives expressing the colour or taste; as,

Un chapeau noir, A black hat.
Un habit rouge, A red coat.
Une pomme douce, A sweet apple.
Une liqueur amère, A bitter liquor.

4. All adjectives expressing the matter of which a thing is composed ; as,

Des parties sulfureuses,	Sulphurous parts.
Un corps aérien,	An aerial body.

5. All adjectives expressing the quality of hearing and touching ; as,

Un instrument sonore,	A sonorous instrument.
Une voix harmonieuse,	An harmonious voice.
Un bois dur,	A hard wood.
Un corps mou,	A soft body.

6. All adjectives expressing the name of nations ; as,

L'empire Romain,	The Roman empire.
La poésie Anglaise,	The English poetry.

7. All adjectives, which, when used by themselves, convey the meaning of a substantive, as rich, blind, &c.

Un homme riche,	A rich man.
Une femme aveugle,	A blind woman.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

agréable, adj. gris, adj. étoffe, f.
 (It was) really a tragical history.
C'étoit, v. réellement, adv. tragique, adj. histoire, f.

When two or more adjectives belong to one substantive, the surest way is to place them after it, with the conjunction et, and, before the last; and if an adjective be used in a sentence without a substantive, this adjective must always be rendered in French by the masculine gender.

DEGREES OF COMPARISON.

Adjectives and adverbs are the only kind of words that will admit of different degrees of more or less in the several qualities of persons or things.

There are two degrees of comparison :

1. Le comparatif, the comparative.
2. Le superlatif, the superlative.

Some grammarians admit of another degree, which they call positive : but this is merely an adjective used in its simple signification, without expressing any increase or diminution : ex. joli, pretty ; aimable, lovely.

The comparative refers to some other person or thing, and shows its equality, excess or defect : it is therefore of three sorts :

1. Le comparatif d'égalité, The comparative by equality.
2. Le comparatif d'excès, The comparative by excess.
3. Le comparatif de défaut, The comparative by defect.

The comparative, by equality is formed by placing the adverbs autant, as much, as many ; aussi, so, or as, before an adjective ; and que, as, after it : ex.

Votre oncle a autant d'argent, et autant d'amis que mon père, Your uncle has as much money, and as many friends as my father.

Ma sœur est aussi ambitieuse que vous, My sister is as ambitious as you.

Mon frère est aussi savant que le vôtre, My brother is as learned as yours.

N. B.—From the preceding examples and the following, it will be easily seen that when the adverbs, tant, so much, so many; autant, as much, as many; plus, more, and moins, less, are immediately followed by a substantive, that substantive must be preceded by de. The learner will also observe that si and aussi, so, as; generally precede adjectives, when a comparison is made by either; whereas tant and autant are always followed by a noun or verb, the French conjunction que, Englished by either as, than, or that, being the term of the comparison; plus or moins may precede either an adjective, a noun, or verb.

Than, after more or less, plus ou moins, followed by a noun of number, is rendered in French by de, and not by que: ex.

Je perds plus d'un Louis et	I lose more than a Louis and
vous gagnez moins de cinq	you gain less than five
francs,	francs.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

Alexander was as ambitious	as	Cæsar. --

I am as tall	as you. --	Miss D. has as much live-
suis, v. haut, adj.	Mlle a, v.	viva-
liness, and she is as amiable as her	cousin. --	If my fa-
cité, f. est, v.	sa, pro. cousine, f. Si, c. ther were as rich as my uncle, he (would make) a better
étoit, v.	oncle, m. feroit, v. use of his riches. - We have as many books as your usage, m. ses, pro.	autant, adv. vos, pro. brothers, and they are as learned as we. - I am as honest
sont, v.	nous, pro.
and civil as my companions. -- You owe	me more compagnon, m.	devez, v. than two dollars, and you pay me less than fifty cents.
gourde	payez	sou, m.

The comparative by excess is formed by placing the adverb plus, more, before an adjective: ex.

Sa cousine est plus diligente	Her cousin is more diligent
que moi, et est plus savante	than I, and is more learned
que vous,	ed than you.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

Miss A. is handsomer and more learned than Mlle que, c.
 her sisters. -- Lucia is taller and more proud Lucie, f. orgueilleux, adj.:
 than her little cousin. --- His sister is more
 covetous than he. --- Nothing is pleasanter to avare, adj. lui, pro. Rien ne, adv. agréable, adj.
 the mind than the light of truth. --- esprit, m. lumière, f. vérité, f.
 Nothing is more lovely than virtue, and aimable, adj.
 nothing is more desirable than wisdom. --- désirable, adj. sagesse, f.
 My daughter is taller than your son by* two inches. --- de pouce, m.
 Your brother is taller than you by the^a whole¹ head³. -- tout tête, f.
 In winter the roads are always worse than En hiver, m. chemin, m. plus mauvais, adj.
 in summer. -- He gave^a me¹ a more beautiful eagle.
été. donna aigle, f.

The comparative by defect is formed by placing the adverb moins, less, before an adjective; or tant, so much, so many; or si, so; with the negation ne pas, or point, not; or ne, ni, neither, nor, before them: ex.

Votre cousine est moins noble Your cousin is less noble que vous, than you.
Il n'est pas si orgueilleux que He is not so proud as his sa sœur, sister.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

Mrs. P is less polite than her daughter,
Mme poli, adj.
 but her daughter (is not) so revengeful as she.
n'est pas, adv. vindictif, adj.
 You are² ¹not³ so dutiful as your brother.
êtes, v. ne pas, adv. obéissant, adj.
 My father is not so rich as yours, but he has le vôtre, pro.

* By, after a comparison is rendered into French by de.

not so much self-love. - - - - Miss Goodwill has less wit amour-propre, m. Mlle than her mother. - - - - Paris (is not) so populous as peuple, adj.
 London.—Your companion is neither so prudent nor n'est ni ni
 so circumspect as you.

It must be observed, that in sentences in which the above adverbs more or less are repeated to express a comparison, the definite article the, preceding either, is totally suppressed in French: as,

Plus on est pauvre, moins on The poorer* people are, the a d'embarras, less care they have.

Plus je la vois, plus je la The more I see her, the hais, more I hate her.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

The more a thing is difficult, the more honour-chose, f. difficile, adj. honoable³ it¹ is². - - - The less you give to your chil-drable, adj. elle, pro. donnez, v. vos ils, pro. dépensent, v.

young man studies, the more learned he grows.
étudie, v. savant, adj. devient, v.

The more a drunkard drinks, the more thirsty he is. - - ivrogne, m. boit, v. altéré, adj.

The more odious laziness is, the more we should éviter, v. la, pro. vous vous appliquez, v.

apprenez, v. connaîtront, v. fut.

estimeront, v. fut.

The above comparative adverbs, si, aussi, tant, autant, plus and moins, must be repeated, in French, before

* Poorer, richer, and all similar forms are rendered into French by more poor, more rich; observe well the construction of the above sentence.

each adjective, noun, verb, or adverb, in the sentence :
ex.

Volre frère est aussi savant et aussi éclairé que mon cousin, Your brother is as learned and enlightened as my cousin.
M. Robert n'a ni tant de bien ni tant d'esprit que M. Dubois, Mr. Robert has neither so much wealth nor wit as Mr. Dubois.

EXERCISE UPON THIS AND THE PRECEDING RULES.

My father has as many (apple - trees) autant,adv. pommier,m.

cousin is as merry, lively, and amiable gai,adj. enjoué,adj. ses,pro. as his school-fellows. compagnon,m.

The same rule is to be observed with respect to the adverbs used in forming the superlative degree.

The three following adjectives are comparative by themselves, meilleur, better; pire, worse; and moindre, less; which signify plus bon, plus mauvais, plus petit; and ainé, elder, or eldest, is used for plus âgé, or le plus âgé.

The superlative expresses the highest degree of any quality. There are two kinds of superlatives: 1. The relative which expresses the quality of a person or thing above all others of the same kind. In this case, one of the following articles, le, la, les, de, du, de la, des, à, au, à la, aux, precede the adverbs plus, standing then for most, mieux, best, moins, least, before an adjective; or the adjectives meilleur, best, moindre, least, pire, worst: ex.

Votre sœur est la plus belle Your sister is the hand-et la meilleure femme de somest and best woman la ville, in the town.

 ce seroit, v. pays, m.

The absolute simply expresses the quality of a person or thing in its highest degree. This happens when one of the adverbs très, fort, bien, very, infiniment, infinitely, precedes an adjective; and when any of the comparatives by excess or defect are preceded by one of the possessive pronouns mon, ton, son, notre, votre, leur, &c. they become superlatives: ex.

Votre oiseau est très-joli, Your bird is very pretty.
Vous êtes mon meilleur ami, You are my best friend.

* It may be observed in some of these examples, that the preposition in, following an adjective in the superlative degree, must be rendered in French by one of these articles de, du, de la, des, according to the gender and number of the substantive to which it belongs. The preposition by, when it follows an adjective in the comparative degree, is rendered by de only.

Cent mille, &c.	A or one* hundred thousand, &c.
Neuf cent mille, (f dropped,)	Nine hundred thousand.
Un million,	A million.

These absolute numbers are declined with the article indefinite de, à, and are always placed before the substantive to which they are joined without any article intervening; and they are invariable in their form, except quatre-vingt, eighty; cent, a hundred; and million, a million; which take an s in their plural, when immediately followed by a substantive: ex.

Quatre-vingts femmes,	Eighty women.
Deux cents hommes,	Two hundred men.

* It will be seen by the following, that the English particle a or one is not expressed in French: ex.

Je Pai vu et lui ai parlé cent fois, mille fois, I have seen him and spoken to him a hundred times, a thousand times.

† Mentioning the date of the year, we must write, mil, and not mille: ex. L'an mil huit-cent quinze, the year 1815.

SECT. III.

OF PRONOUNS.

There are seven sorts of PRONOUNS ;

1. Les Pronoms personnels, Pronouns personal.
2. Les Pronoms conjonctifs, Pronouns conjunctive.

* See the Note, page 66.

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-------------------------|
| 3. Les Pronoms possessifs, | Pronouns possessive. |
| 4. Les Pronoms démonstratifs, | Pronouns demonstrative. |
| 5. Les Pronoms relatifs, | Pronouns relative. |
| 6. Les Pronoms interrogatifs, | Pronouns interrogative. |
| 7. Les Pronoms indéfinis, | Pronouns indefinite. |

OF PRONOUNS PERSONAL.

Pronouns personal are those which directly denote the persons, and supply the place of them.

There are three persons :

The first is the person who speaks : ex.

Je parle,	I speak.
Nous parlons,	We speak.

The second is the person spoken to : ex.

Tu parles,	Thou speakest.
Vous parlez,	You speak.

The third is the person spoken of : ex.

Il or elle parle,	He or she speaks.
Ils or elles parlent,	They speak.

Both Genders.

SINGULAR.

PLURAL.

Je or moi, I.	Nous, we.
Tu or toi, thou.	Vous, you or ye.

Masculine.

Il or lui, he, it.	Ils, or eux, they.
---------------------------	---------------------------

Feminine.

Elle, she, it.	Elles, they.
-----------------------	---------------------

The above pronouns are never to be used but as nominatives to the verbs. The rest are declined with the article indefinite : ex.

First Person for both Genders.

SINGULAR.

PLURAL.

G. A. de moi, of or from me.	de nous, of or from us.
Dat. à moi, to me.	à nous, to us.
Acc. moi, me.	nous, us.

Second Person for both Genders.

SINGULAR.

PLURAL.

G. A. de toi , of or from thee.	de vous , of or from you.
Dat. à toi , to thee.	à vous , to you.
Acc. toi , thee.	vous , you.

Third Person.

SINGULAR.

G. A. de lui , of or from him.	d'elle , of or from her.*
Dat. à lui , to him.	à elle , to her.*
Acc. lui , him.	elle , her.*

PLURAL.

Masculine.

Feminine.

G. A. d'eux , of or from them.	d'elles , of or from them.
Dat. à eux , to them.	à elles , to them.
Acc. eux , them.	elles , them.

There are two other pronouns of the third person, viz.

SINGULAR and PLURAL. Both Genders.

1st. G. A. de soi , of or from	{ oneself, himself, herself, themselves.
Dat. à soi , to oneself, himself, &c.
Acc. soi , oneself, himself, &c.

N. B. Though it have been said, that the personal pronouns are used for the names of persons, it must not thence be concluded, that they are never employed for the names of animals or inanimate objects : this seldom happens in the first and second persons ; but the personal pronouns, il, elle, ils, elles, may denote every object in nature, either animate or inanimate : ex.

Ce chien est fort beau, mais il est trop gras, That dog is very handsome, but it is too fat.

* Her, when a personal pronoun, is to be rendered by elle, la, or lui ; but, when joined to a noun, by the pronoun possessive, son, sa, ses.

étoit, v. neuf.

2d. The general and indefinite pronoun, on, one, is always considered as a nominative of the masculine gender, and can never be used (in French) but in the singular, though the meaning be plural; ex. When we say, On chante, on mange, we sing, they sing; one eats, or people eat; we mean, some men or women sing, eat.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

parle, v.

The word même, self, is very often joined to the personal pronouns, to denote, in a more special manner, the person spoken of: as,

Moi-même , myself.	Soi-même , oneself.
Toi-même , thyself.	Nous-mêmes , ourselves.
Lui-même , himself.	Vous-mêmes , yourselves.
Elle-même , herself.	Eux-mêmes , or elles-mêmes themselves.

OBSERVATIONS on the PRONOUNS Je and Moi, Tu and Toi, Il and Lui, Ils and Eux.

Je and moi are used in two different senses, though both in the nominative case; Je is always followed or preceded immediately by a verb to which it is the nominative case, and has no need to be joined to another pronoun: but moi always requires to be followed by one pronoun or more, either expressed or understood: ex.

Qui a pris mon livre?	Who took my book?
C'est moi,	It is I . That is,
C'est moi qui l'ai pris,	It is I who took it.

Moi must be used instead of Je before an infinitive mood, or at the end of a sentence, when it is intended to express something sudden, as grief, &c.; when I, in English, is followed by the pronoun relative who or whom, or is preceded by the verb être, to be, used impersonally, as c'est, it is; and lastly, whenever any difference or distinction is intended between persons; in which case it must be immediately followed by Je: ex.

Moi lui parler!	I speak to him or her!
Moi qui vous aime,	I who love you.

Il étoit à pied et moi j'étois à cheval, He was on foot, and I was on horseback.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

 instead of him. --- My father commanded the ai fait, v. dans, p. espace, m. heure.

 When the enemy appeared, my companions parut, v. mes, pro.

priront la fuite, v. restai, v. seul, adj.

The same rule is to be attended to with respect to toi, lui, eux, &c. : as,

Toi qui me parles,	Thou who speakest to me.
Lui que je méprise,	He whom I despise.
Eux que je respecte,	They whom I respect.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

After these remarks, it is also necessary to observe here, that je, I, and nous, we, never admit of an adjective or participle immediately after it, except in acts, or deeds, notes, or bills, receipts, and the like: ex.

OF CONJUNCTIVE PRONOUNS.

These pronouns are called conjunctive, because they are always joined to some verb by which they are governed, and are generally used for the dative or accusative case of the personal pronouns. There are three persons in the conjunctive as in the personal, which are,

For the First Person, both Genders.

SINGULAR.

PLURAL.

Dat. or Ac. *Me, Moi, me, or to me, Nous, us, or to us, for à moi, or moi. for à nous, or nous.

For the Second, both Genders.

Dat. or Ac. *Te, Toi, thee, or to thee, Vous, you, or to you, for à toi, or toi. for à vous, or vous.

* Moi and toi must be used instead of me or te, after the second person singular or plural of the imperative mood, conjugated without a negative: ex.

écoutez-moi, suivez-moi,

hear me.

For the Third.

SINGULAR.—Masculine.

Dat. Lui ,	{ to him, to it,	} for à lui ,
Acc. Le ,	{ him, it,	} for lui .

Feminine.

Dat. Lui ,	{ to her, to it,	} for à elle .
Acc. La ,	{ her, it,	} for elle .

PLURAL.—Both Genders.

Dat. Leur ,	{ to them,	} for à eux ,m. à elles ,f.
Acc. Les ,	{ them,	} for eux ,m. elles ,f.

Dat. or Acc. Se ,	{ oneself, himself,	} for à soi , or soi .
	{ herself, themselves,

Five of these pronouns are used for the dative or accusative case, and are of both Genders, viz.

Me or moi, te or toi, nous, vous, se : ex.

Vous me parlez,	You speak to me.
Il vous croit,	He believes you.
Vous me priez de, &c.	You desire me to, &c.

In the first example, me is the dative case, because it may be turned by à moi, to me; in the second, vous is the accusative, &c.

Lui, and leur are used in the dative only; and are of both genders :

Je lui parle,	I speak to him or to her.
Vous leur écrivez,	You write to them.

The three others are used for the accusative, and may be applied to things animate or inanimate, viz.

Le, mas. him, it; la, fem. her, it; and les, masc. and fem. them : ex.

Je le vois tous les jours,	I see him every day.
Je le sais,	I know it.
Nous la connoissons,	We know her.
Il les enverra ce soir,	He will send them to-night.

The pronoun personal may be placed before or after the verb, agreeably to the English construction; but the conjunctive pronouns are to be placed (in French) before the verbs by which they are governed, though they come after them in English: ex.

Je parle,	I speak.
Avons-nous parlé,	Have we spoken?
Il me parle,	He speaks to me.
Nous les connoissons,	We know them.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

Your brother bought yesterday a very good book, acheta, v.
 and after having² read³ it¹, he gave² it¹ après, p. avoir, v. lui, p. p. le, pro. donna, v.
 to my sister. - - - You speak of my cousin, ma, pro. mon, pro.
 do you know him? - - - I see her and speak connoissez, v. vois, v. parle, v.

chez, p. mes, pro. écrirai, v.

 thirsty,) shall² I³ give² him¹ water? - - They are soif, donnerai, v. lui tired, and I give them some rest.
fatigué, p. p. donne, v. repos, m.

In the second person singular and the first and second persons plural of a verb in the imperative mood conjugated affirmatively, the conjunctive pronouns come after the verb: but if the verb be conjugated negatively, the pronouns follow the above rule: ex.

* See page 174.

Donnez-lui de l'argent, Give him money.
Ne lui donnez pas de pain, Do not give him any bread.

EXERCISE ON THIS AND THE PRECEDING RULES.

Send them some apples, but do not send Envoyez, v.
 them any plums. - - I give you these books, prune, f. donne, v. ces, pro.
 but do not lend them to your brother. - - - prêtez, v. votre, pro.

pouvez, v. dire, v. mon, pro.

dites, v. ma, pro. Croyez, v. allez, v.

 Have you returned (to her) the handkerchief which she has lent you ? - - Send it to-morrow, que prêté, p. p. demain, adv.

 do not forget it. - - Bring me some cho-oubliez, v. Apportez, v. chocolate, but bring³ me² no⁴ sugar.
colat, m.

When two imperatives are joined by either of the conjunctions, et, and; ou, or; the conjunctive pronoun or pronouns may precede the last imperative by which it is governed; but that construction is not now much used: ex.
Cherchez-le, et lui dites de Look for him, and tell him venir ici, or dites lui de, &c. to come hither.

After the verbs se fier à, to trust to, penser à, songer à, to think of, viser à, to aim at, courir à, accourir à, to run to, venir à, to come to, and some of the reflexive verbs followed by a preposition governing a dative case, the pronouns must be placed after the verb, especially if used in opposition or contradiction to each other; or denote the order in which a thing ought to be done: and if there be more than one dative pronoun, the first only may be placed before the verb, and the others after: ex.

Fiez-vous à moi,	Trust to me.
Nous pensons à vous,	We think of you.
Cela s'adresse à toi,	That is addressed to thee.
Je cours à lui,	I run to him.
Il me parle aussi bien qu'à vous et à eux.	He speaks to me as well as to you and them.

EXERCISE ON THESE AND THE PRECEDING RULES.

Bring me my hat, or send it to me by the carrier. - - - Trust to him, but do not voiturier, m. Fiez-vous, v.
 trust to them, and do not believe them. - - Think croyez, v. Pensez, v.

 to me yourself. - - - Do not give it to vous-même, pro. donnez, v.
 my sister, give it to me. Why do you prefer her to préfèrent, v.
 me, and give her all your affection ?

When two or more of the conjunctive pronouns come together in the same sentence, they must be arranged in the following order.

SINGULAR.

PLURAL.

Me, m. & f. me, or to me,	Nous, m. & f. us or to us,
Te, m. & f. thee or to thee,	Vous, m. & f. you or to you,
Se, m. & f. oneself, him- self, herself,	Se, m. & f. themselves,

are to be placed before all others ;—next,

Le, m. him, it,	Les, m. & f. them,
La, f. her, it,

And then,

Lui, m. & f. to him, to her,	Leur, m. & f. to them.
Il me le promet,	He promised it to me.
Je vous les donnerai,	I will give them to you.

N. B. There are three other conjunctive pronouns, commonly called particles relative, or supplying pronouns; they are en, y, and le, and follow the foregoing rules for placing them, y taking the precedence of en, when they meet together in a sentence.

En always denotes a genitive or ablative, and relates to some object mentioned before: it is rendered in English by of or from him, her, it, them; about him, her, it, &c.; with or without him, her, it, &c.; at it, &c.; for it, &c.; upon it, &c.; any, one, ones, none, some, some of, &c.; thence, thereof, and sometimes it is elegantly understood in English. especially when immediately followed by a numeral adjective or a noun of quantity, though it must be absolutely expressed in French: ex.

Nous en parlons,

We speak of him, of her, of it, of them; about him, about her, about it, about them.

Pen suis fâché,

I am sorry for it.

Donnez-lui en,

Give him some, (of it.)

Lui en avez-vous porté ?

Did you carry him or her any? (of them.)

Ne lui en envoyez pas,

Send him or her none.

Nous en venons,

We come from it or thence.

Combien avez-vous de domestiques ? Nous en avons six,

How many servants have you? We have six, (of them.)

Avez-vous un jardin à la campagne ? Oui, nous en avons un très-joli,

Have you a garden in the country? Yes, we have a very pretty one, (of them.)

In the third, fourth, fifth sentences, it should be observed, that the pronouns of it, or of them, &c. are elegantly understood in English, according to the object or objects mentioned before.

Y is used for the dative only: it is Englished by to it, to them, of it, in it, upon it, thither, there, &c. and very often not expressed in English, though it must be in French. It seldom supplies the place of animate objects, except when connected with the verbs fier, to trust; penser, to think; and the like in a reply: ex.

plus, adv.

Le which in English is either not expressed, or most commonly rendered by so, likewise prevents the repetition of one or more words, and supplies the place of the same. It is indeclinable when it relates to, and holds the place of, one adjective or more, a verb, or a whole member of a sentence : ex.

Vous m'avez cru belle, mais You have thought me hand-je ne le suis pas, some, but I am not (so.) Nous étions embarrassés, et We were embarrassed, and nous le sommes encore, are so yet.

 for he is not, and 'never' (will be³) so².
ne jamais,adv. sera,v.

On the contrary, le is declinable when it relates to, and holds the place of, one substantive or more; then le is used for the masculine, la for the feminine, and les for the plural: ex.

Etes-vous le fils de mon Are you my friend Mr. D's avez fait bâtir,v. sont.

N. B. It must be observed, that the following pronouns, me, te, se, le, la, and les, can never be used after a preposition ; as we cannot say, j'étois avec le, avec la, I was with him, with her ; but we must use the personal pronouns, moi, toi, soi, lui, elle, and eux, or elles, and say, j'étois avec lui, avec elle, &c.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

The nosegay ^{bouquet,m.} which I ^{que} gathered ^{ai cueilli,p.p.} in our

Y and en always go last in a sentence, except the pronoun of the first person moi, which, in the imperative mood of a verb conjugated affirmatively, is placed after y and en : ex.

Il vous y en enverra, He will send some to you thither.
Apportez-y en moi, Bring me some hither.

N. B. The above pronouns, when governed by two or more verbs, must be repeated, in French, before every governing verb ; though most generally expressed but once in English, and after the last verb : ex.

Votre fils vous aime et vous Your son loves and fears craint, you.
Je le plains et l'encourage, I pity and encourage him.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

You have very fine roses in your garden : when avez,v.

N. B. Bear constantly in mind the place of these words in a sentence, first the preposition, next the negation ne, then the pronouns in the order above mentioned: ex.

Faites-moi souvenir de ne Remind me not to give him lui en point donner, any.

OF PRONOUNS POSSESSIVE.

These pronouns are called possessive, because they always denote property or possession.

There are two sorts of possessive pronouns, viz. absolute and relative.

The absolute are so called, because they must always precede the substantive to which they are joined, and agree with it (and not with the possessor as in English) in gender, number, and case:—They are,

SINGULAR.		PLURAL.
Masc.	Fem.	Both Genders.
Mon, Ma, or Mon,	$\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{before a} \\ \text{vowel, or a} \\ \text{mute, as} \end{array} \right\}$	mon âme,	Mes, my.
Ton, Ta, or Ton,		ton âme,	Tes, thy.
Son, Sa, or Son,		son âme,	Ses, his, her, or its.
Both Genders.
Notre,		Nos, our.
Votre,		Vos, your.
Leur,		Leurs, their.

They are declined with the article Indefinite de, à: ex.

SINGULAR.

Masculine.

Nom. Acc. mon père, my father.
Gen. Abl. de mon père, of or from my father.
Dat. à mon père, to my father.

Feminine.

PLURAL.

Masculine.

Feminine.

Nom. Acc. mes sœurs, my sisters.

Gen. Abl. de mes sœurs, of or from my sisters.

Dat. à mes sœurs, to my sisters.

The others are declined as the preceding.

These pronouns ought to be repeated before every substantive in a sentence, though but once expressed in English; they must agree in gender and number with the noun before which they are placed, that is, with the thing possessed and not the possessor; they must also be used in French, when speaking to any of our relations or friends, though they be suppressed in English: ex.

J'ai perdu mon chapeau et I lost my hat and gloves.

When, in English, these pronouns are used in a sentence, speaking of any part of the body, they are not to be expressed in French, but the preposition in and the pronoun are rendered by the article definite; the personal pronoun being sufficient to determine in French the possession: ex.

J'ai mal aux yeux, I have a pain in my eyes.
 and not dans mes yeux,
Il se cassa le bras, He broke his arm.
 and not son bras.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

My mother has (a pain) in her head. - - - I have

Its, their, having a reference to inanimate or irrational objects, and placed in another member of the sentence from that wherein the object referred to is itself expressed, are not made into French by son, sa, ses, &c. but by the pronoun en placed before the verb, and the articles le, la, les : ex.

Paris est une grande ville, Paris is a large city, but its mais les rues en sont trop streets are too narrow,

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

Windsor is a fine town, I admire its ment. - - - The walks of your (country-seat) are well

The rest are declined as the preceding.

When any one of these relative pronouns is used after the verb être, to be, signifying to belong to, it must be expressed in French by one of the pronouns personal in the dative; and when joined to a noun substantive, it ought to be rendered by a pronoun possessive absolute, and the substantive must be put in the genitive plural: ex.

Ce livre est à moi,

This book is mine, (that is, belongs to me.)

C'est un de mes amis,

OF PRONOUNS DEMONSTRATIVE.

These pronouns are called demonstrative, because they distinguish, in a precise manner, the persons or things to which they are applied. They are,

Ceci, this ; cela, that.†

Feminine.

ces, these, those.
celles, they, these, those.
celles-ci, these.
celles-là, those.

The last two are always of the masculine gender, and of the singular number.

* Cet is used before a noun masculine beginning with a vowel, or H mute: ex. cet oiseau, this bird ; cet honneur, this honour.

† The word that, coming between two verbs, and followed by a noun or pronoun, is then a conjunction, and must be rendered into French by que, even when implied in English : ex.

Je sais que votre frère est marié, I know that your brother is married, or, I know your brother is married.

These pronouns are declined with the article indefinite, de, à : ex.

N. B. He, she, they, him, her, them, being immediately followed in a sentence by who, whom, or that, used in an indeterminate sense, not relating to any individual mentioned before, and only implying any person, one or any body, must not be rendered in French by the personal pronouns, il, elle, &c. but by the above pronouns, celui, celle, &c.

The same rule must be observed with respect to such as, such that, used in English in the same sense as he who, they who : ex.

Celui ou celle qui pratique la vertu vit heureux,	He or she who practices virtue lives happy.
Ceux qui méprisent la science n'en connoissent pas le prix,	Such as despise learning do not know its value, (the value of it.)

Ce, celle, ces, this, that, these, those, most always precede the substantive to which they are joined, and agree with it in gender, number, and case. On the contrary, celui, celle, celui-ci, celle-ci, celui-là, celle-là, this, that, &c. either in the singular or plural, are never joined to any noun; for the noun to which they refer is always implied in the pronoun: ex.

Sometimes the particles ci, là, here, there, are also joined to the substantive following the pronouns, ce, cette, ces, to distinguish with more precision the objects to which they are applied: ex.

Ce chapeau-ci, this hat; cette ville-là, that town, &c.

N. B. The two following expressions, the former, celui-là, m. celle-là, f. ceux-là, m. celles-là, f.; the latter, celui-ci, m. celle-ci, f. ceux-ci, m. celles-ci, f. referring to substantives mentioned in a preceding sentence, are elegantly used in French, and agree with the nouns, instead of le premier, le second, the repetition of which they avoid: ex.

*Un François et un Ecos- A Frenchman and a Scotch-sois se battirent hier à man fought yesterday with l'épée, celui-là, fut blessé swords, the former was which ; and ceci, cela, this, that, are only used when speaking of things, the word thing being always understood : ex.

OF PRONOUNS RELATIVE.

These pronouns are called relative, because they have always a reference to some other noun or pronoun in the discourse, either expressed or implied. They are declined as follows :

The noun, or pronoun, to which the pronoun relative has a reference, is called the antecedent, with which it must agree in gender and number: ex.

Je connois un homme qui doit aller voir le camp, I know a man who is to go and see the camp.

In this sentence qui has a reference to homme, man, because I can say, lequel homme, which man, &c.

J'ai lu la lettre que vous m'avez envoyée, I have read the letter (that) you sent me.

In this last sentence que has a reference to lettre, letter, because it may be said, laquelle lettre, which letter, &c.

* Whose, being used interrogatively, must be rendered in French by à qui: ex.

A qui est ce livre ?

Whose book is this ?

† Qui, whom, is never used in the accusative but when it is governed by some of the prepositions: ex.

Avec qui, With whom.

Pour qui, For whom.

or when it signifies what person: ex.

Amenes qui vous voudrez,

Bring whom you please.

that is, what person you please.

The relative que, whom, which, or that, is sometimes understood in English, but it must always be expressed in French : ex.

La dame que vous connoissez The lady (that) you know est arrivée, is arrived.

In the last instances it may easily be seen, that quel, or quelle, what, is always joined to some substantive with which it must agree in gender and number.

In order to avoid repetition, lequel, laquelle, which are elegantly used as substantives for quel, or quelle, and the substantive to which it is joined; and then lequel must always be followed by a genitive, either expressed or understood: ex.

Une de mes sœurs est mariée,	One of my sisters is married.
Laquelle est-ce ? that is,	Which is it? that is,
laquelle de vos sœurs est-ce ?	which of your sisters is it?

L'un et l'autre always require the verb in the plural, and may likewise be applied to persons or things : ni l'un ni l'autre require the verb to be put in the singular, if that pronoun be placed before the verb, and in the plural, if it come after it; but in both cases the verb must be preceded by the negation ne : ex.

L'un et l'autre ont raison, Both are in the right.
Ni l'un ni l'autre ne répond, Neither of them answer.
 or ils ne répondent ni l'un ni l'autre,

When the preposition relates to both, it must be placed before l'un and l'autre, and repeated; and both is not expressed in French when it precedes two nouns or pronouns united by the conjunction and: ex.

Il reçoit de l'argent de l'un He receives money from Quelque—que. Quelque immediately joined to a noun followed by que, expresses an indeterminate quality or quantity; it is declinable before a substantive and indeclinable before an adjective, and requires the verb to be put in the subjunctive mood: ex.

Quelque chose qui or que, quoi que, quoi que ce soit que, tout ce qui or que, always relate to things, and never to persons; with this difference, that, in French, we generally begin the sentence with either quelque chose que or qui, quoi que, or quoi que ce soit que, with the following verb in the subjunctive mood: ex.

Quelque chose qu'on vous dise, ne le croyez pas, Whatever may be said to you, do not believe it. Quoi que ce soit qu'on vous dise, ne le croyez pas, Whatever they may say to you, do not believe it.

 was so honest, that he mistrusted nobody at all. -- Cromwell would trust his life to nobody whatever.

The above observation is to be made with respect to quoi que ce soit, quoi que ce fût, only used in speaking of inanimate objects. Quiconque is indeclinable, always used in the singular, and said only of persons : ex.

Je ne me plains de quoi que ce soit,
Quiconque vous a dit cela,
&c.

I do not complain of any thing whatever.
Whoever told you that, &c.

 passera,v. par-là.

It must be observed, that the numeral adjective one, used in English as a pronoun indefinite, and admitting of a plural termination, is not to be expressed in French, when it immediately follows an adjective of colour, or any other expressing the shape or size of the object which it implies ; but the adjective must be put in the same number and gender as the substantive which is understood in English : ex.

Quel habit achèterez-vous ?	What coat shall you buy ?
un bleu ou un vert ?	a blue one or a green one ?
J'ai trouvé deux nids d'oiseaux ; dans l'un il y avoit des œufs, et des petits dans l'autre,	I have found two birds' nests ; there were eggs in one, and young ones in the other.

Tout—que. Tout, preceding a noun immediately followed by que, is indeclinable in the masculine and declinable in the feminine, before nouns beginning with a consonant, and must be repeated before every noun in the sentence : ex.

Toute savante qu'elle est, For all she is learned, she elle se trompe quelquefois, sometimes mistakes.

To the above pronouns may be added the three following expressions, which are generally used in an indefinite or indeterminate manner :

Je ne sais qui, I know not who, whom.
Je ne sais quoi, I know not what.
Je ne sais quel, quelle, &c. I know not which or what.

Je ne sais qui is only said of persons, and signifies a person we do not know. Je ne sais quoi is only said of things, and signifies an object which cannot precisely be named or defined : Je ne sais quel is placed before substantives, both of persons and things ; lastly, we sometimes put un before Je ne sais qui, and indifferently, un or le before Je ne sais quoi : ex.

Je ne sais qui me parle, I know not who speaks to me.

Il parle de je ne sais quoi, He speaks of I know not what.

Je vis je ne sais quel homme, I saw I know not what man.

Il parle d'un je ne sais qui, He speaks of I know not whom.

SECT. IV.

OF VERBS AND THEIR DIFFERENT SORTS.

Verbs are usually divided into seven sorts, viz.

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|-------------|
| 1. Les verbes auxiliaires , | auxiliary. |
| 2. Les verbes actifs , | active. |
| 3. Les verbes passifs , | passive. |
| 4. Les verbes neutres , | neuter. |
| 5. Les verbes réfléchis , | reflective. |
| 6. Les verbes personnels , | personal. |
| 7. Les verbes impersonnels , | impersonal. |

Some of them are regular, that is to say, they follow the general rule of the conjugation to which they belong ; others do not, and are called irregular.

The auxiliary verbs are, avoir, to have, and être, to be. These two auxiliaries are used to conjugate all the compound tenses of the other verbs.

The active verbs.—In this class, the action is transitive, that is, it passes from the subject to the object : ex.

Le maître punit les écoliers The master punishes the paresseux, lazy scholars.

The active verb sometimes governs two cases : one to which the action directly refers, or which is the direct object of the action, and is therefore called the direct or absolute case; the other, to which the action refers but indirectly, and it is called the indirect or relative case: ex.

* See page 84.

Votre sœur a écrit une Your sister wrote a long longue lettre à mon frère, letter to my brother.

A long letter is the direct or absolute case, and to my brother, the indirect or relative case, of the verb wrote. The direct case can be no other but the accusative of a noun or pronoun, but the indirect is either the genitive, dative, or ablative.

In the passive verbs, the action is received or suffered by the subject: ex.

Les écoliers paresseux Lazy scholars shall be seront punis, punished.

In the neuter verbs, the action is intransitive, that is, it remains in the agent: ex.

Je dors,	I sleep.		Vous voyagez,	You travel.
Nous étudions,	We study.		Elle soupire,	She sighs.

In the reflected verbs, the action returns upon the agent that produces it: ex.

Il se repent,	He repents himself.
Elle se loue,	She praises herself.

These verbs have always se before their infinitive, and are conjugated with a double pronoun.

The personal verbs are those which are conjugated with three persons, in the singular and plural, throughout all their tenses.

The impersonal verbs have only the third person of the singular number.

N. B. There is a kind of verbs which may be distinguished by the name of reduplicative, always expressing a repetition of the action: ex.

Recommencer,	To begin again.
Refaire,	To do again, &c.

In these verbs, the English word again is to be rendered in French by the syllable re prefixed to the radix of the verb, and not by encore.

All the above verbs may be simple or compound.

A verb is simple which cannot be divided without losing its meaning : as,

Appeler ,	To call;	Voir ,	To see ;
Bâtir ,	To build ;	Prendre ,	To take ;
Mentir ,	To lie ;	Vivre ,	To live ;

which would mean nothing, if they were divided.

A verb is compound when it is preceded by one or more syllables : as,

Rappeler ,	To recall.	Prévoir ,	To foresee.
Rebâtir ,	To rebuild.	Entreprendre ,	To undertake.
Démentir ,	To belie.	Survivre ,	To outlive, &c.

These last verbs are generally formed by prefixing to them part or the whole of a preposition.

CONJUGATION OF VERBS.

To conjugate verbs is to give them different inflections or terminations, according to their moods, tenses, persons and numbers.

MOODS.

Mood or mode, in the sense it is taken here, is a grammatical term, which means the manner of affirming, or denoting, in the verbs, by different inflections.

There are, in the French language, four moods, absolutely distinct from each other, by the several inflections, or by some other difference. They are :

L'infinitif ,	The infinitive.
L'indicatif ,	The indicative.
L'impératif ,	The imperative.
Le subjonctif , ou conjonctif ,	The subjunctive, or con- junctive.

Of the INFINITIVE MOOD.

This mood is so called, because it only expresses the action or signification of the verb in an indefinite and indeterminate manner, that is, without affirmation, and without any relation as to time, number, or person :

ex.

Parler,	To speak.
Chanter,	To sing.
Danser,	To dance.

Of the INDICATIVE MOOD.

This mood, is thus called, because it not only indicates the affirmation in the different tenses of the verbs, but likewise the time, number, and person ; without being preceded or governed by either a conjunction or verb :

J'écris une lettre,	I write a letter.
Il chante une chanson,	He sings a song.

Ecris and chante are two verbs in the indicative mood, because they do not require to be preceded by a conjunction* or another verb to make a complete sense. The definition of this mood will be better understood, by comparing the little that has been said with what is going to be said with respect to the subjunctive mood.

Of the IMPERATIVE MOOD.

The name which has been given to this mood, is derived from a Latin word which signifies to command ; and the imperative is in fact but a manner of denoting in the verbs the action of commanding, entreating, praying, exhorting, and sometimes forbidding : ex.

Ne méprisez pas les avis	Do not despise the advice
que je vous donne,	which I give you.

It is easy to perceive that this manner of speaking is but an exhortation, as if I had said,

Je vous exhorte, je vous prie,	I exhort, I entreat you, not
de ne pas mépriser mes	to despise my advice.
avis,

• This mood has no first person in the singular, because

* Among the conjunctions, some govern the indicative, others the subjunctive : this will be explained hereafter.

it is impossible for a man to command himself; and if it have the first person plural, it is because we speak as much to others as to ourselves; as when we say,

Evitons tout ce qui pourroit Let us avoid every thing offenser les autres, that might offend others.

The second person singular and the first and second plural admit of no pronouns before them; as to the third, in both numbers, it is always preceded by the pronoun il or elle, &c. and the conjunction que.

Of the SUBJUNCTIVE, or CONJUNCTIVE.

The name of subjunctive, or conjunctive, sufficiently conveys what its use is in a sentence. It may be defined thus; a manner of expressing the different tenses of the verbs without any affirmation. In fact, the subjunctive never affirms; it is always preceded by, or subject to some conjunction; and if it should be met with in a sentence containing an affirmation, that affirmation can only be expressed by the verb that precedes the subjunctive, which is used only to modify that affirmation. In the subsequent sentence,

Je travaille afin que vous I work that you may rest vous reposiez, yourself.

the affirmation is only expressed by je travaille, I work, and what follows only expresses the end which I propose by working, viz. to procure you some rest. Again,

Je désire que vous fassiez I wish that you may do
votre devoir, your duty;

I affirm that I wish; but it is clear there is no affirmation in these words, that you may do your duty, since I do not say that you do, that you have done, that you will do your duty; but only that I wish you may do it. My wish is not doubtful; but it is very doubtful whether you will or may do your duty.

TENSES.

There are, strictly speaking, but three natural and proper tenses in the verbs : viz.

Le passé,	The past.
Le présent,	The present.
Le futur,	The future.

In the French language, the tenses are divided in the following manner, viz. five in the infinitive mood; three of them are simple, the two others compound.

In the simple tenses, the verb is expressed in one word : ex.

Parler,	To speak.
Chantant,	Singing.
Dansé,	Danced.

The compound tenses are conjugated with some one of the auxiliary verbs, avoir, to have, or être, to be, joined to a participle passive : ex.

Avoir parlé,	To have spoken.
Ayant chanté,	Having sung.
Être aimé,	To be loved.
Étant aimé,	Being loved.

SIMPLE TENSES.

Le présent,	The present.
Le participe actif,	The participle active.
Le participe passif,	The participle passive.

COMPOUND.

Le préterit,	The preterite.
Le participe passé ou composé,	The participle past or compound.

N. B. The imperative admits of no tense but the present.

The subjunctive mood has four tenses; two simple and two compound.

Le présent,
Le prétérít,

Before we proceed any further on the conjugations, it has been thought proper to explain the different uses of the above tenses, as one of the most important articles in a language, the precision of which partly depends on the difference which custom sets between one tense and another with regard to the sense of the sentence. We shall endeavour to be short and concise, and say nothing but what is useful, in hopes that the following explanation will be sufficient to remove a difficulty which constantly puzzles the learner.

TENSES of the INDICATIVE MOOD.

SIMPLE.

PRESENT.

This tense is used when the state, action, or impression, mentioned by the verb, is existing, doing, or happening, at the very time we are speaking: ex.

Je me porte bien,	I am well.
Votre sœur est malade,	Your sister is ill.
Nous nous promenons,	We are walking.
Vous écrivez,	You are writing.
Ils jouent,	They are playing, &c.

The present is also used,

1. When speaking of actions or things which we habitually do, are accustomed to do, or can do: ex.

Nous dinons toujours à deux heures,	We always dine at two o'clock.
Elle étudie l'histoire,	She studies history.
Vous parlez François,	You speak French.
Lit-il l'Anglois ?	Does he read English ?

2. When speaking of actions which are to be done in a very short time, we generally use this tense instead of the future: ex.

Je pars ce soir pour la campagne,	I set out this evening for the country.
Que faites-vous demain ?	What do you do to-morrow ?
Instead of
Je partirai ce soir pour la campagne,	I shall set out this evening for the country.
Que ferez-vous demain ?	What will you do to-morrow ?

3. This tense is also constantly used in French instead of the preterite and compound of the preterite, especially in orations or set discourses, and in poetry, in order to represent a past action or event as present to the mind of the hearers or readers.

IMPERFECT.

This tense has two uses; in the first, which probably is the origin of its name, it expresses an action present or doing at the time of an action that is past: as when I say,

Mon frère apprenoit sa leçon quand vous arrivâtes, My brother was learning his lesson when you arrived.

In the above sentence, the act of learning, though past with respect to my narration, was present at the moment your arrival took place; therefore this tense is but imperfectly preterite and imperfectly present.

In the second, the imperfect is employed every time we speak of actions of habit, or actions reiterated at a time which is not defined: ex.

Quand j'étois à Londres, j'allois souvent voir mes amis, When I was in London, I often went to see my friends;

that is, I often used to go, or I frequently went, &c.

The imperfect is likewise used when we speak of the character, or some inherent and distinctive quality, of persons or things no longer existing; and after the English conjunction if, though the verb be preceded by should, could, would: ex.

Philippe, père d'Alexandre le Grand, étoit le plus fin politique de son temps, Philip, the father of Alexander the Great, was the deepest politician of his time.

César avoit je ne sais quoi de grand dans la physionomie, Cæsar had I know not what of great in his physiognomy.

Carthage faisoit un prodigieux commerce par le moyen de ses vaisseaux, qui alloient jusqu'aux Indes,* Carthage carried on a prodigious trade by the means of her ships, which went as far as the Indies.

Palmire et Persépolis étoient de grandes et belles villes, Palmyra and Peræpolis were large and fine cities.

S'il venoit, je le paierois, If he would come, or came, I would pay him.

* See Faïce, page 290.

George II. étoit d'une taille plutôt petite que moyenne ; il avoit les yeux très-saillans, le nez grand, et une belle complexion ; il étoit doux, modéré et humain ; sobre et régulier dans sa manière de vivre : il se plaisoit dans la pompe et dans l'appareil militaire, et étoit naturellement brave ; il aimoit la guerre comme soldat, l'étudioit comme une science, et avoit, sur ce sujet, une correspondance établie avec quelques-uns des plus grands généraux que l'Allemagne ait produits.

George II. was, in his person, rather lower than the middle size ; he had remarkable prominent eyes, a high nose, and a fair complexion ; he was mild, moderate and humane ; in his way of living, sober and regular : he delighted in military pomp and parade, and was naturally brave : he loved war as a soldier, studied it as a science, and had, on this account, a settled correspondence with some of the greatest generals that Germany has produced.

From the above instances it might confidently be believed, that every difficulty attending the use of this tense will be entirely removed ; I shall however add, as a farther illustration, that whenever the verb, which in English is in the preterite, can be rendered by the past tense of the verb to be, and that preterite changed into the participle active, or when that preterite can be turned into the verb in the infinitive mood preceded by I, thou, he, &c. used to, that past tense must be made in French by the imperfect : ex.

Je lisois, I used to read ; or I was reading.

PRETERITE.

This tense is so called because it always expresses an action done at a time determined or specified by an adverb, or some circumstance in the speech, and so entirely elapsed, that nothing more remains of the time when that action was doing : ex.

Je fus malade hier pendant deux heures, I was ill yesterday for two hours.

La dernière fois que nous al-	The last time we went to
lâmes le voir, nous eûmes	see him, we had a kind
un accueil favorable,	reception.
Vous écrivîtes à votre frère	You wrote to your bro-
il y a huit jours,	ther eight days ago.
Ils essayèrent de grandes	They underwent great
pertes l'année passée,	losses last year.

FUTURE.

This tense simply expresses that an action will be done at a time that is not yet come: ex.

Je vous verrai demain à	I shall see you to-morrow in
Londres,	London.
Mon frère vous écrira la	My brother will write to
semaine prochaine,	you next week.

In French, as well as in English, we sometimes express an action that is to be done instantly, by the verb aller, or s'en aller, to go, immediately followed by an infinitive: ex.

Je vais, or je m'en vais	I am going to write to my
écrire à ma tante,	aunt.
Je vais or je m'en vais	I am going to set out.
partir,

Which signify,

Je lui écrirai tout présen-	I will write to her immedi-
tement,	ately.
Je partirai dans l'instant,	I will set out instantly.

To express an uncertainty in a future tense, that is, to express that it is not decided that such a thing will be done, we make use of the verb devoir immediately followed by a verb in the infinitive mood, and that is the only instance wherein devoir does not imply obligation, necessity, &c.: ex.

Le roi doit partir pour	The king is to set out for
Cheltenham vers le mi-	Cheltenham about the
lieu du mois de Juillet,	middle of July, and is
et ne doit revenir qu'à	not to return till the lat-
la fin du mois d'Août,	ter end of August.

That is,

On suppose que le roi partira, &c. et qu'il ne reviendra qu'à, &c.

It is supposed that the king will set out, &c. and will not return till, &c.

CONDITIONAL.

The name of this tense is a true definition of it: in fact, it is always used to express some condition or supposition, and has always a reference to the present, because, by supposing the condition effected, the action, mentioned by the conditional, becomes present: ex.

Je lirois, si j'avois des livres, I should read, if I had books.

Vous auriez la fièvre, si vous mangiez de ce fruit, You would have a fever if you ate of that fruit.

Je serois mortifié, s'il perdoit son procès, I should be mortified, if he should lose his law-suit.

It is sometimes used, instead of the future, after the conjunction que: ex.

Il a promis qu'il viendrait, He has promised to come, or that he would come.

This tense is often called the uncertain tense, because it expresses an action made uncertain by the conditional that follows it; and some grammarians place it among the tenses of the subjunctive mood, though it is very certain that it never is governed by any of the conjunctions which require a subjunctive mood after them.

COMPOUND TENSES.

COMPOUND OF THE PRESENT.

The compound of the present is employed in two different manners,

1. It expresses an action past in an indeterminate time but not very far distant from the time we speak : thus we must say,

J'ai vu mademoiselle votre	I have seen your sister, and
sœur et lui ai parlé,	spoken to her.
Le roi de Prusse a conquis	The king of Prussia has
la Silésie,	conquered Silesia.
Cela s'est passé avanta-	That has passed advanta-
geusement pour votre	geously for your cousin.
cousin,

In the above sentence, the action is certainly past, but the time when it passed is neither determined nor specified.

2. It expresses a time definite and determinate, but of which there yet remains some part to elapse : ex.

Les fruits ont très-bien	Fruits have very well suc-
réussi cette année,	ceeded this year.
Nous n'avons pas eu beau-	We have not had much
coup de neige cet hiver,	snow this winter.
Il a plu toute cette semaine,	It has rained all this week,
tout ce mois,	all this month.
Nous avons vu d'étranges	We have seen strange
choses dans ce siècle,	things in this century.

In the above sentences, this year, this week, this winter, &c. are times which still last, and are not yet elapsed.

To express an action recently past, we sometimes make use of the verb venir immediately followed by de, and the verb in the infinitive mood : ex.

Je viens de le voir passer,	I have just seen him go by.
Le roi vient d'arriver,	The king is but just arrived.
Elle vient d'expirer,	She is but just dead.

The same tense may be expressed by the verb faire, preceded by the negation ne and followed by the conjunction que, with an infinitive preceded by de : ex.

Il ne fait que d'arriver,	He is but just arrived.
Je ne fais que de sortir,	I have but just gone out.

N. B. This particle de is here indispensable, because, without it, the expression would have quite another sense, and would express a continuation or a frequent reiteration in the action : ex.

Vous ne faites que sortir, You do nothing but go out.
Elle ne fait que jouer et danser, She does nothing but play and dance.

COMPOUND OF THE IMPERFECT.

This tense expresses an action past before another which is past also; but with this difference, that the action expressed by this tense is the principal object of the person who speaks, and the following sentence is subordinate to that expressed by the compound of the imperfect. So that, though the time of that subordinate sentence be defined, that of the principal sentence is not the less indeterminate, because the former has no influence on the latter. As when we say,

Nous avions dîné lorsqu'il arriva, We had dined when he arrived, our principal object is to express the action of dining as past, without determining at what time, but only before an action which is past also, without, however, the latter being a consequence of the former; for, we do not mean to say, that he stayed, or waited, till we had dined, to arrive.

COMPOUND OF THE PRETERITE.

This tense also expresses an action past or done before another which is likewise past; and it is determined by the following sentence, which is the principal object of the attention. Thus when we say,

Quand ils eurent achevé de jouer, ils se mirent à chanter, When they had done playing they began singing.

We mean at first to convey that they began singing, and that it was not till they had done playing : in which case, the action of having done playing is subordinate to this, they began singing, and consequently the latter determines the time of the other.

The following observation is very plain, and will in some manner fix the use of the above tense, viz. that it is hardly ever used except after the conjunctions

Aussitôt que,	{	As soon as ;	{	Après que,	After ;
D'abord que,				Lorsque,	When ;
Dès que,				Quand,

which never precede a compound of the imperfect, unless the verb express a custom or habit.

Lastly, we must use the compound of the preterite when the adverb bientôt soon, precedes or follows the verb was or had, to express an action or thing as done and accomplished : ex.

L'affaire fut bientôt faite,	The business was soon over.
J'eus bientôt fini de manger,	I had soon done eating.

COMPOUND OF THE FUTURE.

The name of this tense seems at first to convey a contradiction : what is meant by it is, not that an action can be future and past at the same time, but only that the action, which is to come, will be past when another action, shall happen, or even before it happens : ex.

Je serai parti quand vous reviendrez,	I shall be gone when you (shall) come back.
Quand vous aurez fini vos affaires, vous viendrez me trouver,	When you (shall) have done your business, you shall come to find me.

In the first sentence, I shall be gone which is a future time with respect to the present we speak in, will be a past time by the time you will or purpose to arrive, &c.

COMPOUND of the CONDITIONAL.

This tense generally supposes a condition, as the conditional present, with this difference, that the condition taking place, the action expressed by the verb in the conditional is accomplished and consequently in a past time: ex.

Je vous aurois écrit il y a un mois, si j'eusse su votre adresse, I would have written to you a month ago, if I had known your direction.

The indicative mood has another tense, formed by the compound of the present of the verb avoir, joined to a participle passive, which has not been inserted in the preceding tenses, on account of its being seldom used: ex.

Quand j'ai eu dîné, je suis parti, When I (have) had dined, I set out.

But it is more elegant and natural to say,

Après avoir dîné, je suis parti, After I had dined, I set out.

TENSES of the SUBJUNCTIVE or CONJUNCTIVE MOOD.

The subjunctive or conjunctive has no future distinguished from the present, because the present of the subjunctive likewise expresses a future tense: ex.

Je ne crois pas qu'il vienne, I do not think he will come.

Add the following observations to the latter:

1. When the verb which precedes the conjunction is in the present or future of the indicative, and when we do not mean to express an action passed in the second verb, we must put this last verb in the present of the subjunctive mood: ex.

Je souhaite que vous réussissiez dans votre entreprise, I wish you may succeed in your undertaking.
J'attendrai qu'il vienne, I will wait till he come.

2. When the verb which is before the conjunction is in some of the past tenses, or conditional, and we wish not to designate by the second verb a past time more distant than that of the first verb, we must put this second verb in the preterite of the subjunctive :

Alexandre ordonna que tous ses sujets l'adorassent comme un dieu,	Alexander ordered, that all his subjects should worship him like a god.
Je voulois que vous écrivissiez à votre sœur,	I wished you to write to your sister.
Il souhaiteroit que vous prissiez des mesures plus convenables,	He would wish you to take more becoming measures.

3. The compound of the present of the subjunctive mood is used when we speak of an action past and accomplished, with regard to the tense of the verb which precedes the conjunction ; and this tense is generally the present, compound of the present, or future of the indicative : ex.

Je doute qu'aucun philosophe ait jamais bien connu l'union de l'âme avec le corps,	I doubt whether any philosopher have ever well understood the union of the soul with the body.
Il a fallu que j'aie consulté tous les médecins,	I was obliged to consult all the physicians.
Je n'aurai garde d'y aller, que je n'aie reçu quelque assurance d'être bien accueilli,	I shall by no means go thither, till I have received some assurance of being welcome.

4. After the imperfect, preterite, compound of the imperfect, of the indicative, or one of the two conditionals, we use the compound of the preterite of the subjunctive mood ; likewise after the conjunction if, when preceding a compound tense : ex.

J'ignorois que vous eussiez embrassé cette profession-là,	I did not know you had embraced that profession.

Vous n'avez pas cru que je fusse arrivée avant vous,	You did not believe I should have arrived before you.
Nous aurions été fâchés que vous vous fussiez adressé à d'autres qu'à nous,	We should have been sorry if you had applied to any others but us.

NUMBERS AND PERSONS.

A tense is composed of numbers ; that is, the singular and the plural.

That there are three persons, has already been observed under the personal pronouns ; we have only to remark, that some of these three persons are always joined to the verb as its nominative case, therefore the verb must agree with that nominative in number and person : ex.

Je fais, I do.	Nous faisons, We do.
Tu fais, Thou dost.	Vous faites, You or ye do.
Il fait, He does.	Ils font, They do.

The pronoun vous, you, denotes the second person singular and plural, with this difference, that when we speak to a person only, the attribute, or qualifying noun, must be put in the singular : ex.

Vous êtes marié, and not mariés,	You are married.
Vous étiez général de l'armée, and not généraux,	You were general of the army.

But we must say mariés and généraux, if we speak to many.

When the verb has two or three nouns or pronouns as its nominatives, it must be put in the plural, though all these nominatives be in the singular ; because two or more nouns in the singular are equivalent to a plural, with regard to verbs as well as to adjectives and participles passive : ex.

Mon frère et ma sœur sont partis,	My brother and sister are gone.
This has already been mentioned in the adjectives.

If, among these nominatives, one is of the first person and the other of the second, or one is of the second and the other of the third, the verb must agree with the first in preference to the second, and with the second in preference to the third; observing that, in French, the person spoken to, must be named first; and the person speaking is to be mentioned the last: we must therefore say,

C'est vous et moi qui avons	It is you and I who have
découvert tout ce complot,	discovered all that plot.
Ce n'est ni vous ni ma	It is neither you nor my
sœur qui avez ouvert la	sister who have opened
porte,	the door.
Vous, mon père, et moi,	You, my father, and I, will
partirons demain,	set out to-morrow.

The pronoun relative qui, in these and the like sentences, always takes place of the first or second person, and only agrees with the others in number; it is for this reason we must say,

C'est moi qui suis cause de	It is I who am the cause
ce malheur,	of that misfortune.
C'est vous qui avez révélé	It is you who have reveal-
ce secret,	ed that secret.
Ce n'est ni lui ni moi qui	It is neither he nor I who
l'avons fait,	have done it.

There are four conjugations in the French language. Each is distinguished by the termination of the verb in the infinitive mood.

The first makes er ,	as donner , to give.
The second ir ,	as punir , to punish.
The third avoir ,	as recevoir , to receive.
The fourth re ,	as rendre , to render.

N. B. It is necessary that the learner should be well acquainted with the manner of conjugating the two following verbs, because of the frequency of their occurrence in sentences, and in forming the compound tenses of all other verbs.

Compound of the Present.

Que j'aie été, that I may have been, &c.

Compound of the Preterite.

Que j'eusse été, &c. that I might have been, &c.

This verb, as well as the preceding, is to be conjugated with the negation: ex.

Je ne suis pas, I am not.

Nous ne sommes pas, We are not.

N. B. Here it is peculiarly necessary to observe, that the two above verbs, avoir, to have, and être, to be, are only auxiliaries when they are joined with some participle passive of another verb; otherwise, être may properly be called a substantive verb; that is, a verb which only expresses the affirmation, without any inherent quality; and the verb avoir is an active one, which signifies to possess.

EXERCISES on the two AUXILIARY VERBS.

GENERAL OBSERVATION.

Every verb must agree with its nominative case in person and number; but after collective nouns, such as amas, foule, infinité, nombre, la plupart, &c. followed by a genitive, the verb must agree with that genitive in number: ex.

La plupart de ses amis l'ont abandonné, Most of his friends have forsaken him.

In order to ease the learner, the different simple tenses are marked in the following exercises as far as the irregular verbs, when it is hoped every difficulty will be removed by practice and attention. The second person singular, being seldom or never used in conversation, has been omitted throughout the exercises on the verbs.

After these exercises, the learner ought to conjugate the two foregoing verbs, throughout the several tenses of the indicative mood only, first with an interrogation affirmative, and then with an interrogation negative :
 ex.

SINGULAR.

Affirmatively.

Ai-je ?	have I ?	Suis-je ?	am I ?
A-t-il ?	has he ?	Est-il ?	is he ?
Mon frère a-t-il ?		has my brother ?
Sa fille est-elle ?		is her daughter ?

Negatively.

N'ai-je pas ?	have I not ?	Ne suis-je pas ?	am I not ?
N'a-t-il pas ?	has he not ?	N'est-il pas ?	is he not ?
Ma sœur n'a-t-elle pas ?		has not my sister ?
Votre cousin n'est-il pas ?		is not your cousin ?

PLURAL.

Affirmatively

Aurons-nous ?	have we ?	Sommes-nous ?	are we ?
Avez-vous ?	have you ?	Etes-vous ?	are you ?
Ont-ils ?	have they ?	Sont-ils ?	are they ?
Vos frères ont-ils ?		have your brothers ?	&c.
Ses filles sont-elles ?		are his daughters ?	&c.

Negatively.

N'avons-nous pas ?	have we not ?
N'avez-vous pas ?	have you not ?
N'ont-ils pas ?	have they not ?
Ses enfans n'ont-ils pas ?	have not his children ?
Ne sommes-nous pas ?	are we not ?
N'êtes-vous pas ?	are you not ?
Ne sont-ils pas ?	are they not ?
Mes sœurs ne sont-elles pas ?	are not my sisters ? &c.

N. B. In the interrogations, it must be observed, that when there is a noun standing as a nominative to the verb, the pronouns il, elle, nous, vous, ils, elles, though not expressed in English, must be expressed in French immediately after the verb, according to the person and number; and when the verb terminates with a vowel, a -t- is to be added in the third person singular between the verb and the pronoun, to avoid the hiatus, the noun beginning the phrase : ex.

Votre oncle a-t-il des en- Has your uncle any chil-fants ? dren ?

that is, Your uncle, has he any children ?

Mon cousin aura-t-il congé ? Will my cousin have a holiday ?

that is, My cousin, will he have a holiday ?

The same rule must be observed in the conjugation of the other verbs : ex.

Votre frère joue-t-il du Does your brother play on violon ? the violin ?

Sa sœur dinera-t-elle ici Will her sister dine here aujourd'hui ? to-day ?

But if the sentence begin with que interrogative, or an adverb followed by a noun, the pronoun is not to be expressed, and that noun is to be put after the verb : ex.

Que fait votre sœur ? What is your sister doing ?

Comment se porte Monsieur How does your brother ?
votre frère ?

When, in French, we make a general interrogation concerning a sudden pain, misfortune, accident, &c. we say, Qu'est-ce que c'est ? What is the matter ?

But if speaking to or of a person, we must use the verb avoir, and follow the above rule : ex.

Qu'avez-vous ? What is the matter with you ?

Qu'a-t-il ? What is the matter with him ?

Qu'aviez-vous ? What was the matter with you ?

Qu'avoit votre sœur ce What was the matter with matin ? your sister this morning ?

The learner will have no trouble in going through the other simple tenses of the indicative mood ; and as for the compounds, it needs only to be remembered, that eu, had, or été, been, is to be added to the simple tenses of the verb avoir, to have : ex.

Ai-je eu ? have I had ?

N'ai-je pas eu ? have I not had ? &c.

Ai-je été? have I been?

N'ai-je pas été ? have I not been ? &c.

The learner will soon be convinced how necessary it is to know these two verbs perfectly well; because, independently of being constantly used, the compound tenses of all the others are formed with them. When he is well acquainted with their usage, he will only have to add the participle passive to any of their tenses:
 ex.

J'ai aimé, I have loved, or did love:

Je n'ai pas chanté, I have not sung, or did not sing.

Ai-je parlé? have I spoken? or did I speak?

* See the Degrees of Comparison, p. 60, &c.

N'ai-je pas étudié ? have I not studied ? or did I not study.

Avez-vous dansé ? have you danced ? or did you dance ?

N'avez-vous pas écrit ? have you not written ? or did you not write ?

Je suis puni, I am punished.

Je ne suis pas attendu, I am not expected.

Suis-je aimé ? am I loved ?

Ne suis-je pas perdu ? am I not undone ?

Etes-vous marié ? are you married ?

N'êtes-vous pas convaincu ? are you not convinced ?

REMARK on the Verb ETRE, TO BE.

In English, when this verb immediately precedes any noun, signifying old, hungry, thirsty, cold, hot, or afraid, it should be rendered in French by avoir, to have, and the adjective must be changed into its substantive: ex.

Quel âge avez-vous ?

How old are you ?

J'ai sept ans,

I am seven years old.

Avez-vous faim ?

Are you hungry.

Non, mais j'ai soif,

No, but I am thirsty, &c.

* Verbs in this conjugation, the root of which terminates in e or c, immediately succeeded by A or o, require, for the softening of their sound, that an æ be added to the g, and a cedilla to the ç. Stars are placed where these alterations are required.

† When in English, a participle active is joined to any of the tenses of the auxiliary verb to be, to express the continuation of the action, the auxiliary must be left out in French, and the participle put in the same tense, &c. with the auxiliary that is suppressed :

Je parle , I am speaking ;	Je priois , I was desiring ;
Vous parlez , you are speaking ;	Nous chantions , we were singing ;
Nous danserons , we shall be dancing ;	Ils écriraient , they would be writing ;

After the same manner are conjugated about 2700 regular verbs. The following are excepted : viz.

Aller, being very irregular, will be seen among the irregular verbs.

Envoyer is only irregular in the future and conditional present ; as, instead of saying j'envoyerais, I will send, &c. j'envoyerois, I would send, &c. according to this conjugation, we say,

Future.

Singular.	Plural.
J'enverrai , I will send.	Nous enverrons.
Tu enverras ,	Vous enverrerez.
Il enverra ,	Ils enverront.

Conditional.

Singular.	Plural.
J'enverrois , I would send.	Nous enverrions.
Tu enverrois ,	Vous enverriez.
Il enverroit ,	Ils enverroient.

PUER (sentir mauvais.) This verb is only used in the infinitive mood, present tense, imperfect, future of the indicative, and conditional. Formerly this verb was irregular in the three persons of the present tense of the indicative mood ; as je pus, tu pus, il put ; custom has, however, reformed the abuse, and will have it, Je pue, tu pues, il pue.

Verbs ending in AYER and OYER, as essayer, to try, envoyer, to send, change the y into i wherever the letter y is immediately followed by an e mute : ex. j'essaie, tu essaies, il essaie, j'envoie, tu envoies, il envoie, &c.

The learner, having conjugated a verb affirmatively and negatively, ought to conjugate two others, with an interrogation affirmative and negative, in the indicative mood only, and so on through the other conjugations, before he attempts the exercises : ex.

Affirmatively. .

Manges-tu ? dost thou eat ?

Mange-t-il ? does he eat ?

Parlons-nous ? do we speak, &c.

Negatively.

Ne parlé-je pas ? do I not speak ?

Ma sœur ne chante-t-elle pas ? does not my sister sing.

N. B. In many verbs, common usage does not admit an interrogation in the first person singular, present, of the indicative mood.—Instead of saying, Mangé-je ? Do I eat ? Punis-je ? Do I punish ? &c. we say, Est-ce que je mange ? Est-ce que je punis ? &c.

Some verbs, ending in e mute, in the first person singular, present of the indicative mood, change the e mute into é with an acute accent, and je after it ; as parlé-je.

It has before been observed, that the compound tenses are easily formed, by adding the participle passive of the verb to any of the tenses of the auxiliaries avoir, to have, or être, to be, as they have been conjugated, either affirmatively, negatively, or interrogatively : ex.

Affirmatively.

J'ai dansé, I have danced, or I did dance.

Negatively.

Je n'ai pas parlé, I have not spoken, or I did not speak.

Interrogatively-affirmatively.

Avez-vous chanté ? Have you sung, or did you sing ?

Interrogatively-negatively.

N'a-t-il pas mangé ? Has he not eaten, or did he not eat ?
Observe, that we make use of Mener,

To take, to carry,

Amener,

To bring,

Emmener,

To carry, or take away,

and all the compound verbs of mener, whenever we speak of rational or irrational beings to which nature has given the faculty of walking, if they be not deprived of it through illness or accident : in all other cases we make use of

Porter,

To carry, to take,

Apporter,

To bring,

Emporter,

To carry, or take away,

and all the compounds of porter.

N. B. It must be necessarily observed here, previously to the learner's translating the following exercises, that the English auxiliary verbs, have, am, do, did, will, shall, can, let, may, would, could, should, might, and often ought, are most commonly used, in that language, to avoid that repetition of a preceding verb, or in answer to a question or foregoing sentence; to avoid the repetition of that verb, and often of one or more pronouns; but in French, the verb, expressed in the first member, or part of the sentence, must always be repeated, as well as the pronouns which it may govern: ex.

Je vous prie de porter demain cette lettre à Monsieur D. I beg of you to carry that letter to-morrow to Mr. D.

Je la lui porterai avec plaisir, I will, with pleasure, (carry it to him,) understood.

Vous ne pourriez pas apprendre cette leçon en dix jours, You could not learn that lesson in ten days.

Il me semble que je pourrois l'apprendre, It seems to me as if I could, (learn it,) understood.

Attendez-vous vos sœurs aujourd'hui? Do you expect your sisters to-day?

Oui, nous les attendons, Yes, we do, (expect them,) understood.

Votre frère écrit-il à M. votre père? Is your brother writing to your father?

Oui, il lui écrit à présent, Yes, he is now, (writing to him,) understood.

Apprenez-vous le François? Are you learning French?

Oui, je l'apprends, Yes, I am, (learning it,) understood.

Avez-vous acheté les livres dont vous m'avez parlé? Have you bought the books which you mentioned to me?

Non, je ne les ai pas encore achetés, No, I have not yet, (bought them,) understood.

Ne devraient-ils pas faire savoir à leur père que leur frère est dans la détresse? Ought they not to let their father know that their brother is in distress?

Certainement, ils devraient le lui faire savoir, Certainly, they ought, (to let him know it,) understood.

CONJUGATION OF THE PASSIVE VERBS.

Verbs passive are very easily conjugated ; it requires only that the participle passive of the verb, which is to be conjugated, be joined to the auxiliary verb être, to ~~be~~, through all its moods, tenses, numbers, and persons. It is to be observed, that in French the participle passive varies according to the gender and number of the noun or pronoun, which stands as the nominative to the verb : ex.

OF NEUTER VERBS.

The conjugations of the above verbs are, like all others, distinguished by their terminations, and conjugated in the same manner,

Learners may easily know a neuter verb from an active one; because the latter generally has, or can always have, a direct case after it; whereas the neuter verb never has, nor can have, but an indirect case: for instance,

Dormir, to sleep,
Venir, to come,
Voyager, to travel,

are neuter verbs; because we cannot say,

Dormir une maison, to sleep a house.
Venir un livre, to come a book.
Voyager la chambre, to travel the room, &c.

In the same manner,

Jouir, to enjoy,
Profiter, to profit by, to take advantage of,
Parvenir, to attain, to reach,

are neuter verbs, because they can only govern an indirect case: ex.

Jouir d'une grande réputation, To enjoy a great reputation.
Profiter du tems, To take advantage of the weather.
Parvenir à son but, To attain one's end.

As it is impossible for the neuter verbs to govern an absolute case, it follows that every verb of this kind, which governs an absolute case, can no longer be looked upon as a neuter: ex.

Pleurer, to weep, to bewail,
Sortir, to go out,
Monter, to go up, or come up,
Plaider, &c. to plead,

are neuter verbs, but become active when they govern any object in the absolute case, or accusative: ex.

Elle pleure ses péchés, She bewails her sins.
Sortez ce cheval, Bring out that horse.
Il plaida sa cause lui-même, He himself pleaded his cause,

But there are some neuter verbs which can never have an active signification, and which we are obliged to conjugate with the verb faire, when we wish to express an action passing from the subject who acts : ex.

Ferai-je bouillir ou rôtir Shall I boil or roast that cette viande ? meat ?
Faites-la bouillir, Boil it.

Some of the neuter verbs conjugate their compound tenses with the auxiliary verb avoir, to have ; others with the verb être, to be.

The general rule to know what neuter verbs conjugate their compound tenses with the auxiliary avoir, and which are the others that are conjugated with the verb être, is to pay attention to the participle passive of the neuter verb which is conjugated.

If this participle be declinable, that is, if it can be applied to a man or a woman, or any other animated object, the compounds of its verbs are conjugated with the verb être : ex.

Arriver, to arrive,
Mourir, to die,
Naître, to be born,

Tomber, to fall,
Venir, to come, &c.

take the auxiliary verb, être ; because we can say,

Un homme arrivé,	a man (who is) arrived,
Une femme morte,	a woman dead.
Un enfant né,	a child born.
Un cheval tombé, &c.	a horse fallen.

If, on the contrary, the participle be indeclinable, that is, if it cannot be said of any animate object, the compound tenses of that verb must be conjugated with the verb avoir : ex.

Dormir , to sleep,	Régner , to reign,
Languir , to languish, to linger.	Vivre , to live, &c.

take the auxiliary verb avoir ; because we cannot say,

Un homme dormi,	a man slept, (part. pass.)
Une femme languie,	a woman languished, or lingered.
Un enfant régné,	a child reigned.
-Un cheval vécu, &c.	a horse lived.

The verb courir is in the last class, when it signifies the rapid motion of the body, moving in a certain direction with all the swiftness of its legs ; as we cannot, in this sense, say, nor je suis couru, j'étois couru, &c. but j'ai couru, j'avois couru, &c.

Un homme couru,	a man run, (part. pass.)
Une femme courue,	a woman run,

When we say in French, un homme couru, une femme courue, we mean a man or woman much sought after, a person or thing we are very eager to see or hear : ex.

Ce prédicateur est fort couru ;
Cette danseuse est fort courue ;

that is, people are very eager to hear that preacher, to see that dancer.

In the above general rule are not included some neuter verbs, which sometimes take the auxiliary avoir, and sometimes the auxiliary être ; these are,

Monter , to go or come up.	Demeurer , to live, to dwell.
Descendre , to go or come down.	Périr , to perish.
Sortir , to go out.	Passer , to pass, to go by.
Rester , to stay, to remain.	Echapper , to escape.

Monter and descendre often govern an absolute regimen ; in which case they are considered as active verbs, and conjugated with the auxiliary avoir : ex.

J'ai monté les degrés,	I have ascended the stairs, or gone up the stairs.
Nous avons descendu la montagne,	We have come down the mountain.

When the above verbs are employed without regimen, their compounds are conjugated with être: ex.

Je suis descendu,	I am down.
Elle est déjà montée,	She is up already.

Sortir, is conjugated with the verb être, when it signifies to quit, to leave the place wherein one was dwelling, or living; but it is conjugated with the verb avoir, when we wish to convey the idea that we have been from home, and that we are come back again: ex.

Il est sorti de prison,	He is out of prison.
J'ai sorti ce matin à dix heures,	I went out this morning at ten o'clock.
Avez-vous sorti ce matin?	Did you go out this morning?
Nous n'avons pas sorti de tout le jour,	We have not been out all day.
Le roi n'a pas sorti de sa chambre,	The king has not been out, of his room.

Demeurer and rester take the auxiliary avoir, when we mean that we were, but are no longer, in a place: ex.

J'ai demeuré deux ans à la campagne,	I lived two years in the country.
Il a resté vingt ans à Rome,	He resided twenty years at Rome.

On the contrary, they take the auxiliary être, while the person or persons are still in a place: ex.

Il est demeuré à Londres pour y solliciter un évêché,	He has remained in London to solicit a bishopric.
Nous sommes restés à York pour y finir nos affaires,	We have tarried at York to conclude our affairs.

Périr indifferently takes either the auxiliary avoir or être: ex.

Il est péri deux vaisseaux sur mer,	Two ships have been lost at sea.
Trois hommes ont péri par cette tempête,	Three men have perished by this storm.
La plupart des équipages sont périés dans les ondes, le reste est péri de mi- sère,	Most of the crews perished in the waves, the rest perished through mis- ery.

It seems, however, that the auxiliary avoir is more generally used.

Passer sometimes governs an indirect case, or is immediately followed by the preposition par, or some other, attended by a noun or pronoun; in which case its compounds are conjugated with the auxiliary verb avoir, whether it be used in its proper signification or in a figurative sense: ex.

Le roi a passé par Ken- sington pour aller à Windsor,	The king went through Kensington to go to Windsor.
Nous avons passé devant l'église,	We went by the church.
Elle a passé près du parc de St. Jâques,	She went by St. James' Park.
La couronne de Naples a passé dans la maison de Bourbon,	The crown of Naples passed to the house of Bourbon.

In all other cases, passer takes the auxiliary être:
ex.

Le roi est passé, vous ne sauriez le voir,	The king is gone by, you cannot see him.
Le beau temps est passé,	The fine weather is over.
Vos chagrins sont passés,	Your sorrows are over.

We sometimes say, ce mot est passé, when we mean that it is no longer in use; but when we say, ce mot a passé, we understand has passed into the language, which signifies that it has been received or adapted.

Passer is often a reflected passive verb, then its compound tenses follow the rule of the reflective verbs.

Passer, in several cases, becomes an active verb, and governs an absolute case: ex.

Passez cela sur le feu,	Pass that over the fire.
Les ennemis ont passé la rivière,	The enemies have crossed the river.
Passer l'épée au travers du corps,	To run one through the body.

Echapper has two significations: sometimes it is used in the sense of éviter, to avoid, when it is conjugated with the auxiliary avoir, and governs the dative case; sometimes it signifies to come or go out by force or stratagem from a place in which one was confined or shut up; in this case it takes the verb être for auxiliary: ex.

Vous avez échappé, là à un grand danger,	You have escaped a great danger.
Il a échappé à la mort,	He has escaped death.
Ils sont échappés de leur prison, or,	They have escaped from their prison, or, made their escape.
Ils se sont échappés de leur prison,
On la tenoit depuis quelques jours, mais elle est échappée, or, elle s'est échappée,	They had her for some days, but she has escaped, or, made her escape.

N. B. Exercises on the neuter verbs will be found among the irregular, whenever they occur.

REFLECTED VERBS.

We call reflected, or reflective, a verb whose subject and object are the same person or thing; so that the subject that acts, acts upon itself, and is at the same time the agent and the object of the action: ex.

Je me connois,	I know myself,
Tu te louches,	Thou praisest thyself
Il se blesse,	He wounds himself,
Nous nous chauffons,	We warm ourselves,

are reflected verbs, because it is I who know, and who am known; thou who praisest and who art praised: he who wounds and who is wounded, &c.

In order to express the relation of the nominative to the verb with its regimen or object, we always make use of the conjunctive pronouns, me, te, se, myself, thyself, himself, herself, itself, for the singular; nous, vous, se, ourselves, yourselves, themselves, for the plural. But it frequently happens, that in English, the second pronoun is implied, though it must be expressed in French: ex.

Je me souviens,	I remember.
Elle ne veut pas se marier,	She will not marry.
Nous nous plaignons, &c.	We complain, &c.

The reflected verbs may be divided in the following manner, viz.

Verbes réfléchis par la signification,	Verbs reflective by signification.
Verbes réfléchis par l'expression,	Verbs reflective by expression.
Verbes réfléchis directs,	Verbs reflective direct.
Verbes réfléchis indirects,	Verbs reflective indirect.
Verbes réfléchis passifs,	Verbs reflective passive.

A verb reflected by signification is properly a verb wherein the person or thing that acts, is at the same time the object of the action: ex.

Je me chauffe,	I warm myself.
Elle se blesse,	She wounds herself, &c.

A verb is reflective by expression when we add to it the double pronoun, without the person or thing that acts being the object of the action: such as,

Je me repens,	I repent,
Il s'en va,	He is going away,
Elle se meurt,	She is dying,
Nous nous apercevons de	We perceive our error,
notre erreur,

which merely signify Je suis repentant, il va, elle meurt, nous apercevons notre erreur.

When the conjunctive pronoun is the objective case of the verb reflective by expression, we say it is a verb reflective direct; when the same conjunctive pronoun is the indirect regimen, (that is, governed in the dative case), we call it reflective indirect: thus,

Je me flatte,	I flatter myself,
Tu te vantes,	Thou boastest,
Il se félicite,	He congratulates himself,
	&c.

are verbs reflective direct.—On the contrary,

Il se donne des louanges,	He gives himself praise,
Nous nous promettons un	We promise ourselves good
bon succès,	success,
Vous vous arrachez une	You draw one of your
dent,	teeth,

are verbs reflective indirect, because it is as if we said, Il donne des louanges à soi, Nous promettons un bon succès à nous, Vous arrachez une dent à vous, &c.

Verb reflective passive. This verb is so called, because it not only expresses a passive sense, but that sense can only be rendered by a passive verb: ex.

Cela se voit tous les jours,	That is seen every day.
Cela ne se dit point,	That is not said.
Ce livre se vend bien,	That book sells well.
Ce bruit se répand,	That rumour is spread.
Ces fruits se mangent en	These fruits are eaten in
hiver,	winter.

Cet homme s'est trouvé innocent du crime dont on l'accusait, That man has been found innocent of the crime with which he was accused.

It is as if there were cela est vu tous les jours, cela n'est point dit, &c. which exactly correspond with the idiom of the English language.

This last verb is of great use in the French language, because, as it has been observed before, there are properly no passive verbs in that language, and we are often obliged to supply the want of them by the above verb, or by the pronoun general on, to avoid ambiguity or false sense: if, for instance, instead of saying, ces fruits se mangent en hiver, ou, on mange ces fruits en hiver, I said, ces fruits sont mangés en hiver, one might understand that those fruits are already eaten; whereas, I only wish to express the proper season for eating those fruits.

Some authors call réci-proque, reciprocal, all those reflected verbs; but this denomination to me has appeared insufficient to determine accurately the nature and use of these verbs. Others limit the reciprocal verb to signify what two persons or two things reciprocally do to each other: thus,

Pierre et Jean se battent, Peter and John are fighting, or beating each other,
Paul et Robert s'aiment, Paul and Robert love each other,
Le feu et l'eau se détruisent, Fire and water destroy each other, are reciprocal verbs, because it is as if we said, Pierre et Jean se battent réciproquement l'un l'autre, Paul et Robert s'aiment réciproquement l'un l'autre.

This distinction of the reciprocal verbs may be adopted, observing at the same time, that we often prefix the preposition entre to the verb, the better to express the reciprocity : ex.

Pierre et Jean s'entr'aiment,	Peter and John love each other.
Ils s'entrelouent,	They praise each other.
Elles s'entrehaïssent,	They hate each other.
Le feu et l'eau s'entrede-truisent, &c.	Fire and water destroy each other.

All the reflected and reciprocal verbs, without exception, are conjugated with the auxiliary verb être ; hence it may be supposed how much French people are shocked to hear any one, who has learned that language, say,

Je m'ai acheté un cheval,	I bought myself a horse ;
Je m'avois blessé,	I had hurt myself ;
Il s'a fait mal,	He has hurt himself ;
Elle s'avoit moqué de moi,	She had laughed at me ;
&c.

expressions too commonly made use of by many English people, who speak without knowledge of the principles of the language ; whereas we must say,

Je me suis acheté un cheval,	We have inquired.
Je m'étois blessé,	They have walked.
Il s'est fait mal,	Strange things have hap-
Elle s'étoit moquée de moi,	pened since your depar-
Nous nous sommes informés,	ture.
Ils se sont promenés,	Many years have elapsed
Il s'est passé d'étranges	since I heard of that af-
choses depuis votre dé-	fair.
part,
Il s'est passé bien des années
depuis que j'ai ouï parler
de cette affaire,

It must be owned, that in the compounds of most part of these verbs, the verb être is but the substitute of the verb avoir ; but it is impossible to use avoir as auxiliary to a verb which has for its objective case a conjunctive pronoun that relates to the principle of the action of that verb, and which precedes the auxiliary ; for, though we say,

Il a voulu se tuer, He would kill himself;

yet, if we change the place of the pronoun, we must say, Il s'est voulu tuer, which is the idiom of the language.

N. B. The preterite of the verb être, je fus, tu fus, &c. has been used by respectable authors and in conversation for j'allai, tu allas, but now it is thought unnecessary.

Among the compound tenses of this verb, it is to be remarked, that those which are formed by the participle allé, signify that we are or were yet in the place mentioned at the time we are or were speaking. Whence it follows, that the first person of the compound of the present,

Je suis allé, I have gone, &c.
Tu es allé, &c.

can seldom be used in discourse; for we cannot naturally say that we are still in a place which can only be mentioned in a past time, after we have left it; therefore we make use of the compound tenses of the verb être, as j'ai été, tu as été, j'eus été, j'avois été, j'aurois été, &c. for when we say,

Il est allé à Londres, He is gone to London.

we give to understand, that he is still in London, or is on his way, going to London: on the contrary,

Il a été à Londres, He has been at London, means, that he has gone to London, but is returned.

The above verb is also conjugated as a reflected one, with the particle en : ex.

S'en aller, to go away.

Je m'en vais, I go or am going away.

Tu t'en vas, thou goest or art going away.

Il s'en va, he goes or is going away.

Nous nous en allons, we go or are going away.

Vous vous en allez, you go or are going away.

Ils s'en vont, they go or are going away.

Negatively.

Je ne m'en vais pas, I am not going away.

Il ne s'en va pas, he is not going away.

Nous ne nous en allons pas, we are not going away.

Vous ne vous en allez pas, &c. you are not going away, &c.

Interrogatively.

S'en va-t-il ? Is he going away ?

Vous en allez-vous ? &c. are you going away ? &c.

Ne s'en vont-ils pas ? &c. are they not going away, &c.

The imperative mood is thus conjugated :

Singular.

Va-t'en, go thou away.

Qu'il s'en aille, let him go away.

Plural.

Allons-nous en, let us go away.

Allez-vous en, go away.

Qu'ils s'en aillent, let them go away.

Its compound tenses are,

Je m'en suis allé, I have gone away.

Je m'en étois allé, I had gone away.

Je m'en fus allé, I had gone away.

Je m'en serai allé, I shall have gone away, &c.

Je m'en serois allé, I should have gone away.

* This verb in English is most generally accompanied by the preposition of, governing the noun or pronoun: but it must be observed, that, in French, the preposition must be suppressed, and the noun or pronoun become the nominative to the verb devenir: ex.

Ne vous informez point de ce que je deviendrai,	Do not inquire about what will become of me.
Que deviendra votre cousin si son père l'abandonne ?	What will become of your cousin, if his father forsake him ?
Si cela arrivoit, je ne sais ce que nous deviendrions,	Should that happen, I know not what would become of us.

† When this verb, in English, governs a noun or pronoun in the accusative case, it must be put in the infinitive mood, and preceded by the verb faire in the same tense, number, and person, as the verb to remind: ex.

Faites-moi souvenir de passer chez votre tante,	Remind me to call upon your aunt.
Où, je vous en ferai souvenir,	Yes, I will remind you of it.

OF IMPERSONAL VERBS.

Verbs which relate to no person or thing, and which, has been before observed, are only conjugated in the third person singular, are called impersonal verbs: they generally are preceded by one of the following pronouns il or on: of this number are,

Il tonne, It thunders.

Il pleut, It rains.

On dit, People say, or, it is said, &c.

To which may be added several other verbs, which become impersonal when employed in the same manner: ex.

Il vous convient d'être modeste, It becomes you to be modest.

Il fait beau, froid, &c. It is fine, cold, &c.

Il fait grand vent, The wind blows high.

Il semble, It seems.

Il s'ensuit que, It follows that.

Il vaut mieux, It is better, &c.

These verbs, like others, whether regular or irregular have their different tenses, and are conjugated in the same manner as the personal verbs from which they are derived. The learner having gone through the other conjugations, the verbs of this class may the more easily be dispensed with. It will only be necessary to select one that is not derived, and show the manner of conjugating it, only premising, that the compound tenses are formed, like others, by joining the participle passive to one of the tenses of the auxiliary verb avoir, to have.

CONJUGATION OF THE IMPERSONAL VERBS.

* The conjunction Si, if, is used only before the present or imperfect of the indicative mood and their compounds; and sometimes elegantly before the compound of the imperfect of the subj. mood.

There is, immediately followed by the negation no and a participle active, must be rendered by on ne peut pas, on ne sauroit, with the participle in the infinitive mood; the other tenses, as there was, there will be, there would be, used as above, and made by the same tenses of the verb pouvoir only: ex.

On ne peut pas, or, on ne sauroit sortir aujourd'hui à cause de la pluie,	There is no going out to-day because of the rain; that is, one cannot, &c.
On ne pouvoit l'appaiser,	There was no pacifying him.
On ne pourra pas jouer demain, mon père est très malade,	There will be no acting to-morrow, my father is very ill.

This verb il y a, when used to denote a quantity of time, is sometimes rendered in English by it is, it was, &c. when the English preposition since is rendered (in French) by que : but in all cases where the English phrase can be rendered negatively, que must be accompanied by the negation ne : ex.

Il y a trois semaines que It is three weeks since votre père est arrivé, your father arrived.
Il y a long-tems que je ne It is a long while since I vous ai vu, saw you, or, I have not seen you this long while.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

Allemand, m.

It often happens that the verb there is, or it is, &c. is understood: in this case, one of the words, ago, these, or for these, is expressed as a substitute: ex.

Il y a trois mois que j'étais en France, or j'étais en France il y a trois mois,* I was in France three months ago.

Il y a quatre ans que mon frère est mort, My brother has been dead these four years.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

He is the same man whom we saw a quarter of an hour ago. - - When did you see my father? - - I saw him (a fortnight) ago. - - We have not heard† from my be so lively as you were three years ago. - - I would enjoué, adj.

have written to you a month ago, if I had known savoir, v.
 your direction. - - I have not seen your sister these adresse, f.

* From this instance it may be observed, that, if the verb il y a, &c. begin the sentence, the word que must immediately follow the noun of number; but, if it be transposed, que must be omitted. The first construction is to be preferred. The learner must at the same time observe, that in the above sentence, the verb, which; in English, is in the compound of the present, is rendered in French by the present of the indicative, and when in the compound of the imperfect by the imperfect of the same mood.

 six weeks. - - He has been in London these five years, and (it is said) he there enjoys a considerable fortune.
^à ^{l'on dit, v.}
 - - - We have neither seen you nor your sisters these three days.

It also happens, that neither the verbs, nor any of the words, ago, these, or for these, are expressed in the sentence: ex.

Il y a neuf ans que ma tante demeure dans ce voisinage,	My aunt has lived nine years in this neighbourhood.
Il n'y a pas plus d'une heure que nous pêchons ici,	We have not been above an hour fishing here.
Il y avoit deux ans que ma sœur étoit en France quand j'y allai,	My sister had been two years in France when I went there.
N'y avoit-il pas six mois qu'elle demouroit avec nous quand elle mourut ?	Had she not lived six months with us when she died ?
Il y aura six ans à Noël que votre frère est chez M^{ons}. O.	Your brother will have been at Mr. O's. six years at Christmas.
N'y aura-t-il pas un an au mois d'Août prochain que votre sœur est à Paris ?	Will not your sister have been a year at Paris next August ?

The verb être, to be, becomes impersonal when followed by a substantive, or one of the pronouns personal, possessive, or demonstrative, and is always conjugated with the pronoun demonstrative ce, whether speaking of persons or things : ex.

* All the sentences in this exercise, should begin with the impersonal verb Il y a, Il y avait, &c.

C'est la loi qui l'ordonne,

It is the law that prescribes it.

C'est moi qui l'ai fait,

It is I who have done it.

C'est mon bienfaiteur,

It is my benefactor.

C'est eux, or, ce sont eux,
qui me l'ont rapporté,

It is they who have related it to me.

From the last instance, it appears that it is, &c. followed by a pronoun of the third person plural, may be rendered in French two ways; but, when is it, &c. is used in asking a question, it is generally put in the singular, though the pronoun be in the plural number:
ex.

Est-ce eux qui l'ont fait,

Is it they who have done it?

*C'est être fou que de He is a fool who loses his ill of him on all occasions. - - They do not under-dans f.

 stand their own interest who neglect study.
propre,adj.

The verb être, to be, becomes also impersonal every time it is followed by a noun adjective used in a vague indeterminate sense, and relates to no particular object; in which case the verb is generally preceded by the pronoun il; and when used to denote the state of the weather, it is rendered by the third person singular of the verb faire, to make or do: ex.

Il est extraordinaire, &c.
Il fait beau tems,
Ne faisoit-il pas chaud ?

It is extraordinary, &c.
 It is fine weather.
 Was it not hot ?

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

It is surprising to see you so lazy and in-ly for these faults. - - It is always dangerous ment, adv.

ni, c. ni, c. faire, v. grand, adj.
 wind, and I think it will soon freeze. - - It is not so penser, v.

cold as it was (at the) beginning of this month. - - au commencement, m.

Do you think (that) it is hotter in Italy than here?
pres. subj.

The learner must observe, that the following verb is absolutely impersonal throughout all its tenses, and that nothing is more disagreeable than to hear young people say, Je faut, vous faut, on faut, &c. to prevent which, as much as possible, some examples are here set down.

INFINITIVE MOOD.

Present. Falloir, to be needful, requisite, necessary.
 Part. pass. Fallu, been needful, &c.

INDICATIVE MOOD.

Affirmatively. Sing.

Present. Il faut que je fasse, I must do.
Il faut que tu fasses, thou must do.
Il faut qu'il fuisse, he must do.
Il faut qu'elle fasse, she must do.

Plural.

Il faut que nous fassions, we must do.
Il faut que vous fassiez, you must do.
Il faut qu'ils, or elles fassent, they must do.

Negatively.

Il ne faut pas que je fasse, I must not do.
Il ne faut pas que vous fassiez, you must not do, &c.

Interrogatively.

Faut-il que je fasse ? must I do ?
Faut-il que vous fassiez ? must you do ?
Ne faut-il pas que je fasse ? must I not do ?
Ne faut-il pas que vous fassiez ? must you not do ?

Imperfect. Il falloit qu'il écrivit, it was necessary, &c.
 for him to write.

Preterite. Il fallut qu'il partît, he was obliged to set out.

Future. Il faudra qu'il vienne, he must come, he shall be obliged to come.

Condit. Il faudroit que j'allasse, I should go, or it would be necessary for me to go.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

Present. Qu'il faille, that it may be necessary, &c.
 Imperfect. Qu'il fallût, that it might be necessary.

As to the compound tenses of this verb, they are formed by adding its participle passive to the third person singular of any of the simple tenses of the verb avoir, to have : ex. Il a fallu, il avoit fallu, &c.

From the foregoing instances, it is easy to see, that, when the verb falloir is used in the present or future tense of the indicative mood, the following verb must be rendered by the present of the subjunctive ; but when it is used in the imperfect, preterite, or conditional present of the indicative, the verb following must be rendered by the preterite of the subjunctive : ex.

Il faut, or il faudra que je fasse, I must do, I shall be obliged to do, or, it will be necessary for me to do.

Il falloit, or, il fallut que I was obliged, or, it was je parlasse, necessary for me, to speak.

Il faudroit que je vendisse, I should be obliged, or, it would be necessary for me, to sell.

* After the words better, necessary, needful, expedient, good, im-possible, &c. joined to the verb to be, conjugated impersonally, the preposition for is to be rendered by que, with the following verb in the subjunctive mood, either present or preterite, according to the tense of the preceding verb.

leave your country so soon, all your friends opquitter, v. pays, m. s'oppose it.
 poser, v. y.

The same observation is to be made on the verb valoir mieux, to be better, used impersonally; and the adjectives bon, difficile, impossible, nécessaire, à propos, &c. joined to the verb être, used in the third person singular only: ex.

Il n'est pas bon que vous soyez seul, It is not good for you to be alone.
Il vaut mieux que vous ayez compagnie, It is better for you to have company.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

It is difficult for you to improve if you
 *faire des progrès, **
 do not apply better to study. - - It was impossible s'appliquer, v. étude, f.
 for you to have succeeded unless you had taken à moins que, c. ne. (by the sub.) more convenient measures. - - It would be expedient convenable, adj. à propos for you to read this book from the beginning depuis, p.
 to the end - - Believe me, it is better jusqu'à, p. fin, f. valoir mieux, v.
 for you to go there to-morrow, for it will snow car, c.
 soon. - - - Will it not be better for me to be at bientôt, adv.
 school too soon than too late? - - - Would it not tôt, adv. tard, adv.
 be better for him to go and speak to them himself, so than to send his servant? - - - It is good for us de domestique, m. & f.
 to help one another in our troubles.
 s'aider, v. peine, f.

The above verb falloir, being used before the verb to have, followed immediately by a noun substantive, may be rendered without expressing the auxiliary verb; instead of which, insert one of the following conjunctive pronouns, me, te, lui, nous, vous, or leur, according to the number and person : ex.

Il me faut des livres,

I must have, or, I want books.

Il lui faut un chapeau,

He must have, or, he wants a hat.

Il lui faut un bonnet,

She must have, or, she wants a cap.

N. B. If the verb to have be expressed in French, it must be rendered by the subjunctive mood :

Il faut que j'aie des livres,

I must have, or, I want books.

This method, however, is not so elegant as the former.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

I shall want paper, pens, and ink. - - What do falloir, v.

you want ? - - I want nothing (for the) present, but I à think I shall soon want a French grammar. - - penser, v.

My brother has an old hat, and he will soon vieux, adj.

want a new one. - - If you like neuf, adj. en, pro. aimez, v. à speak much, you must have (a good deal) of bien, adv.

circumspection not to (speak ill) of others. - - retenue, f. pour ne pas médire, v.

Since I cannot find my book, I must have Puisque, c.

another. - - If we wish to succeed in our under- vouloir, v.

taking, we must have (a great deal) of patience. - - - beaucoup, adv.

My brothers have lost their buckles, they must have boucle, f.
 others.

Before the conclusion of this section, it will be proper to say something about the pronoun indefinite on, which commonly precedes a verb used impersonally (viz. in the third person singular) in French, and in English is generally made by a passive voice: ex.

On m'a permis de chanter, I have been allowed to sing.

People have allowed me, &c.

On lui a défendu de sortir, He has been forbidden to go out.

One has forbidden him, &c.

In this case, the verb which, in English, is in the passive voice, must, in French, be turned into the active, when the English nominative becomes the regimen of the verb in French, the sentence beginning with on, and translated as if the English were, one has allowed me to sing, one has forbidden him to go out.

In French, passive verbs are seldom used.

It is the same with,

On dit, It is said, or people say.

On me dit, I am told.

On dit à votre frère, Your brother is told.

On disoit, } It was said, or people said,
On dit, } or were saying.

On dira, It will be said, or people will say.

On dira à nos enfans, Our children will be told,
 or one will tell, &c.

On a dit, It has been said, or people have said.

On nous a dit, We have been told, or one has told us.

SECT. V.

OF PARTICIPLES.

Participles are either active or passive. The participle active, in French, always ends in ant: ex. parlant; punissant, and in English in ing: ex. speaking, punishing, &c. It is always, in its own nature, indeclinable: ex.

Je vois des hommes et des femmes venant à nous, I see men and women coming to us.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

The persons whom you saw with us are people ^{gens, pl.} fearing God and loving virtue. - - - She met your father and sister (as she was) coming here. - - - My ^{en} mother was told (the day before yesterday) that ^{ici, adv.} your sister, remembering ^{avant-hier, adv.} the injuries she had ^{se ressouvenir, v. des} received from your brother, refused to ^{reçues, p.p. de la part de,} see him, and we are all glad to hear ^{de} it. - - ^{de apprendre, v.} Your aunt, having given the necessary orders to your cousins, (set out) immediately for London. - - - Did ^{partir, v.} you not see them coming to us? - - How many oxen, ^{bœuf, m.} sheep, and horses I hear ^{entendre, v. de} afar off ^{loin, adv.} lowing, ^{brebis, f. pl.} bleating, and neighing! - - Do you not admire these ^{mugir, v.} ^{bêler, v.} ^{hennir, v.} lambs, skipping in your father-in-law's meadow?

agneau, m. bondir, v. prairie, f.

N. B. In order to distinguish between active participles, and many adjectives which are spelt alike, but which must agree with the nominative, consider whether there is an action expressed, or whether the word implies merely an attribute of the noun, thus, in these two sentences,

Je vois des agneaux, bondissant dans la plaine,	I see lambs skipping in the plain.
J'aime à voir les agneaux bondissans, errer dans la plaine,	I like to see skipping' lambs, wandering in the plain.

The first conveys this idea, that the lambs are now skipping, whilst the second implies that an attribute of lambs is to skip.

When the participle active in English is preceded by another verb, an article, or a preposition, it must be rendered in French by the verb in the infinitive mood, and it is sometimes used as a substantive : ex.

Faut-il que je parle sans lui parler?	Must I set out without speaking to him?
La pauvreté du corps est la richesse de l'âme,	The impoverishing of the body is the enriching of the soul.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

I assure you there is a great deal of pleasure in ^{à, p.} teaching diligent scholars. - - We are told there ^{enseigner, v.} will not be so much danger in travelling, as there ^{à voyager, v. que} was before. - - Lewis the Great had especially the superior and rare talent of knowing and choosing men ^{surtout, adv.} of merit. - - He left the house without seeing his father, and even without speaking to his mother.

même, adv.

-- I should despise a man who is capable of pleasure in admiring the situation of your house. -- The empêcher, v. pécher, v.

-- I often admire the rising and setting of the sun. -- lever, m. coucher, m. soleil, m.

The defending of a bad cause is worse than défense, f. mauvais, adj.

the cause itself.

même.

The participle passive is sometimes declinable, and sometimes indeclinable.

It is declinable,

First, when it is joined to the verb être, to be, forming a passive verb, and agrees with the nominative case of the verb in gender and number; and when it is not attended with any auxiliary verb; in this case it becomes an adjective or at least performs the same office.

*Mon frère est aimé,
 Ma sœur est aimée,
 Mes cousins sont partis,
 Mes cousines sont parties,
 Elle paroît affligée,
 Elles paroissent affligées,*

*My brother is loved.
 My sister is loved.
 My cousins are gone.
 My cousins are gone.
 She appears afflicted.
 They appear afflicted.*

N. B. There is no exception to the above rule ; but it is very important to remember that in the compound tenses of the reflected verbs, the verb être is employed for the verb avoir ; all such cases will come under the next rule, as if the verb être were the verb avoir.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

I have been told your brother-in-law is gone to beau-frère, m.
 the Continent. - - - I have not seen your mother vu, p. p.
 since she arrived from France ; does she appear depuis que, c.

se proposer, v. de rendre, v.

 (by the fut.) revenir, v.
 built in the winter are not so wholesome as those sain, adj.
 which are begun (in the) spring and finished (in the) au au middle of summer. - - The wicked are always tor-été, m. méchant, adj. pl. bourmented, and the righteous are comforted by their reler, v. juste, adj. consoler, v.
 own conscience. - - Virtuous people are esteemed personne, f.
 and respected by those who are so. - - - I assure you de that Mr. Brown's wife appears much afflicted femme, f. fort, adv.
 at the death of her husband, but her sons appear de mari, m.
 as much affected by it as she.
toucher, v.

Secondly, with the verb avoir, the participle instead of agreeing with the nominative, must agree with the direct object, which is a noun or (in this instance) a pronoun governed in the accusative case, but that direct object must precede the participle, otherwise that participle does not agree with it; thus in this phrase, j'ai vu ma sœur, the participle does not change, because ma sœur which is the direct object, does not precede, but in this phrase c'est ma sœur que j'ai vue, the participle agrees, because que relative pronoun, which represents ma sœur is placed before that participle.

In the compound tenses of the reflected verbs where the auxiliary être is employed instead of avoir, if you suppose this last verb to exist where être is used, the above-mentioned rule must direct you. By the same reason that we say il l'a tuée (he has killed her,) we say elle s'est tuée, which is the same as if we could say elle a soi tuée, she has herself killed, she killed herself.

J'ai vu Madame Wright et	I saw Mrs. Wright and
l'ai entendue chanter,	heard her sing.
J'ai lu tous les livres que	I have read all the books
vous m'avez prêtés,	which you lent me.
Avez-vous vu les marchan-	Did you see the 'goods
dises que j'ai reçues,	which I have received.
Vous l'avez souvent priée	You often desired her to
de passer chez vous,	call at your house.
Elles se sont repenties de	They have repented of
leurs fautes,	their faults.

EXERCISÉ UPON THIS RULE.

The resolution which she has taken of going into to her myself, but I have not (been able to) learn the reasons which have induced her to it. - - - Miss Farren was an excellent actress, I have seen her to-day, there is not one (of them) for aujourd'hui, adv.

satisfied us. - - What books have you lost ? - - The satisfaire, v.

soldat, m. à revenir, v.

quarrelled the whole day, and are now reconciled.
se quereller, v.

The participle passive is indeclinable when the participle is not preceded by a direct object, or pronoun governed in the accusative case.

This happens when the object follows, as in this phrase J'ai vu ma sœur, or when another verb governs the pronoun, as in this phrase, Il ne faut jamais s'écarter de la bonne route que l'on a commencé à suivre; here suivre governs que and not commencé.

La maison que j'ai fait bâtir,	The house I have built.
C'est une belle chanson, je	It is a fine song, I have
l'ai entendu chanter plu-	heard it sung many a
sieurs fois,	time.
J'y suis allé avec elle et l'ai	I went there with her,
vu peindre,	and saw her picture drawn.

La langue que j'ai com- The language I have bemencé d'apprendre est gun to learn is very fort utile, useful.

In the above instances the pronouns are not governed by the participle passive, but by the verbs chanter, peindre, and apprendre.

EXERCISES UPON THIS AND THE PRECEDING RULE.

I have given him a fable to translate. - - I cannot à traduire, v.
 forget the good actions, which I have seen you do. - - - The goods which you ordered me to de send, are arrived ; permit me to show you the letters
de which he has seen me open from Germany. - - - Allemagne, f.
 Have you already read the books, which I saw* you buying ? - - - - I have bought the clothes for habit, m. m.
 which you saw me bargaining. - - - The history marchander, v.
 which I have begun to read is not entertaining. - - à amusant, adj.
 She has written more books than you ever have jamais, adv.
 read. - - The lady whom I saw singing is handsome and young, but the song which I have heard sung is the best, as to words and music, that quant your brother ever wrote. - Miss B. has spent passer, v.

* Observe that the participle, though it should not agree with books, livres, it should agree with the pronoun vous, so that it should be spelt vue if addressed to a female.

two or three days with your sisters, and saw their (picture drawn); their cousins were in the next room, and my sister saw them painting in miniature.

It is often difficult to ascertain which is the direct object; a simple method is, to add one of these pronouns who or what to the participle, and then the answer will point out that object: thus, for this sentence, ma sœur s'est cassé l'épaule, ask my sister, broke—what?—her shoulder; this, then is the object, but as l'épaule follows, the participle does not change.

Sometimes a preposition is understood, or expressed by the pronoun, as in this sentence voilà la dame dont j'ai parlé; the pronoun dont is not the direct object, with which only the participle can agree; it is the genitive; besides, the verb parler, in this instance is neuter, and therefore cannot govern a noun in the accusative case: ex.

Les Anglois se sont rendus fameux dans cette guerre, The English made themselves famous in this war?
 Telles sont ses objections; Such are his objections;
 j'y ai pensé, I have thought of them.

EXERCISE UPON THESE REMARKS.

Daughter, I had warned you of it. - - You would have rendered yourself celebrated by your talents and beauty, if you had not shown them so much vanity.
 - - - He is the man (of whom) our neighbours have complained. - - It is your fault, Miss, I have already scolded you (about it).

Lastly, when the auxiliary verb and the participle passive are used impersonally. Dû (when not signifying owed), pu, and voulu, are also indeclinable: ex.

Les pluies qu'il a fait,	The rains which we have had.
Je vous ai montré la reconnaissance que j'ai dû,	I have shown you the gratitude I ought.
Ma sœur a fait tout ce qu'elle a pu,	My sister has done every thing she could.

EXERCISE UPON THIS RULE.

avis, m. obtained from the king all the favours she would.
tenir, v. grâce, f.

- - - My brother might have improved more,
faire des progrès
 but he has not made all the efforts he could.
effort, m.

N. B. The rules on this subject, which have been regarded as being extremely intricate, and numerous, may be reduced to three, viz. 1st, The participle when attended with no auxiliary agrees with the nominative, like an adjective.—2d, When attended with the verb être, the participle constantly agrees with the nominative. Lastly the participle when attended with the verb avoir agrees with its direct object, only when that object precedes the participle; and in the compound tenses of the reflected verbs, the auxiliary verb être must be regarded as filling the place of the verb avoir, and subjected to the same rules, that being an anomaly in the language.

EXAMPLE UPON THE FOREGOING RULES.

J'ai reçu les lettres que vous m'avez écrites au sujet de l'affaire, que je vous avois proposée: et après les avoir lues avec attention, j'ai reconnu, comme vous, que, si je l'avois entreprise, j'y aurois trouvé des obstacles que je n'avois pas prévus,	I have received the letters, which you wrote to me with respect to the affair which I had proposed to you: and after having read them with attention, I perceived, as you did, that, if I had undertaken it, I should have met with obstacles, which I had not foreseen.

Reçu is indeclinable, because it is not preceded by any regimen; écrites is declinable, and agrees in gender and number with its direct object, or accusative, expressed by the pronoun relative que, which precedes the verb and relates to letters; proposée likewise agrees with que, by which it is preceded, and which relates to the word affaire; lues is declinable on account of its regimen les, which precedes it and relates to letters; reconnu is indeclinable, because it is not preceded by any regimen to which it can relate; entreprise, on the contrary, is declinable; and takes the gender and number of the conjunctive pronoun l', which is its direct object and its antecedent, relating to affaire; trouvé is indeclinable, because it is not preceded but followed by its accusative obstacles; prévus, on the contrary, is declinable, because it is preceded by its direct object que, which relates to obstacles.

Clearness is the principal quality of the French language, therefore equivocations in the use of the participles should be carefully avoided: ex. Je les ai rangés en ordre, speaking of papers, may signify I have set them in order, or I have them and they are in order; in such a case a different regular turn should be chosen with which this language abounds.

SECT. VI.

INDECLINABLE PARTS OF SPEECH.

Under this head are comprehended adverbs, prepositions, conjunctions, and interjections.

OF ADVERBS.

Adverbs have been distinguished, according to their several significations, into adverbs of place, time, quality, quantity, number, order, affirmation, negation, doubt, interrogation, comparison, collection, separation, &c. But this classification, however ingenious, is far from being exact: it was therefore judged, that, if those of the most frequent use, and which, when compounded, form a particular idiom, were carefully selected, and arranged in an alphabetical series, it would be more to the advantage of the learner.

Où, where.

OBSERVATION ON THE ADVERB Où.

The adverb of place, Où, where, is most commonly and more elegantly turned into French by que after the two other adverbs ici, here, là, there, to prevent the hiatus caused by the meeting of the two vowels; and sometimes after nouns expressing the place where something has happened, been done or committed, especially when the sentence begins with the verb être, to be, used impersonally, as, it is, it was, it will be, &c. : ex.

* Pas, with the negation ne before it, merely expresses a negative, without affirming it, whereas point denies and affirms at once. Pas often denies but partly, or with some modification; point, on the contrary, always denies absolutely, totally, and without any reserve.

C'est ici que nous l'attendons,	It is here (where) we are waiting for him.
Ce fut là que je le vis pour la première fois,	It was there (where) I saw him for the first time.
Ce fut en plein sénat que César fut inhumainement assassiné,	It was in full senate (where, or in which) Cæsar was inhumanly murdered.

OF CONJUNCTIONS.

They have been divided into copulative, comparative, disjunctive, adversative, casual, dubitative, exceptive, conditional, continuative, conclusive, &c. Instead of following this arrangement, it will be of more importance for the scholar to understand, that different conjunctions require different states of the verb. Some require the following verb in the infinitive mood, others in the indicative, and others again in the subjunctive.

These require the following verb in the infinitive mood.

It has been remarked in the degrees of comparison, that every comparative must be attended by the conjunction que, than; it must now be observed, that, if it precede a verb in the infinitive, que is to be followed by de. But if the verb be neither in, nor can be turned into the infinitive, the conjunction must then be attended by ne; that is, que before the noun or pronoun, and ne before the verb: ex.

Il vaut mieux être malheureux que d'être coupable, It is better to be unfortunate than criminal.
Mon père est revenu plutôt que nous ne l'attendions, My father came back trary, he respects and honours her. - - - It is so

The conjunction si, if, or whether, instead of being repeated in a sentence, is more elegantly rendered by que, with the verb following it in the subjunctive mood, as, instead of saying,

Si vous venez chez moi, et	If you call upon me, and
si vous ne me trouviez	do not find me at
pas,	home,

It is more elegant to say,

Si vous venez chez moi, et que vous ne me trouviez pas, &c.

Que must also be repeated in the second part of a sentence, as well as the pronoun, when there is a conjunction in the first part of it; in this case que requires the following verb to be put in the same mood as the preceding: ex.

Dès que je l'aurai vu et	As soon as I have seen him
que je lui aurai parlé,	and spoken to him, I will
je vous le ferai savoir,	let you know it.
Quoiqu'il soit plus riche que	Though he be richer than
vous, et qu'il ait de meilleurs amis,	you, and have better friends.

It is here necessary to observe, that verbs denoting wish, will, command, desire, doubt, fear, ignorance, entreaty, persuasion, pretension, surprise, &c. always require the conjunction que after them, with the following verb in the subjunctive mood.

In short, in those dispositions of mind where the will is chiefly concerned, or whenever we express a thing with some degree of doubt or hesitation, then the verb, which, in English, is put in the infinitive mood, the participle active, or the future tense, must, in French, be put in the subjunctive mood: ex.

* See the remark after the verb être, to be, page 174.

Croyez-vous qu'il soit hon- Do you believe him to be nête? honest?

Je doute que vous le fassiez, I doubt of your doing it.

Your uncle is very glad you have written to your father. - - I will give you no rest, unless you are reconciled with your mother. - - I do not believe it is que ne she who has done it. - - Do you believe it? - - My brother is not well, and I doubt (very much) of his coming to see us before next fort, spring. . . . * After the verbs Douter and Nier, when these verbs are attended with a negation, ne is employed with the verb which follows: ex. Je ne nie pas que cela ne soit, I do not deny that it is so.

It must be observed, that, after the verb vouloir, the verb to have is not expressed, but rendered in French by que. It must also be observed, that the sign of the future tense, shall, when it refers to the will of a person, and meaning, I choose, I do not choose, do you choose? &c. must be rendered in French by the present tense of the indicative mood of the verb vouloir, according to the number and person, with the following verb in the subjunctive mood: ex.

Je veux qu'il fasse cela,

I will have him do that.

Je veux que vous me mon-triez cette lettre,

*You shall show me that letter, that is to say,
I choose you should

No, I cannot leave my play. But I tell you, that you shall (go there); I would have you pay faire, v. more attention to what you are told.

Qui, que, or dont, preceded by a superlative, require the following verb in the subjunctive mood, and when qui stands as a nominative to a verb, denoting a condition, it also requires the following verb to be put in the subjunctive mood: ex.

C'est la plus belle femme qui	She is the handsomest wo-

C'est le plus méchant garçon	He is the most wicked boy

REMARKS AND EXERCISES ON THE WORDS de, à, and pour.

Having, in this manner, gone through the respective parts of speech, there will be no occasion for a syntax. It will, however, be necessary to give some rules for ascertaining the proper use of the particle de or à, and the preposition pour, before a verb in the infinitive mood, and then to point out, by way of exercise, some idiomatical expressions that most frequently occur in the French tongue.*

When two verbs come together in a sentence, the latter, having no subject expressed nor understood, must be put in the infinitive mood, whether the English sign to, be prefixed or not.

In the following cases, the infinitive mood must never be preceded by a particle.

FIRST, when the verb in the infinitive stands nominative to another verb : ex.

Aimer est un verbe, To love is a verb.

SECONDLY, after the following verbs, aller, croire, devoir, faire, il faut, savoir, valoir mieux, venir, pouvoir, oser, vouloir, and penser, when rendered by to be like or near.

EXERCISE ON THIS RULE.

To know how to give seasonably is a talent every body has not. - - To be able to live with one's self, and to know how to live with others, are the two great sciences of life. - - I had rather do it aimer mieux, &c.

* The great number of idiomatical expressions in the French language has long been considered as an almost insuperable difficulty in the way of its easy acquirement ; however, this difficulty is daily decreasing ; these peculiar expressions are now giving way to a regular construction, and are very little used by the best writers.

peine, f. sing.

The particle de is put before a verb in the infinitive mood : First, when any of the following words, of, from or with, are used before the participle active of any verb. (See the rule upon the participle active, page 343.)

Secondly, after a noun substantive joined immediately to a verb, either without any article at all, or with the following articles, le, la, or les.

Thirdly, after the following adjectives, decent, glad, impossible, necessary, sorry, worthy, vexed, and the like.

Fourthly, after the following verbs : to advise, to apprehend, to bid, to cease, to command, to conjure, to counsel, to defend, to defer, to deserve, to desire, to endeavour, to entreat, to fear, to hasten, to long, to order, to permit, to persuade, to pray, to promise, to propose, to refuse, to remember, to threaten, to tell, to warn, to undertake, &c. and the greater part of the reflected verbs.

And lastly, after the conjunction que, preceded by the comparative degree.

SECT. XI.

SCHEME FOR PARSING A SENTENCE.

As it is very essential to the thorough learning of a language, not to mistake one part of speech for another, we finish this grammar by giving a classical and methodical scheme for parsing a sentence. The examples, with very little change, may suit any language.

Article. Questions : Is it definite, partitive or indefinite? What gender? What number?

Examples. Le pouvoir du roi, the power of the king ; la liberté des hommes, the liberty of men ; J'ai du pain, de la viande, des pommes ; I have bread, meat, apples ; La sœur de Pierre, Peter's sister.

Application. Le, definite art. m.—du, contraction of de le, genitive defi. art. m.—La definite art. f.—des, contraction of de les, genitive defi. art. both genders, pl.—du, in the sense of some, part. art. m.—de la, in the sense of some, part. art. f.—des, in the sense of some, part. art. both genders, pl.—de indefinite art. both genders and numbers, geni. and abl.—à dat. indef. art.

* Repeat this same preposition before each verb.

Substantive. Questions : What gender ? What number ? If the noun is singular, name its plural ; if plural, name its singular.

Examples. Le pouvoir du roi ; la liberté des hommes ; le prix des denrées, the price of provisions.

Application. Pouvoir, substantive, m. pouvoirs for its pl.—Liberté, subst. f. libertés, for its pl.—Prix, subst. m. prix for its pl.—Denrées, subst. f. pl. denrée for its singular.

Adjective. Questions : What gender ? What number ? What does it agree with in the sentence ? If it be masculine, name its fem. If it be feminine, name its masc.

Examples. Un beau chapeau, a fine hat ; ces femmes sont jolies, those ladies are pretty ; cette fille est orgueilleuse, that girl is proud.

Application. Beau, noun adj. m. agrees with chapeau ; it has belle for its feminine.—Jolies, noun adj. f. pl. agrees with femmes ; it has joli for its masculine.—Orgueilleuse, noun adj. f. agrees with fille ; it has orgueilleux for its masculine.

Pronoun. Questions : Is it personal, conjunctive, possessive, relative, demonstrative, interrogative or indefinite ? What gender ? What number ? With what does it agree in the sentence ?

Examples. Elle a mon livre, she has my book. Cette plume ne vaut rien, this pen is good for nothing. L'homme qui vous parloit, the man who was speaking to you. Il y a plusieurs années, several years ago. Quel homme ? What man ?

Application. Elle, pronoun pers. f. agrees with a. Mon, pronoun poss. m. agrees with livre. Cette, pronoun demonstr. f. agrees with plume. Qui, pronoun rel. both genders and numbers, agrees with homme. Plusieurs, pronoun indef. pl. both genders, agrees with années. Quel ? pron. int. m. agrees with homme.

Verb. Questions : Name its infinitive—its person—its number—its tense—its mode.

Examples. Pendant qu'ils étoient ensemble, j'entendis sonner midi ; while they were together, I heard twelve o'clock strike. Quoiqu'il paroisse heureux, n'enviez pas son sort ; though he may appear happy, do not envy his situation.

Application. Etoient, from être ; 3d pers. pl. imperf. tense, indic. mood. Entendis, from entendre ; 1st pers. sing. preterite, indicative mood. Paroisse, from paraître. 3d pers. sing. pres. tense, subjunc. mood. Enviez, from envier ; 2d pers. pl. imperat. mood.

Preposition. What does it govern in the sentence ?

Examples. Avant midi ; sans argent ; before noon : without money.

Application. Avant, a preposition, governs midi. Sans, a preposition, governs argent.

Conjunction. What mood does it require ? Name the verb it acts upon in the sentence.

Examples. Lorsque le roi entra, when the king came in. Quoique vous soyez riche, though you be rich. Je lis pour m'amuser, I read to amuse myself.

Application. Lorsque, a conjunction, requires the indic. Here it governs entra. Quoique, a conjunction, requires the subjunc. Here it governs soyez. Pour, a conjunction, requires the infinitive. Here it governs amuser.

Adverbs and interjections. Only name them.

Examples. Ah ! mon ami, agissez prudemment ; ah, my friend, act prudently.

Application. Ah is an interjection.—Prudemment is an adverb.

DE LA VERSIFICATION FRANÇOISE.

LES vers, à ne les considérer que sous le rapport de leur mécanisme, sont des paroles arrangées selon certaines règles fixes et déterminées.

Ces règles regardent sur-tout le nombre des syllabes, la césure, la rime, les mots que le vers exclut, les licences qu'il permet, et enfin les différentes manières dont il doit être arrangé dans chaque sorte de Poème.

Des différentes espèces de Vers françois.

On compte ordinairement cinq sortes de vers françois. C'est par le nombre des syllabes qu'on les distingue.

1°. Ceux de douze syllabes, comme :

Dans le ré-duit ob-scur d'u-ne al-co-ve en-fon-cée
S'é-lè-ve un lit de plu-me à grands frais a-mas-sée :
Qua-tre ri-deaux pom-peux, par un dou-ble con-tour,
En dé-fen-dent l'en-trée à la clar-té du jour.

Ces vers s'appellent alexandrins, héroïques ou grands vers.

2°. Ceux de dix syllabes, comme :

Du peu qu'il a le sage est sa-tis-fait.

3°. Ceux de huit syllabes, comme :

L'hi-po-cri-te en frau-des fer-ti-le,
Dès l'en-fan-ce est pé-tri de fard ;
Il sait co-lo-rer a-vec art
Le fiel que sa bou-che dis-tille.

4°. Ceux de sept syllabes, comme :

Grand Dieu ! vo-tre main ré-clame
Les dons que j'en ai re-gus.
El-le vient cou-per la trame
Des jours qu'el-le m'a tis-sus.
Mon der-nier so-leil se lève,
Et vo-tre souf-flé m'en-lève
De la ter-re des vi-vans ;
Com-me la feuil-le sé-chée
Qui, de sa ti-ge ar-ra-chée,
De-vient le jou-et des vents.

5°. Ceux de six syllabes, comme :

A soi-même o-di-eux
Le sot de tout s'ir-ri-te :
En tous lieux il s'é-vite,
Et se trouve en tous lieux.

Les vers qui ont moins de six syllabes ne sont guère d'usage que pour la poésie lyrique, et quelques petites pièces badines.

DE LA CÉSURE.

La césure est un repos qui coupe le vers en deux parties ou hémistiches.

Ce repos doit être à la sixième syllabe dans les grands vers, et à la quatrième dans ceux de dix syllabes. L'esprit et l'usage de la césure sont très-bien exprimés dans ces vers de Boileau.

Que toujours en vos vers, - le sens coupant les mots, Suspende l'hémistiche, - en marque le repos.

Sur les ailes du temps - la tristesse s'envole.

Que le mensonge - un instant vous outrage,
Tout est en feu - soudain pour l'appuyer ;
La vérité - perce enfin le nuage,
Tout est de glace - à vous justifier.

Il n'y a que les vers de douze et de dix syllabes qui aient une césure.

Pour que la césure soit bonne, il faut que le sens autorise le repos ; ainsi dans les vers suivans, la césure est défectueuse.

N'oublions pas les grands - bienfaits de la patrie.

Faites voir un regret - sincère de vos fautes.

Mon père, quoiqu'il eût - la tête des meilleures,

Ne m'a jamais rien fait - apprendre que mes heures.

La césure ne vaut rien dans ces exemples, parce que le sens exige que le mot où est la césure, et celui qui le suit, soient prononcés tout de suite et sans pause.

Mais la césure est bonne dans les vers suivans :

Ses chanoines vermeils - et brillans de santé

S'engraissoient d'une longue - et sainte oisiveté.

Ici la césure est bonne, parce qu'on peut faire une petite pause après un substantif suivi de plusieurs adjectifs, ou après plusieurs adjectifs qui suivent ou qui précèdent un substantif.

I. REMARQUE. Le dernier mot du premier hémistiche, peut se terminer par l'e muet, pourvu que le mot suivant commence par une voyelle.

Ami lui dit le chantre encor pâle d'horreur,

N'insulte pas de grâce à ma juste terreur.

Il trépigne de joie, il pleure de tendresse.

II. REM. Les pronoms cela, celui, celui-là, etc. et de qui, mis pour dont, peuvent aussi terminer le premier hémistiché, ou recevoir la césure ; on souffre cette négligence, mais il faut se la permettre rarement ; elle donne toujours aux vers un air prosaïque.

Il n'est fort entre ceux que tu prends par centaines,
Qui ne puisse arrêter un rimeur six semaines :
Bénédictions Dieu de qui la puissance est sans bornes.

Les vers de dix et de douze syllabes sont, comme tous les autres, assujétis aux règles dont il nous reste à parler.

DE LA RIME.

La Rime est la convenance de deux sons qui terminent deux vers. Quelquefois on exige aussi qu'il y ait convenance d'orthographe, que deux sons semblables soient représentés par les mêmes lettres.

Où me cacher ? fuyons dans la nuit infernale.
Mais que dis-je ? mon père y tient l'urne fatale.
Le sort, dit-on, l'a mise en ses sévères mains.
Minos juge aux enfers tous les pâles humains.

On distingue deux sortes de rimes, la féminine et la masculine. La première est celle des vers qui se terminent par un e muet, soit seul, soit suivi d'une s ou d'nt.

Travaillez à loisir, quelque ordre qui vous presse,
Et ne vous piquez point d'une folle vitesse.
Il veut les rappeler, et sa voix les effraie ;
Ils courent ; tout son corps n'est bientôt qu'une plaie.
Dans quels ravissements, à votre sort liée,
Du reste des mortels je vivrais oubliée.
Un jeune homme, toujours bouillant dans ses caprices,
Est prêt à recevoir l'impression des vices.
C'est peu qu'en un ouvrage où les fautes fourmillent,
Des traits d'esprit semés de temps en temps pétillent.

Ces vers féminins ont une syllabe de plus que les masculins : mais comme l'e muet sonne faiblement dans la syllabe qui termine le vers, cette syllabe est comptée pour rien.

La rime masculine est celle qui finit par une autre lettre que l'e muet, ou seul, ou suivi d'une s, ou enfin d'nt.

Chaque vertu devient une divinité ;
Minerve est la prudence, et Vénus la beauté.
Le travail est souvent le père du plaisir ;
Je plains l'homme accablé du poids de son loisir.

REMARQUE. La syllabe oient ou aient, qui se trouve dans les imparfaits et les conditionnels des verbes, forme une rime masculine, parce que cette syllabe a le son de l'e ouvert. Ainsi les vers suivans sont masculins.

Aux accords d'Amphion les pierres se mouvoient,
Et sur les murs Thébains en ordre s'élevoient.

RIMES RICHES ET SUFFISANTES.

Les rimes masculines et féminines se divisent en riches et en suffisantes.

I. La rime riche est formée de deux sons parfaitement semblables, et souvent représentés par les mêmes lettres.

Indomptable Taureau, Dragon impétueux,
Sa croupe se recourbe en replis tortueux.
De rage et de douleur le monstre bondissant
Vient aux pieds des chevaux tomber en mugissant.
Au moment que je parle, ah, mortelle pensée !
Ils bravent la fureur d'une amante insensée.

II. La rime suffisante est celle qui n'a pas une convenance aussi exacte de sons et d'orthographe.

Hélas ! Dieux tout-puissans, que nos pleurs vous apaisent.
Que ces vains ornemens, que ces voiles me pèsent !
Quelle importune main, en formant tous ces nœuds,
A pris soin sur mon front d'assembler mes cheveux ?

III. Dans la rime masculine, on n'a guère égard en général, qu'au dernier son des mots : ainsi maison rime avec poison ; piété avec pureté ; procès avec succès.

IV. Mais dans la rime féminine, on fait une attention particulière au son de l'avant dernière syllabe, parce que celui de la dernière n'est ni assez plein, ni assez marqué, pour produire une conformité de son sensible et agréable à l'oreille. Ainsi mère et mâre, audace et justice, estime et diadème ne rimeroient pas ensemble, quoique ces mots se terminent par la même syllabe re, ce, me.

Mais visible et sensible, monde et profonde, justice et précipice, usage et partage, peuvent rimer ensemble, parce que ces mots ont une convenance de sons dans les avant-dernières syllabes.

V. Comme la convenance de sons est essentielle à la rime, on ne sauroit bien faire rimer les syllabes brèves avec les longues, les l mouillées avec les l non mouillées, etc. comme maître et mètre ; joûte et route ; jeune (qui n'est pas vieux) et jeûne (abstinence) ; la *fil*le et la *fi*le ; péril et puéril, etc. Ainsi J. B. Rousseau a manqué à son exactitude ordinaire, quand il disoit à son ami ;

Et sur ce bord émaillé
Où Neuilli borde la Seine, Reviens au vin d'Auvil
Mêler les eaux d'Hypocrène.

VI. L'e fermé, l'i et l'u, soit seuls, soit suivis des consonnes l, s, t ou z, ne forment pas de bonnes rimes, si dans les deux syllabes rimantes ils ne sont précédés de la même consonne. Ainsi bonté et donné, vertus et reçus, amis et avis, cultivez et portez, ne rimeroient pas bien.

Choisissez des amis de qui la piété
Vous soit un sûr garant de leur fidélité.
Ami droit et sincère on doit à ses amis
Garder fidèlement ce qu'on leur a promis.

VII. L'observation précédente a lieu pour l'a dans les verbes : il donna et il aima, il porta et il rêva, il immola et il saura, ne rimeroient pas ensemble. Et en général elle est d'usage pour tous les sons communs à un grand nombre de mots. Ainsi les sons ant ou ent, eu et on ne riment bien qu'autant qu'ils sont précédés des mêmes lettres, comme puissant, chassant ; agrément, régiment ; passion, mission ; ambitieux, religieux ; vieux, mieux.

Mais les mots suivans ne rimeroient pas bien ensemble : puissant, chancelant ; raison, passion ; heureux, religieux, etc.

VIII. Quand la rime est formée par des sons pleins, comme ar, as, al, or, os, ot, er, ès, et, ai, ei, oi, au, eau, eu, ou ; par an, am, en, em, ion, oin ; en un mot par des voyelles précédées d'une ou de plusieurs consonnes, alors on n'exige pas que la lettre qui précède soit la même dans les mots qu'on veut faire rimer. Par exemple, embarras et combats, gros et sots, progrès et succès, mer et enfer, ouvert et souffert, soupir et désir, espoir et devoir, jamais et parfaits, pain et main, nuit et conduit, témoins et besoins, soutiens et conviens, et autres semblables peuvent rimer ensemble.

IX. Un mot en e, x, ou z, ne peut rimer qu'avec un mot terminé par l'une de ces trois consonnes. Ainsi admirable et tables, risible et plausibles, le secours et le jour, la vanité et vous méritez, la foi et les lois, le courageux et le genou, etc. ne rimeront pas bien ensemble.

Mais lais et Rois, courroux et tous, célestes et tu détestes, vanités et vous méditez, clefs et vous raclez, le discours et le cours, formeront de bonnes rimes.

X. Dans les verbes ois et oit, ayant le son de l'ouvert, ne riment guère qu'avec un autre verbe. Quoique j'aimois et jamais, donnois et harnois, plaçoit et lacet, manquoit et banquet, je déplaçois et les succès, se terminent par le même son, l'usage ordinaire est de ne les pas faire rimer ensemble.

XI. Les terminaisons ent, oient ou aient, ne doivent rimer qu'avec des verbes qui aient les mêmes terminaisons : ils privent, ils écrivent ; ils lurent, ils burent ; qu'ils surfassent, qu'ils effacent ; etc. mais ils méprisent ne rimeroient pas bien avec entreprise ; la surface avec ils surpassent.

XII. La convenance des sons et d'orthographe ne peut autoriser la rime du mot avec lui-même, d'un simple avec son composé, ni même de deux mots dérivés de la même racine, quand ils se ressemblent trop pour la signification. Ainsi la rime est défectueuse dans ces vers :

Je connois trop les Grande, dans le malheur amis, Ingrats dans la fortune, et bientôt ennemis.

Elle est tout-à-fait vicieuse dans ceux-ci :

Les chefs et les soldats ne se connoissent plus ;
L'un ne peut commander, l'autre n'obéit plus.

XIII. Mais deux mots entièrement semblables par le son et l'orthographe riment bien ensemble, lorsqu'ils ont des significations différentes. Les dérivés sont dans le même cas, s'ils n'ont plus un rapport sensible pour le sens.

Prends-moi le bon parti, laisse-là tous les livres :
Cent francs au denier cinq, combien font-ils ? vingt livres.
Nobles, souvenez-vous qu'une naissance illustre
Des sentimens du cœur reçoit son plus beau lustre.
Dieu punit les forfaits que les rois ont commis,
Ceux qu'ils n'ont point vengés, et ceux qu'ils ont permis.

XIV. Les deux hémistiches d'un vers ne doivent pas rimer ensemble, ni même avoir une convenance de sons, comme :

Il ne tiendra qu'à toi de partir avec moi.
Aux Saumaises futurs préparer des tortures.

XV. Le dernier hémistiche d'un vers ne doit pas non plus rimer avec le premier du vers précédent ou du vers suivant.

Il faut, pour les avoir, employer tous vos soins ;
Ils sont à moi, du moins tout autant qu'à mon frère.

Un fiacre, me couvrant d'un déluge de boue
Contre le mur voisin m'écrase de sa roue ;
Et, voulant me sauver, des porteurs inhumains
De leur maudit bâton me donnent dans les reins.

XVI. Il faut encore éviter la rime dans les premiers hémistiches de deux vers qui se suivent.

Sinon demain matin, si vous le trouvez bon,
Je mettrai de ma main le feu dans la maison.

Quelquefois cependant la rime des premiers hémistiches n'a rien de choquant ; c'est lorsqu'elle se fait par la répétition d'une pensée, d'une expression qu'on reproduit à dessein, pour fixer davantage l'attention du lecteur ; comme :

Qui cherche vraiment Dieu, dans lui seul se repose ;
Et qui craint vraiment Dieu, ne craint rien autre chose.

Des termes que le vers exclut.

I. Les bons Poètes rejettent avec soin tous les termes durs, ou difficiles à prononcer, ou bas et prosaïques. Rarement ils se servent des conjonctions que les orateurs emploient souvent pour lier et arrondir leurs périodes ; telles que c'est pourquoi, parce que, pourvu que, puisque, de manière, de façon que, de sorte que ou en sorte que, outre, d'ailleurs, en effet, etc.

Il est un heureux choix de mots harmonieux ;
Fuyez des mauvais sons le concours odieux.
Le vers le mieux rempli, la plus noble pensée,
Ne peut plaire à l'esprit, quand l'oreille est blessée.

II. Un mot terminé par une autre voyelle que l'e muet, ne peut être suivi d'un mot qui commence aussi par une voyelle ou une h muette : ce seroit un hiatus.

Gardez qu'une voyelle à courir trop hâtée,
Ne soit d'une voyelle en son chemin heurtée.

Ainsi les phrases suivantes ne formeroient pas de vers :

Que l'aimable vertu a peu d'adorateurs !
Evitez le souci, et fuyez la colère.

III. Comme la conjonction et a toujours le son de l'e fermé, elle ne sauroit non plus dans le vers être suivie d'une voyelle. On ne pourroit pas dire en vers :

Qui sert et aime Dieu, possède toutes choses.

Mais on dira bien :

Qui connoit et sert Dieu, possède toutes choses.

IV. Les voyelles nasales qui, dans la prononciation, ne doivent pas être liées avec le mot suivant, ne peuvent avec grâce être suivies d'un mot qui commence par une voyelle. Ainsi la rencontre des voyelles nasales et des voyelles simples est désagréable dans ce vers :

Un grand nom est un poids difficile à porter.

Ah ! j'attendrai long-temps, la nuit est loin encore.

Cependant cette rencontre peut se souffrir, quand la prononciation permet de pratiquer un petit repos entre le mot qui finit par un son nasal, et le mot qui commence par une voyelle ; comme dans ce vers de l'Athalie de Racine :

Celui qui met un frein à la fureur des flots,

Sait aussi des méchans arrêter les complots.

V. L'e muet final et précédé d'une voyelle, comme dans donnée, aimée, Asie, envie, la paie, la joie, la proie, la rue, entrevue, etc. ne peut entrer dans le corps du vers qu'au moyen de l'élision ; ainsi les vers suivants sont mal construits :

Au travers du Soleil, ma vue s'éblouit.

Ils vous louent tout haut et vous jouent tout bas.

Il avoue sa faute et demande pardon.

Mais ceux-ci sont réguliers à cause de l'élision,

La joie est naturelle aux âmes innocentes.

A quels mortels regrets ma vie est réservée !

VI. L'e muet, dans le corps du mot et précédé d'une voyelle, est compté pour rien dans la prononciation ; souvent même on ne l'écrit pas. Il agrèra, criera, louera, reniement, dévouement, etc. ne sont pas plus de syllabes que agréra, créra, louéra, reniment, dévoument.

ENJAMBEMENT DES VERS.

Les vers n'ont ni grâce ni harmonie, quand on rejette au commencement du second vers des mots qui dépendent nécessairement de ce qui se trouve à la fin du premier.

Quel que soit votre ami, sachez que mutuelle
Doit être l'amitié ; même ardeur, même zèle.
Il n'est donc point d'amis, pour la dernière fois
Je le répète encor : peu connoissent les lois
D'une vraie amitié.

Dans le premier vers, mutuelle dépend nécessairement de ces mots doit être l'amitié.

Dans les derniers, ces mots d'une vraie amitié sont dépendans de ceux-ci, les lois, et l'on ne peut les séparer dans la prononciation.

Ces enjambemens sont proscrits dans la haute poésie, mais ils se tolèrent dans les fables et dans les autres pièces de style familier.

Si néanmoins la dépendance d'un vers s'étendoit jusqu'à la fin du suivant, en sorte qu'à la fin du premier il y eût un petit repos, l'harmonie loin d'être blessée n'en seroit que plus sensible.

Là gît la sombre envie, à l'œil timide et louche, Versant sur des lauriers les poisons de sa bouche.
Ce malheureux combat ne fit qu'approfondir
L'abîme dont Valois vouloit en vain sortir.—VOLT.

Des licences qu'on se permet dans les Vers.

Ces licences consistent dans certaines dispositions de mots, dans l'emploi de plusieurs termes dont la prose n'oseroit se servir, dans le retranchement d'une lettre.

DES TRANSPOSITIONS.

I. On place avec grâce les régimes composés avant les mots et les verbes dont ils dépendent.

A la Religion soyez toujours fidèle,
Les mœurs et la vertu ne sauvent point sans elle.
C'est Dieu qui du néant a tiré l'univers ;
C'est lui qui sur la terre a répandu les mers.
Sans Dieu rien n'eût été,
Et lui seul des mortels fait la félicité.
A vous former le cœur appliquez-vous sans cesse.

II. On place entre l'auxiliaire et le participe, entre le verbe et son régime, des mots qui n'y seroient pas soufferts en prose.

Un vieillard vénérable avoit, loin de la Cour,
Cherché la douce paix dans un obscur séjour :
Dieu fit dans ce désert descendre la sagesse.

Les transpositions, quand elles sont naturelles, et qu'elles n'embarrassent pas le sens de la phrase, donnent de la grâce et de la noblesse à la poésie ; mais elles ne valent rien, lorsqu'elles rendent le vers dur, ou qu'elles obscurcissent la pensée, comme dans les vers suivans :

Quoi ! voit-on revêtu de l'étole sacrée
Le prêtre de l'autel s'arrêter à l'entrée ?
Craignez de votre orgueil de vous rendre la dupe.
Que toujours la fierté, l'honneur, la bienséance
De cette folle ardeur s'oppose à la naissance.

Des mots propres à la Poésie.

La poésie se sert en général des mêmes mots que la prose ; cependant il y a quelques expressions que les Poètes emploient heureusement, et qui seroient dé placées dans la prose. Telles sont antique pour ancien : coursier pour cheval : l'Eternel, le Très-Haut, le Tout-Puissant pour Dieu : le flanc pour le sein, le ventre : le glaive pour l'épée : les humains, les mortels ; la race de Japet pour les hommes : hymen ou hyménée pour mariage : espoir pour espérance : le penser pour la pensée : jadis pour autrefois : naguère ou naguères pour il n'y a pas long-temps : labeur pour travail : repentance pour repentir : soudain pour aussilôt : ombre éternelle, sombres bords pour l'enfer, etc.

Où sont, Dieu de Jacob, tes antiques bontés ?
On fait cas d'un coursier, qui, fier et plein de cœur,
Fait paroître en courant sa bouillante vigueur.
L'Eternel en ses mains tient seul nos destinées.
Célébrons dans nos chants la gloire du Très-haut.
Si quelque audacieux embrasse sa querelle,
Qu'à la fureur du glaive on le livre avec elle.
Souvent d'un faux espoir un amant est nourri.
Les Dieux m'en sont témoins, ces Dieux qui dans mon flanc
Ont allumé le feu fatal à tout mon sang,
Ces Dieux qui se sont fait une gloire cruelle
De séduire le cœur d'une foible mortelle.
Soumise à mon époux, et cachant mes ennuis,
De son fatal hymen je cultivois les fruits.

On n'aime plus comme on aimoit jadis.
Va dans l'ombre éternelle, ombre pleine d'envie ;
Et ne te mêle plus de censurer ma vie.

La lecture des bons Poètes fournira une foule d'autres expressions propres à la poésie.

Nous écrivons en prose je crois, je vois, je dis, je sais, je vis, j'avertis, etc. Les Poètes, selon le besoin, emploient ou retranchent l's dans ces mots. Ils écrivent de même jusque ou jusques, encore ou encor, grâce au Ciel ou grâces au Ciel. Ils emploient aussi alors que, pour lorsque, cependant que pour pendant que, avecque pour avec, etc.

Les bons Poètes se servent rarement de la plupart de ces dernières licences ; et ceux qui se livrent à la poésie ne doivent pas oublier le précepte de Boileau.

Sur tout qu'en vos écrits la langue révérée,
 Dans vos plus grands excès vous soit toujours sacrée ;
 Envain vous me frappez d'un son mélodieux,
 Si le terme est impropre ou le tour vicieux ;
 Mon esprit n'admet point un pompeux barbarisme,
 Ni d'un vers ampoulé l'orgueilleux solécisme.
 Sans la langue, en un mot, l'auteur le plus divin,
 Est toujours, quoiqu'il fasse, un méchant écrivain.

DE L'ARRANGEMENT DES VERS ENTR'EUX.

Dans les différentes manières dont les vers doivent être arrangés, il faut considérer la rime et le nombre des syllabes.

Le nombre des syllabes est arbitraire dans les pièces libres et dans la poésie lyrique ; mais il est déterminé dans les autres pièces sérieuses, qui sont la plupart écrites en vers de douze syllabes. Ainsi dans le Poème épique, l'Eglogue, l'Elégie, la Satyre, l'Epître, et dans la Tragédie et la haute Comédie, il est d'usage de n'employer que le vers Alexandrin.

Quant à la rime, deux vers masculins peuvent être suivis de deux vers féminins, et vice versâ ; ou bien un vers masculin est suivi d'un ou de deux féminins, et un vers féminin d'un ou de deux masculins.

On appelle vers à rimes plates ceux qui sont disposés de la première façon, comme les suivans.

De figures sans nombre, égayez votre ouvrage ;
 Que tout y fasse aux yeux une riante image :
 On peut être à la fois et pompeux et plaisant,
 Et je hais un sublime ennuyeux, languissant.
 Un poème excellent où tout marche et se suit,
 N'est pas de ces travaux qu'un caprice produit :
 Il veut du temps, des soins ; et ce pénible ouvrage
 Jamais d'un écolier ne fut l'apprentissage.

On appelle vers à rimes croisées ceux qui sont ordonnés de la seconde manière, comme ceux-ci dans lesquels Rousseau dit en parlant de Circé furieuse :

Sa voix redoutable
 Trouble les enfers,
 Un bruit formidable Gronde dans les airs,
 Un voile effroyable
 Couvre l'Univers.

Mais quand on n'observe d'autre règle que de ne pas mettre de suite plus de deux vers masculins ou féminins, et qu'on fait suivre un vers masculin ou féminin d'un ou de deux vers d'une rime différente, alors ils s'appellent vers à rimes mêlées, comme ceux-ci :

Ah ! si d'une pauvreté dure
 Nous cherchons à nous affranchir,
 Rapprochons-nous de la nature,
 Qui seule peut nous enrichir.
 Forçons de funestes obstacles ;
 Réservons pour nos tabernacles
 Cet or, ces rubis, ces métaux ;
 Ou dans le sein des mers avides
 Jetons ces richesses perfides,
 L'unique aliment de nos maux.

Lorsque les vers sont en rimes plates, ils ont ordinairement le même nombre de syllabes. Mais lorsqu'ils sont à rimes croisées ou à rimes mêlées souvent ils ont une mesure inégale.

Dans les vers à rimes plates, c'est un défaut de faire revenir deux rimes masculines ou féminines déjà employées, de manière qu'elles ne soient séparées de deux autres semblables que par deux rimes d'une espèce différente, comme dans cet exemple :

Soudain Potier se lève et demande audience :
 Chacun, à son aspect, garde un profond silence.
 Dans ce temps malheureux par le crime infecté,
 Potier fut toujours juste, et pourtant respecté.
 Souvent on l'avoit vu, par sa mâle éloquence,
 De leurs emportemens réprimer la licence,
 Et, conservant sur eux sa vieille autorité,
 Leur montrer la justice avec impunité,

L'oreille est aussi choquée par la convenance de sons dans les rimes masculines et féminines qui se suivent, comme dans ces vers, d'ailleurs pleins de belles images.

Tel des antres du Nord échappés sur la terre,
Précédés par les vents, et suivis du tonnerre,
D'un tourbillon de poudre obscurcissant les airs,
Les orages fougueux parcourent l'Univers.

On compose à rimes plates les grands poèmes, tels que l'Épopée, la Tragédie, la Comédie, l'Églogue, l'Élégie, la Satyre, l'Épître ; à rimes croisées, l'Ode, le Sonnet, le Rondeau ; et à rimes mêlées, les Stances, l'Épigramme, les Fables, les Madrigaux, les Chansons.

Il n'y a d'autres règles à observer dans les grands poèmes pour la distribution des rimes, que d'éviter la consonance, et de ranger les vers masculins et féminins deux à deux les uns après les autres. Nous ne nous étendons donc pas davantage sur cet article par rapport à l'Épopée, à la Tragédie, etc. Nous ne dirons rien non plus des autres règles de ces poèmes. Ces dissertations nous mèneraient trop loin. Consultez l'Art poétique de Boileau, et les meilleures poétiques anciennes et modernes.

Mais l'ordonnance des vers dans plusieurs petits poèmes a des règles fixes et particulières. Ce sera le sujet des articles suivans.

DES STANCES.

Une Stance est un certain nombre de vers, après lesquels le sens est fini. Dans une Ode elle s'appelle Strophe.

Une stance n'a pas ordinairement moins de quatre vers, ni plus de dix. La mesure des vers y est arbitraire ; ils peuvent être ou tous grands ou tous petits, ou bien mêlés les uns avec les autres.

Les stances sont appelées régulières, lorsqu'elles ont un même nombre de vers, un même mélange de rimes, et que les grands et les petits vers y sont également distribués. Elles sont appelées irrégulières, lorsqu'elles n'ont pas toutes ces convenances.

Pour la perfection des stances, il est nécessaire,
1°. Que le sens finisse avec le dernier vers de chacune.

2°. Que le dernier vers d'une strophe ne rime pas avec le premier de la suivante.

3°. Que les strophes d'une même pièce commencent et finissent par des rimes de même nature ; c'est-à-dire, que si le premier vers d'une strophe finit par une rime masculine, les premiers vers des strophes suivantes doivent également être masculins. Il est cependant bon de remarquer que quoiqu'en général il ne soit pas permis de mettre de suite quatre rimes de même espèce, cependant plusieurs auteurs l'ont fait d'une strophe à l'autre, parce qu'ils ont regardé chaque strophe d'une pièce comme isolée, et comme indépendante de celle qui suit. Mais nous croyons que cette licence ne peut être tolérée que dans les chansons.

Si une strophe est seule, elle prend un nom particulier, du nombre de vers dont elle est composée. Elle s'appelle Quatrain, si elle en a quatre ; Sixain, si elle en a six ; Dixain, si elle en a dix. Et quelquefois à raison du sujet, c'est une Epigramme, un Madrigal. On appeloit autrefois Octave une strophe de huit vers.

On voit que toutes ces strophes sont du nombre pair. Il y en a aussi du nombre impair, de cinq, de sept et de neuf vers.

RÈGLES POUR LES STANCES DE NOMBRE PAIR.

1. Stances de quatre vers.

Ces stances sont plusieurs quatrains joints ensemble, et liés par un sens qui dure jusqu'à la fin de la pièce. Entre le premier vers masculin ou féminin, et celui qui lui répond, on met un ou deux vers d'une rime différente, comme dans ces vers où l'Amitié fait elle-même son portrait.

J'ai le visage long, et la mine naïve,

Je suis sans finesse et sans art.

Mon teint est fort uni, ma couleur assez vive,

Et je ne mets jamais de fard.

Mon abord est civil ; j'ai la bouche riante,

Et mes yeux ont mille douceurs :

Mais quoique je sois belle, agréable et charmante,

Je règne sur bien peu de cœurs.

On me proteste assez, et presque tous les hommes
 Se vantent de suivre mes lois :
 Mais que j'en connois peu dans le siècle où nous sommes,
 Dont le cœur réponde à ma voix !
 Ceux que je fais aimer d'une flamme fidèle,
 Me sont l'objet de tous leurs soins ;
 Et quoique je vieillisse, ils me trouvent fort belle,
 Et ne m'en estiment pas moins.
 On m'accuse pourtant d'aimer trop à paroître
 Où l'on voit la prospérité ;
 Cependant il est vrai qu'on ne me peut connoître
 Qu'au milieu de l'adversité.

Autre exemple :

Dans ce salon pacifique
 Où président les neuf sœurs,
 Un loisir philosophique
 T'offre encor d'autres douceurs.
 Là, nous trouverons sans peine
 Avec toi, le verre en main,
 L'homme après qui Diogène
 Courut si long-temps en vain.
 Et dans la douce allégresse
 Dont tu sais nous abreuver,
 Nous puiserons la sagesse
 Qu'il chercha sans la trouver.—J. B. ROUSSEAU.

REMARQUE. Les véritables quatrains n'ont aucune liaison pour le sens, et la morale en est ordinairement la matière. Exemple :

Ne demandez à Dieu ni gloire, ni richesse,
 Ni ces biens dont l'éclat rend le peuple étonné :
 Mais pour bien commander, demandez la sagesse ;
 Avec un don si saint tout vous sera donné.
 Ecoutez et lisez la céleste parole,
 Que, dans les livres saints, Dieu nous donne pour loi.
 La politique humaine au prix d'elle est frivole,
 Et forme plus souvent un tyran qu'un bon Roi.

II. Stances de six vers.

Elles sont composées d'un quatrain et de deux vers d'une même rime, qui se mettent au commencement ou à la fin. D'ailleurs les vers d'un quatrain se mêlent de la même manière que ci-dessus.

Si les deux vers d'une même rime sont au commencement, alors à la fin du troisième, on met ordinairement un repos, et le sens ne doit pas s'étendre jusqu'au quatrième. Ce repos donne beaucoup de grâce et d'harmonie à cette sorte de stances.

On peut voir, par les exemples suivans, que ce repos peut être plus ou moins marqué, et qu'il n'est pas rigoureusement exigé dans les sixains.

Ce n'est donc point assez que ce peuple perfidé,
De la sainte cité profanateur stupide,
Ait dans tout l'Orient porté ses étendards ;
Et paisible tyran de la Grèce abattue,
Partage à notre vne
La plus belle moitié du trône des Césars.
Des veilles, des travaux un foible cœur s'étonne.
Apprenons toutefois, que le fils de Latone,
Dont nous suivons la cour,
Ne nous vend qu'à ce prix ces traits de vive flamme
Et ces ailes de feu qui ravissent une âme
Au céleste séjour.

La place de ce repos varie, et est tantôt après le second, tantôt après le quatrième vers, dans les sixains où les deux vers d'une même rime sont à la fin de la strophe, comme dans les stances suivantes.

Seigneur, dans ton temple adorable,
Quel mortel est digne d'entrer ?
Qui pourra, grand Dieu pénétrer
Ce sanctuaire impénétrable,
Où tes saints inclinés, d'un œil respectueux,
Contemplant de ton front l'éclat majestueux ?

Ce sera celui qui du vice Evite le sentier impur,
Qui marche d'un pas ferme et sûr,
Dans le chemin de la justice ;
- Attentif et fidèle à distinguer sa voix,
Intrépide et sévère à pratiquer ses loix ;

Celui devant qui le superbe,
Enfê d'une vaine splendeur,
Paroît plus bas dans sa grandeur
Que l'insecte caché sous l'herbe ;
Qui bravant du méchant le faste couronné,
Honore la vertu du juste infortuné.

III. Stances de huit vers.

Ces stances ne sont ordinairement que deux quatrains joints ensemble. Le sens doit finir après le premier ; et les vers de tous les deux s'entrelacent, comme nous l'avons déjà dit. Exemple :

Tel en un sacré vallon,
Sur le bord d'une onde pure,
Croît à l'abri de l'Aquilon
Un jeune lys, l'amour de la nature.
Loin du monde élevé, de tous les dons des Cieux
Il est orné dès sa naissance ;
Et du méchant l'abord contagieux
N'altère point son innocence.

RACINE, chœurs d'Athalie.

Si quelque jour étant ivre
La mort arrêtoit mes pas,
Je ne voudrois pas revivre
Après un si doux trépas :
Je m'en irois dans l'Averne
Faire enivrer Alecton,
Et bâtir une taverne
Dans le manoir de Pluton.—MAITRE ADAM.

Ces stances peuvent aussi commencer par deux vers sur une même rime, et les six autres sont sur des rimes croisées. Quelquefois aussi ces stances n'ont qu'un sixain sur deux ou trois rimes, après quoi viennent deux vers de même rime.

Ces mélanges de rime peuvent aisément se concevoir, sans qu'il soit nécessaire d'en citer des exemples ; d'ailleurs ils ne sont pas communs.

IV. Stances de dix vers.

Les stances de dix vers ne sont autre chose qu'un quatrain et un sixain, dont les vers s'entremêlent selon les règles ordinaires. Elles tirent leur harmonie d'un premier repos placé à la fin du quatrain, et d'un second après le septième vers. Ex.

C'est un arrêt du Ciel, il faut que l'homme meure ;
Tel est son partage et son sort :
Rien n'est plus certain que la mort,
Et rien plus incertain que cette dernière heure.
Heureuse incertitude, utile obscurité,
Par où ta divine bonté
A veiller, à prier, sans cesse nous convie !
Que ne pouvons-nous point avec un tel secours,
Qui nous fait regarder tous les jours de la vie
Comme le dernier de nos jours !

Les Cieux instruisent la terre
 A révéler leur auteur ;
 Tout ce que leur globe enserre,
 Célèbre un Dieu Créateur.
 Quel plus sublime cantique
 Que ce concert magnifique
 De tous les célestes corps !
 Quelle grandeur infinie !
 Quelle divine harmonie
 Résulte de leurs accords !

RÈGLES POUR LES STANCES DE NOMBRE IMPAIR.

Les stances de nombre impair ont toutes, trois vers sur une même rime. L'ordonnance des vers y est d'ailleurs arbitraire, excepté qu'on ne peut mettre que deux rimes semblables de suite, et que le quatrain par lequel commencent les stances de sept ou de neuf vers, doit être terminé par un repos.

Stances de cinq vers.

O rives du Jourdain ! ô champs aimés des Cieux !
 Sacrés monts, fertiles vallées,
 Par cent miracles signalées,
 Du doux pays de nos ayeux
 Serons-nous toujours exilées ?

Pardonne, Dieu puissant, pardonne à ma faiblesse,
 A l'aspect des méchans, confus, épouvanté,
 Le trouble m'a saisi, mes pas ont hésité ;
 Mon zèle m'a trahi, Seigneur, je le confesse,
 En voyant leur prospérité.

Stances de sept vers.

Si la loi du Seigneur vous touche,
 Si le mensonge vous fait peur,
 Si la justice en votre cœur
 Règne aussi bien qu'en votre bouche ;
 Parlez, fils des hommes, pourquoi
 Faut-il qu'une haine farouche
 Préside aux jugemens que vous lancez sur moi ?

Stance de neuf vers.

Quel rempart, quelle autre barrière
 Pourra défendre l'innocent
 Contre la fraude meurtrière
 De l'impie adroit et puissant ?
 Sa langue aux feintes préparée,

Ressemblé à la flèche acérée
 Qui part et frappe en un moment
 C'est un feu léger dans l'entrée,
 Que suit un long embrasement.

DU SONNET.

Boileau feint qu'Apollon,

Voulant pousser à bout tous les rimeurs françois,
 Inventa du Sonnet les rigoureuses lois,
 Voulut qu'en deux quatrains de mesure pareille,
 La rime avec deux sons frappât huit fois l'oreille ;
 Et qu'ensuite six vers artistement rangés,
 Fussent en deux tercets par le sens partagés.
 Sur-tout de ce poème il bannit la licence,
 Défendit qu'un vers foible y pût jamais entrer,
 Et qu'un mot déjà mis osât s'y remontrer.
 Du reste il l'enrichit d'une beauté suprême :
 Un Sonnet sans défaut vaut seul un long Poème.

Le Sonnet est composé de quatorze vers d'une mesure égale, et pour l'ordinaire de douze syllabes ; ces vers sont partagés en deux quatrains et un sixain.

Les rimes masculines et féminines des deux quatrains sont semblables, et on les entremêle dans l'un, de la même manière que dans l'autre.

Le sixain se coupe en deux tercets, c'est-à-dire, en deux stances de trois vers. Ces tercets commencent l'un et l'autre par deux rimes semblables, en sorte que le troisième vers du premier, rime avec le troisième du second.

Il faut éviter que le mélange des rimes, dans les quatre derniers vers du sixain, soit le même que dans les quatrains.

Le second vers de chaque quatrain doit avoir un repos. Les deux quatrains et les deux tercets doivent être terminés chacun par un repos encore plus grand.

D'ailleurs tout doit être noble dans ce Poème, pensées, style, élocution. Point de répétitions, point de redondance. La force et l'élévation en sont les principaux caractères.

On voit cependant des Sonnets, dont les sujets ne sont pas sublimes ; le style alors en est médiocre, et doit l'être. Voici deux exemples du Sonnet. Le premier dans le genre simple, exprime la nature même du Sonnet.

Doris, qui sait qu'aux vers quelquefois je me plais,
Me demande un Sonnet et je m'en désespère.
Quatorze vers grand Dieu, le moyen de les faire !
En voilà cependant déjà quatre de faits.
Je ne pouvais d'abord trouver de rime, mais
En faisant, on apprend à se tirer d'affaire.
Poursuivons ; les quatrains ne m'étonneront guère,
Si du premier tercet je puis faire les frais.
Je commence au hasard, et si je ne m'abuse,
Je n'ai pas commencé sans l'aven de ma Muse,
Puisqu'en si peu de temps je m'en tire si net.
J'entame le second, et ma joie est extrême ;
Car des vers commandés j'achève le treizième.
Comptez s'ils sont quatorze, et voilà le Sonnet.

AUTRE SONNET.

Grand Dieu tes jugemens sont remplis d'équité :
Toujours tu prends plaisir à nous être propice ;
Mais j'ai tant fait de mal, que jamais ta bonté
Ne me pardonnera qu'en blessant ta justice.
Oui, Seigneur, la grandeur de mon impiété
Ne laisse à ton pouvoir que le choix du supplice.
Ton intérêt s'oppose à ma félicité,
Et ta clémence même attend que je périsse.
Contente ton désir, puisqu'il t'est glorieux ;
Offense-toi des pleurs qui coulent de mes yeux :
Tonne, frappe, il est temps, rends-moi guerre pour guerre.
J'adore, en périsant, la raison qui t'aigrit :
Mais dessus quel endroit tombera ton tonnerre
Qui ne soit tout couvert du sang de Jésus-Christ.

DU RONDEAU.

Le Rondeau né Gaulois a la naïveté.

Tel est le caractère de ce petit poème. Toutes sortes de vers y sont propres, excepté les Alexandrins qui ont trop de gravité. Il y entre treize vers de même mesure, sur deux rimes.

On peut faire dans le Rondeau ce qu'on ne fait point dans les autres Poèmes. Comme il ne doit y avoir dans les huit derniers vers que trois rimes féminines, on peut mettre de suite sur trois rimes masculines le cinquième, le sixième et le septième. Mais on fait rarement ce mélange dans les cinq derniers vers.

Le Rondeau a deux repos nécessaires, l'un après le cinquième vers, l'autre après le refrain.

Le refrain qui se place après le huitième vers, et à la fin de la pièce, n'est autre chose que la répétition d'un ou de plusieurs mots du premier vers. Il doit avoir un sens lié avec ce qui précède, et être amené délicatement. Le premier des deux Rondceaux qui suivent, explique les règles du poème.

*Ma foi, c'est fait de moi, car Isabeau
M'a conjuré de lui faire un Rondeau :
Cela me met en une peine extrême.
Quoi treize vers, huit en eau, cinq en éme ! (des rimes d'ivoire)
Je lui ferois aussi-tôt un bateau.
En voilà cinq pourtant en un monceau :
Fesons-en huit en invoquant Brodeau,
Et puis mettons par quelque stratagème,
*Ma foi, c'est fait.

*Si je pouvois encor de mon cerveau
Tirer cinq vers, l'ouvrage seroit beau :
Mais cependant me voilà dans l'onzième,
Et si je crois que je fais le douzième :
En voilà treize ajustés au niveau.
*Ma foi, c'est fait.

AUTRE RONDEAU.

*Le bel esprit, au siècle de Marot,
Des dons du Ciel passoit pour le gros lot ;
Des grands seigneurs il donnoit accointance,
Menoit par fois à noble jouissance,
Et qui plus est fesoit bouillir le pot.
Or est passé ce temps où d'un bon mot,
Stance ou dixain, on payoit son écot ;
Plus n'en voyons qui prennent pour finance
*Le bel esprit.

*A prix d'argent l'auteur, comme le sot,
Boit sa chopine et mange son gigot ;
Heureux encor d'en avoir suffisance !
Maints ont le chef plus rempli que la panse :
Dame Ignorance a fait enfin capot
*Le bel esprit.

DE L'ÉPIGRAMME.

L'Épigramme plus libre, en son tour plus borné, N'est souvent qu'un bon mot de deux rimes orné.

Cette pièce ne doit contenir qu'autant de vers qu'il en faut pour exprimer vivement la pensée ou le bon mot qui en est l'âme. C'est pourquoi le nombre n'en est pas déterminé, non plus que la mesure et le mélange des rimes. Exemple :

Ci-gît ma femme : ah ! qu'elle est bien
Pour son repos et pour le mien !

Un Magister s'empressant d'étouffer
Quelque rumeur parmi la populace,
D'un coup dans l'œil se fit apostropher,
Dont il tomba, faisant laide grimace.
Lors un frater s'écria : place, place ;
J'ai pour ce mal un baume souverain.
Perdrai-je l'œil ? lui dit messer Pancrace ;
Non, mon ami, je le tiens dans ma main.

AUTRE ÉPIGRAMME.

Entre Racine et l'ainé des Corneilles
Les Chrysogons se font modérateurs :
L'un, à leur gré, passe les sept merveilles ;
L'autre ne plaît qu'aux versificateurs.
Or maintenant, veillez, graves auteurs,
Mordez vos doigts, ramez comme corsaires,
Pour mériter de pareils protecteurs,
Ou pour trouver de pareils adversaires.

DU MADRIGAL.

Le Madrigal plus simple, et plus noble en son tour,
Respire la douceur, la tendresse et l'amour.—BOILEAU.

Ce petit poème ne diffère que par-là de l'Epigramme, dont la pointe est souvent aiguisée par la satire. Exemple :

L'autre jour l'enfant de Cythère,
Sous une treille à demi gris,
Disoit, en parlant à sa mère :
Je bois à toi, ma chère Iris.
Vénus le regarde en colère :
Maman, calmez votre courroux,
Si je vous prends pour ma bergère,
J'ai pris cent fois Iris pour vous.

NOTA. Le Sonnet et le Rondeau ont aujourd'hui perdu toute leur vogue, et il est très-rare que l'on s'exerce dans ces deux genres de poésie.

LONG experience has shewn, that to acquire the habit of conversing in a foreign language, the surest method for the learner, is to commit a great number of phrases employed in conversation and adapted to the rules of the Grammar which he goes through.

Most persons, who have studied the French language with care, find little, or no difficulty, in reading our Authors, but very few indeed find themselves able to converse with fluency. For the purpose of removing this difficulty, a list of many books, or manuals of conversation, has been published; some containing useful matter, many without method or accuracy, all arranged in chapters, or under heads, taking the most common subjects which may be the topics of conversation, as if the mind, transformed into a mechanical engine, could apply such chapters to all cases which may occur in discourse. A book therefore is still needed, which being adapted to one of the best Grammars in use, may—First, give to the learner a number of phrases, placed under each rule, analogous to the exercise which is to be written. Second, incorporate with those phrases all words in common use, arranged, as far as possible, according to some fixed principle. Third, introduce gradually the idioms of the language, beginning with the most simple.

Such is the plan of the Manual which we have added to WANOSTROCHT'S GRAMMAR. Every number, or division, corresponds to a rule, and we have added a quotation, from some of our best poets, to almost every paragraph. For the phrases, our principal source has been the last edition of the Dictionary of the Academy; the Grammaire des Grammaires has been our guide throughout; for the selection of words we have consulted many vocabularies—that of Mr. POPPLETON has appeared to us to be the most complete.

A RONDEAU.

The French Rondeau consists of thirteen lines. The burden, or refret, should be placed after the eighth line, and also at the end, and should contain one or more of the words of the first line. It should also have a connected sense with what precedes, and be introduced delicately.

*Ma foi, c'est fait de moi, car Isabeau
M'a conjuré de lui faire un Rondeau :
Cela me met en une peine extrême.
Quoi treize vers, huit en eau, cinq en eme !
Je lui ferais aussi-tot un bateau.

Faisons-en huit en invoquant Brodeau,
Et puis mettons par quelque stratagème,
Ma foi, c'est fait.*

Si je pouvais encore de mon cerveau
Tirer cinq vers, l'ouvrage serait beau :
Mais cependant me voilà dans l'onzième,
Et si je crois que je fais le douzième,
En voilà treize ajustés en niveau.
Ma foi, c'est fait.

'Tis done with me, for my fair Isabeau
Has called upon me for a French Rondeau.
This task imposes on me pain extreme :
Eight lines must rhyme with eau, and five with eme.

I'd sooner build for her a huge bateau.
Yet here are five lines in well ordered row :—
To eke out eight, I must invoke Brodeau,
And then, resorting to some stratagem,
'Tis done, my Isabeau.

From my exhausted brain could I make flow
But five lines more, the thing would really go;
I'm in the line eleventh it would seem,
And could I reach the twelfth, I'd surely deem
'The whole arranged precisely 'comme il faut.'
'Tis done, my Isabeau.
